STRONG MEN SOUGHT OUT

WAS FORMED ON JULY 13

Ministry Was Strengthened by the Assistance of Delcasse and Clemenceau When the War Began.

PARIS, Aug. 26.—The Ministry headed by Premier René Viviani resigned tonight.

Another Cabinet was immediately formed.

Premier Viviani visited the Elysée Palace at 10:15 P. M., and notified President Poincaré that the members of the Cabinet had decided to resign collectively. He said that he and his colleagues had come to the conclusion that in the circumstances which the country was passing through, the Ministry should have a wider scope and comprise all the best men in all the Republican groups.

President Poincaré charged M. Viviani with the task of organizing a new Cabinet, which the Premier accepted.

He returned to the Elysée about an hour later and made known to the President the composition of the new Ministry, which is as follows:

President of the Council, without portfolio—RENE VIVIANI.
Minister of Foreign Affairs—THEOPHILE DELCASSE.
Minister of War—ALEXANDRE MILLERAND.
Minister of Justice—ARISTIDE BRIAND.
Minister of the Interior—LOUIS MALVY.
Minister of Marine—VICTOR AUGAGNEUR.
Minister of Finance—ALEXANDRE RIBOT.
Minister of Public Instruction—ALBERT SARRAUT.
Minister of Public Works—MARCEL SEMBAT.
Minister of Commerce—GASTON THOMSON.
Minister of the Colonies—GASTON DOUMERGUE.
Minister of Agriculture—FERNAND DAVID.
Minister of Labor—BIENVENU MARTIN.
Minister without portfolio—JULES GUESDE.
Under Secretary of Fine Arts—ALBERT DALIMIER.

Among the members of the new Cabinet are several ex-Premiers and many members of former Cabinets.

Marcel Sembat is a United Socialist Deputy, and M. Delcassé was formerly Foreign Minister and later Ambassador to Russia.

M. Millerand is an ex-Minister of War.

Premier Viviani remained at the Elysée Palace to present the members of the Cabinet to the President.

The Viviani Ministry came into being on July 13. M. Viviani had been Minister of Instruction in the Cabinet of Gaston Doumergue, which resigned on June 2, and was asked by President Poincaré to take the Premiership at that time. His efforts to form a Cabinet were progressing with good prospect of success when Maurice Paleologue, the French Ambassador at St. Petersburg intimated that the Czar was afraid that the Viviani Ministry would modify the three-year service law, and that such a modification might affect the Franco-Russian Alliance.

M. Viviani found it impossible to form a Ministry after this, and gave up the attempt. But after the resignation of the Ribot Cabinet, on June 12, he was again called on, and this time managed to evade the question of the three-year law and form a Ministry which contained few noted names, but seemed likely to last as long as the average French Cabinet.

Upon the outbreak of the war on Aug. 1, the Cabinet called in as advisers Theophile Delcassé, the deadly foe of Germany, and Georges Clemenceau, the ex-Premier and so-called "wrecker of Cabinets." At that time it was said that Clemenceau would be the man to whom France would turn should her armies meet defeat in the early stages of the war.

Alexandre Millerand, the new War Minister, who is fifty-five years old, was a Socialist journalist and a power among the Socialists until he became Secretary of Commerce under the Waldeck-Rousseau Ministry, and later accepted the title of Baron from Austria. By all sections of the Socialist Party these acts were stigmatized as a betrayal of his principles and the Socialist Congress expelled him from the party.

He later became Minister of War, and in January, 1913, he reinstated Lieut. Col. Du Paty de Clam as an officer of the army, from which he had been dropped for his activity during the Dreyfus controversy. This aroused great parliamentary opposition, and led to Millerand's resignation, but it regained his popularity for him.

It was at first intended to appoint to his place, Gen. Joffre, now Commander-in-Chief of the French Army, but in order to avoid any change in the army during what was regarded as a critical period, the portfolio was given to M. Le Brun, then Minister of the Colonies.

FRENCH CORPS LEFT A GAP IN LORRAINE

But Two Others Bridged It Under Storm of Shot—Paris Learns How Reverse Came.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 26, (dispatch to The London Daily News.)—With regard to the unauthorized retreat of a portion of the Fifteenth Corps during the fighting in Alsace, M. Clemenceau explains that the troops concerned were impressionable Southerners, and certain of their officers did not interfere with sufficient energy.

In the thick of the battle these men by their action left a gap of between five and six miles for the enemy to penetrate, and the situation was only saved by the splendid firmness of the Thirteenth and Twentieth Corps, which joined hands under a storm of shot and shell.

"All of this we only know from what we can learn from chance witnesses," says M. Clemenceau.

This dispatch explains recent references to the disgrace of a French corps and the deposing of a General. It also throws light on the French official statement of Tuesday, which, referring to the Fifteenth Corps, said:

"The attitude of the troops was splendid, effacing all memories of their conduct on Aug. 20."

BRITISH SEIZURE IN SOUTH PACIFIC

Sea Captain Reports German Wireless and Cable Station in Carolines Destroyed.

MANILA, Aug. 26.—The North German Lloyd steamer Princess Alice reached Cebu from Zamboanga today with a huge hole in her stern patched up with cement. The Captain said that after leaving Manila he tried to establish wireless connection with Yap, one of the Caroline Islands, but found that the Yap station had been destroyed by the British. While speeding from Zamboanga he was chased by a British warship and barely reached port.

He does not explain the damage to his vessel. The Princess Alice sailed from Hamburg June 25 for Yokohama and arrived at Penang on July 29.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—An official dispatch received here today from Manila reported that the North German Lloyd steamship Princess Alice had put into Zamboanga, Philippine Islands, on Aug. 23, with the information that the German wireless and cable stations on the Island of Yap had been destroyed by a British warship.

When the first intimations of the news of the attack on Yap became known in Washington tonight, there were rumors that the Japanese had captured the island. It was ascertained afterward, however, that this was not correct.

Yap is the northernmost of the Caroline group, and is the connecting link between the German island possessions in Melanesia and Micronesia, through which there is an important chain of wireless stations. It is on the main cable line connecting Shanghai, Guam, and the Dutch East Indies. It lies, approximately, 2,000 miles southeast of Shanghai and 1,000 east of Manila.

Until its utilization by Germany as the principal station of the German South Pacific wireless chain, Yap's chief distinction was in being the home of "King" O'Keefe, an adventurous American citizen whose pearling and trading exploits were famous in the Pacific islands a decade ago.

The little island which was O'Keefe's kingdom became a possession of Germany in one of the many trades between Great Britain, Holland, France, and Spain, which in the last twenty years have re-colored the map of that part of the Pacific.

GERMAN LOSSES 3 TO 1.

Paris Estimate of the Relative Casualties in Three Days Battle.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Thursday, Aug. 27.—The Daily Express Paris correspondent says that it is estimated that in the three days' battle the German losses were in the proportion of three to one of those of allied troops.

AUSTRIA AT WAR WITH JAPAN

Rome and London Hear the Dual Monarchy Has Taken Up Germany's Cause in the Far East.

PEKING, Aug. 26.—Up to noon today the only engagement reported to have occurred near Tsing-Tau, capital of the German protectorate of Kiao-Chau, was an encounter between a German torpedo boat and a British torpedo boat on Sunday or Monday last. The British torpedo boat returned to Wei-Hai-Wei with eleven men killed and wounded. The German casualties are not known.

Letters and telegrams which were received here today from Tsing-Tau said that the seaport, commercially active and bustling in normal times, was virtually deserted with the exception of the Chinese laborers, who were detained by force, and the German soldiers who, from time to time, were seen passing through the streets. With the exception of a few Americans and about forty women, who remained behind to nurse the wounded, all the non-combatant Europeans have left there.

Chinese rickshaw coolies and house servants have almost all disappeared. The servants in the employ of W. R. Peck, the American Consul, who have been with him many years, have remained loyal and are with him.

Air Scout Sees No Fleet.

TSING-TAU, China, Aug. 26.—A German aeroplane went up from Tsing-Tau today to reconnoitre. The pilot failed to discover any evidence of Japanese warships at sea or of Japanese troops on land.

The Austrian cruiser Kaiserin Elizabeth has been dismantled, and her crew has left here by rail for Tien-Tsin.

The foregoing dispatch is from the correspondent of the Associated Press in the City of Tsing-Tau, and seems to disprove the wicely circulated reports that the Japanese and British had made an attack on that place.

JAPAN'S WAR FUND.

Appropriation to be Between $7,470,000 and $9,960,000.

TOKIO, Aug. 26 (Cable Dispatch to the East and West News Bureau).—The Minnesota, on which the German Ambassador is to sail for the United States, will leave Yokohama on Aug. 29 instead of Aug. 27. The war appropriation, which is to be submitted to the Diet, will be between 15,000,000 yen (about $7,470,000) and 20,000,000 yen, (about $9,960,000.)

The Tokyo Asahi, commenting on the report from Australia that the latter suspects Japan of sinister designs in the direction of the South Pacific, says the reason of this war is plain as day in the Mikado's proclamation. It is inconceivable, the newspaper argues, that the country which disavows any territorial ambition would extend its activities to the distant South Pacific.

Referring to the American note sent to Japan, the same newspaper deeply regrets that the United States still misunderstands Japan's true motives, and assures America that Japan will fulfill every pledge she has made and prove worthy of confidence.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—A Central News dispatch from Paris announces positively that Austria has declared war on Japan.

ROME (Via Paris), Aug. 26.—A dispatch from Vienna announces that Austria has declared war on Japan.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—The Japanese Ambassador in Vienna placed his Government's interests in Austria in the hands of the American Embassy today and planned to leave there tonight for Berne, Switzerland, according to official dispatches. The message made no reference to a declaration of war on Japan by Austria.

Infernal Machine in a Box Left for Deposit in Its Vault.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—"An attempt to blow up one of the chief London banks," says The Evening News, "has led to an official warning to all banks to examine thoroughly upon delivery all deep boxes deposited with them.

"A harmless-looking deep box," the paper continues, "was presented at a London bank for deposit in the strong room.

"A sharp ear caught an ominous ticking, and an infernal machine was discovered in the box."

Fleeing Toward Danzig—Many Russian Nobles Among the Lost.

THE HAGUE, via London, Aug. 26, 8:50 P. M.—The military correspondent of the Nieuwe Courant declares he is able to state on trustworthy authority that the Germans plan to abandon temporarily East and West Prussia and Pomerania to the Russians and withdraw slowly to the River Oder, where the main defenses of Berlin lie.

"Germany," according to the correspondent, "appears to have undertaken this measure to give time to her army operating against France to try and deal the British and French armies their deathblow and then to march to Paris, the distance between Mons and Paris being four times less than the distance between St. Petersburg and Berlin."

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 26, (dispatch to The London Standard.)—A panic apparently is imminent in Berlin. Fearing the Russian invasion, wealthy Germans are hastily leaving for Scandinavia, passing through Copenhagen.

ST. PETERSBURG, (via London,) Aug. 26, 10:20 P. M.—The Germans in the Elbing district of West Prussia, near the Vistula River, are fleeing westward before the Russian advance.

Main Army Headed for Posen.

LONDON, Thursday, Aug. 27.—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company from St. Petersburg says that the Russian Chief of Staff announces that since Sunday the Russian invasion of Galicia and Prussia has continued uninterruptedly along a wide front.

"While the Russian right wing was invading Prussia and the left wing entering Galicia," the correspondent says, "the Russian centre, composed of the great bulk of the Russian Army, is believed to be marching silently, but with terrible force, on Posen.

"It is said that German troops in East Prussia retreating in the direction of Osterode left behind them about 100 pieces of artillery."

The rush of the main Russian Army toward the fortress of Posen, in the German province of Posen, if true, is regarded here as the sensational news of the day. It might account for the Germans falling back in Eastern Prussia.

The Russian Embassy is in receipt of telegrams from the General Staff at St. Petersburg which announce that Russian troops now occupy the whole of the eastern and southern half of Eastern Prussia.

The London Times correspondent at St. Petersburg wires that according to private advices Tilsit has been occupied by the Russians.

Russia Has 20,000,000 Men.

A dispatch to The Morning Post from St. Petersburg comments on the excellence of the Russian Army and the inexhaustible supply of men to draw upon. It says further:

"Russia will have no difficulty in finding 20,000,000 men to complete the work begun by its trained fighting forces. Moreover, this is the first time in the memory of men that the Russian Army has taken the field with adequate equipment and a sufficiency of supplies, under officers trained in the hard lesson so thoroughly learned in the Japanese campaign.

"The German opposition to the Russian advance is broken and demoralized. Königsberg, where three Germany Army corps have taken refuge, is so situated it can easily be retained by an adequate force while the rest of the Russian Army passes on into the interior of Germany, and it is doubtful whether Germany has sufficient organized forces to oppose the Russians."

Defeat of Twentieth Army Corps.

The Russian General Staff, in a communication telegraphed to Reuter's Telegram Company by its St. Petersburg correspondent, makes the following announcement:

"Our troops occupied the towns of Insterburg and Angherburg, 32 miles south of Insterburg, (East Prussia).

"On Aug. 23 and 24 in the region north of Kedenburg we fought a successful but sanguinary engagement with important forces of Germans. In the same region the German Twentieth Army Corps, consisting of three legions, occupied the fortified positions of Orlau and Frankenau.

"On Sunday and Monday our troops, facing intrenchments and wire entanglements, attacked these positions, using hand grenades and bayonets. Toward 11 o'clock the German army corps was enveloped by us on the left flank and fled to Osterode, (eighteen miles northeast of Goettingen, in the Province of Hanover,) abandoning several cannon, quick-firing guns, ammunition cases, and prisoners."

In a later dispatch the correspondent says the Russian troops have occupied the towns of Nordenburg, Sensburg, and Bishoffburg, and the railway station at Rothfliess, and that the advance continues.

The Times's St. Petersburg correspondent says that the Germans, who retreated by forced marches after their defeat by the Russians at Gumbinnen, are assembling a part of their forces at Koenigsberg. The German fortified position on the River Angerapp was abandoned without fighting.

"The roads beyond the Angerapp are strewn with cartridges, knapsacks, and equipment cast aside in the hasty flight of the German troops," says the correspondent.

"North of Neidenburg Sunday and Monday there was stubborn fighting in which the Russians were again victorious, largely through their superb use of the bayonet. The Germans here had assembled the entire Twentieth Army Corps in a fortified position. The Russians had to negotiate pits and barbed wire. Hand grenades were used, the Russians finally carrying the position at the point of the bayonet. The Germans retreated toward Osterode, leaving behind many guns, machine guns, caissons and prisoners.

First Army Corps Retreating.

"Meanwhile the Vilna army is driving the First German Army Corps toward Dansic, whence the Seventeenth Army Corps is probably coming to the rescue. The question now is whether the German forces can escape and how long the Russians will take in occupying the territory east of the River Vistula. There they will find strong German defenses. It is reported that the Russians on Monday reached Marienburg, only 25 miles from Dansic.

"The Russian losses include representatives of all the noblest families in the empire.

"The Grand Duke Dmitri Pavlovitch and the Princes John and Oleg Constantinovitch, who are subalterns in the Horse Guards, rode in the terrible charges which will forever be a glory to their regiment and the Russian Army.

"The Novoe Vremya publishes a stirring account of this charge. The Germans held a village whence they were pouring in a murderous fire on the Russian position. The cavalry was ordered to silence the guns.

Charged Straight at Battery.

"The first squadron rode straight at the battery, which, firing point blank, mowed down the Russian ranks. A second squadron followed fast and would very likely have shared the same fate, but at a critical moment the third squadron rushed on the enemy from the flank, sabred the gunners, and routed the whole German force.

"An eyewitness says that the Germans, both men and officers, ran like rabbits, discarding their swords and helmets and even their clothes in their mad haste to escape the avenging horsemen.

"The exploit is that of the Nizhni Hussars, one of the most gallant cavalry regiments in the Caucasus, now fighting at the front. The Nizhni Hussars are famous swordsmen, which is shown by the fact that one squadron cut down seventy Germans without receiving a scratch, and losing only four men by bullets.

Imperial Families Ostracised.

"Military circles are much impressed by an order dismissing the German and Austrian Sovereigns and Princes from their Honorary Colonelships of Russian regiments, and depriving them of Russian decorations. This has never been done in any previous war.

"The Czar has forbidden Russian officers to wear German or Austrian decorations.

"These extreme measures were decided at a special council, held at Moscow as a response to the alleged inhuman treatment of Russian subjects by Germans and Austrians and the indignities inflicted on members of the Russian Imperial family.

"The ostracism demands more than passing notice, because it excludes the possibility of eventual dealings between the Russian Imperial house and the German and Austrian dynasties, and indicates that Russia in no circumstances will make peace with either of them."

Later advices say that in Western Galicia the Russians have driven back the Austrian rear guard beyond the River Zlota Lipa, which runs north and south about thirty miles west of Tarnopol.

Attack on Germans' Rear Weakens Their Assault—French Plans Admitted Failures.

PARIS, Aug. 26—11:50 P. M.—An official statement, issued by the War Office tonight, says:

"In the North the Franco-British lines have been moved back a short distance.

"In a general way our offensive between Nancy and the Vosges makes headway.

"Our right, however, has been obliged to fall back slightly in the region of St. Dié."

"In the north resistance continues. The enemy appears to have suffered considerable loss, more than fifteen hundred bodies having been flung in a very small space. The entire section had been mowed down by our shells, and some had been stricken as they stood in the attitude of firing their rifles.

"A series of furious combats has been going on during the past three days in the whole region, which were generally to our advantage.

"There has been no outstanding feature in the Wavre district where the opposing forces seemed to be recovering after the battle of the last few days.

"A decree will be published tomorrow, authorizing special promotion of officers for the period of the war, regardless of seniority.

"Gen. Galleani has been appointed commander of the Army of Paris, and Military Governor. The ex-Governor Gen. Michael, with praiseworthy self-denial, has asked for a command under Gen. Galleani."

No announcement was made by the War Office in the morning, nor did it issue its usual early evening statement. No reason for this lack of announcement was given.

Unofficial military opinion during the day was that fighting continued along the French-Belgian frontier. Quiet confidence was prevalent that the Allies would hold off the German attack, and take the offensive when the proper hour arrived.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—This statement was given out by the official press bureau this afternoon:

"It is officially announced that on Aug. 25, (Tuesday,) the French, on their southern frontier, were attacked in force by the Germans.

"The attack was repulsed and the enemy retired all along the line."

A Havas Agency dispatch from Paris early this morning said:

"The situation in the Vosges is unchanged. The battle continues in the region of Luneville and the French troops are making progress.

"On the Luxemburg frontier and in the district of the Sambre River several unimportant engagements have occurred. The situation in the northern districts gives no cause for anxiety.

"No Germans were seen today (probably Tuesday) in the neighborhood of Lille or Tourcoing (Department of the Nord), where measures have been taken with a view to subsequent operations."

The French offensive continues in Lorraine, according to a Paris Reuter dispatch. The Germans have suffered heavy losses. The battle continues in the North.

General Attack Is Near—Big Battle in Lorraine.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Thursday, Aug. 27.—The Daily Mail says this morning:

"The German flank move around the Allies' left is probably a prelude to a general attack in force all along the allied line.

"In the allied centre there has been fighting between Mezieres and Verdun, where the French have seized the outlets from the difficult wooded Ardennes country.

"The French Sixth Corps is officially stated to have distinguished itself, displaying great dash.

"They repulsed the German attack and have driven the Germans back all along the line, gaining a good deal of ground.

"The Fifteenth French Corps, a division of which showed some weakness in the earlier fighting, has completely retrieved its reputation by fine behavior.

"This is of extreme importance, because it shows that the French troops thoroughly maintain their morale and have not been disheartened by the recent checks."

"The Cologne Gazette states that in the battle in Lorraine 300,000 men were engaged on each side, the greatest number yet engaged in the history of the world."

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

OSTEND, Aug. 26 (Dispatch to The London Daily Telegraph).—There can be no doubt that the fan-like movement that preceded the overrunning of so much Belgian territory is still in progress toward the western coast, notwithstanding the vast armies massed on the southern line.

FIGHTING ON FRENCH SOIL.

Germans Get Cavalry 25 Miles Inside of Border but Are Repulsed.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Thursday, Aug. 27.—The Daily News, commenting on the statement issued at midnight by the French Embassy, relating to fighting on the line from Cambrai to Le Chateau, and stating that the general impression concerning the engagements is favorable, says:

"Cambrai and Le Chateau are, roughly, twenty-five miles inside the French frontier and behind Valenciennes and Maubeuge, which had previously been indicated as positions to which the British and French forces retired after Saturday's and Sunday's battle at Mons and Charleroi.

"The communiqué is so far unexplained, but it would appear to mean a further retirement of the British and French forces or a development of the German flanking movement which was reported in progress from the direction of Lille.

It is difficult to believe that the Allies have been driven from the strong defensive positions which they had prepared on the French frontier, and in any case as a result of the fighting is believed to be favorable so far, later news may yet bring details of the repulse of a comparatively small German turning force.

A Daily Mail dispatch from Paris says:

"An audacious attempt by German cavalry to raid the British lines of communication has been completely repulsed.

"The fighting took place at Cambrai and Lecateau, which latter is on the British front.

"The German cavalry made their dash in three columns, only one of which, the strongest, was heavily engaged. It was ambushed by French artillery, and, with the exception of a few fugitives, was utterly destroyed.

"The Germans had been reported earlier in the day at Douai, where, it was stated, they were expected to fall into the hands of the British or of the French force which had been sent to protect the Allies' extreme left flank.

"Douai is some twelve miles northwest of Cambrai. The expectation has been fulfilled. The situation is, thus, that the Germans have been badly checked in their turning movement against the Allies' left."

Aeroplane Directs Artillery.

A Times dispatch from Paris says:

"In the fight at Mons, German artillery fire was regulated by signals from an aeroplane hovering over the British position. The signals were made by means of a disk swung at the end of a line."

Summary of War News

The French Ministry has resigned, and a new Cabinet, formed to meet the crisis, is installed.

The French and British forces on the Belgian frontier have again withdrawn before the German attack, this time only a short distance, says the French War Office.

Belgian success at Malines is said to have relieved the German pressure on the Allies' lines.

French success is claimed in the offensive operations near Nancy and Luneville.

The French lines, further south, have been withdrawn to St. Die.

Russian troops are reported sweeping over East and West Prussia in three lines. Koenigsberg is threatened, Germans are reported fleeing from the Elbing district, and the main Russian Army is moving toward Posen on the way to Berlin.

A British and a German torpedo boat have met in battle off Kiao-Chau, China, and the British sustained a loss of eleven killed and wounded.

Diplomats of the neutral Powers in Antwerp, headed by Brand Whitlock, the American Minister, have sent protests to Berlin against the shelling of the Belgian city by a Zeppelin airship.

REPORTS LILLE EVACUATED.

Belgian Officer, Reaching Ostend, Tells the Story.

LONDON, Thursday, Aug. 27.—"A Belgian officer who returned here from Hazebrouck, France," says the Daily Express correspondent at Ostend, "gave me the details of the situation. It was decided Monday not to defend Lille, and on Tuesday the Mayor's proclamation was published, announcing the evacuation by the French troops and the transformation of the town into an undefended place.

"All the gendarmes were disarmed and steps were taken to deliver the city, with all its rich factories, up to the Germans. Tuesday evening all the available treasure was removed. Apparently there were never any great allied forces to bar the road to Lille.

"The more the German Army advances, however, the more perilous becomes its situation. It now has its flanks and lines of communication menaced by Belgians, based on Antwerp, with advance guards at Malines, by the northern French Army, and by the allied masses near Maubeuge.

"All that now is needed is a strong holding force near Arras, which the French have had ample time to prepare.

"It is estimated that the German striking force from Brussels numbered 750,000 men."

"WE GOT IT IN THE NECK."

Says Tommy Atkins, but Also We Gave the Others "What For."

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Thursday, Aug. 27.—Philip Gibbs, The Daily Chronicle correspondent, describing his railway journey from Paris to Boulogne yesterday, says:

"It took exactly thirteen hours to reach Boulogne, the train taking an amazingly circuitous route, meandering through the west of France." Mr. Gibbs continues:

"On the way we fell into many surprising and significant scenes. One of these was when we suddenly heard a shout of command in English and saw a body of men in khaki with Red Cross armlets suddenly run along the platform to an incoming train from the north with stretchers and drinking bottles.

"A party of English wounded had arrived from the scene of action between Mons and Charleroi.

"We were kept back by French soldiers with fixed bayonets, but through the hedges of steel we had the painful experience of seeing a number of British soldiers with bandaged heads and limbs descending from the troop train. They looked spent with fatigue and pain after the journey, but some of them were sufficiently high-spirited as well as lightly wounded enough to laugh at their sufferings and give a hearty cheer to the comrades who came to relieve them with medical care.

"I had a few words with one of them, and questioned him about the action, but, like all British soldiers, he was very vague in his descriptions, and the most arresting sentence in his narrative was the reiterated assertion that 'we got it in the neck.'

"'I understood from him, however, that the British troops had stood their ground well under terrific fire, and that the Germans had been given 'what for.'

"That was not very illuminating for the purposes of military history, but I fancy it describes accurately enough the position of affairs from the point of view of the English Tommy.

"I saw the British soldier on this journey in many unexpected places and adapting himself to his unusual environment with his characteristic phlegm. I saw him at dawn in small camps, surrounded with haystacks and farmyard chickens, drinking the fresh milk offered to him by French peasant women, with whom he seems to have established a perfectly adequate 'lingua Francaise.'

"I saw him looking after the shunting of French and Belgian engines and trucks laden with forage, as though this had been his job all his life.

"I saw him scrawling up the words 'hot water' and 'cold water' above the taps in French railway stations, carrying the babies of Belgian refugees, giving cigarettes to German prisoners, and rounding up French cattle which in one time will be turned into French beefsteaks.

"I am unable to mention the names of the stations through which I passed and in which I had ample time to look around, but at one of these halts I saw for the first time large bodies of Belgian troops. They had come across from Ghent and were crowding into the troop trains, where they immediately lay down to sleep.

"At first sight there was something comical in these tophatted soldiers, but there was really nothing humorous in the aspect of these weary, haggard men who had borne the first shock of the German invaders. I asked them where they were going, and they answered in French:

"'We don't know. We know nothing about anything. What is the latest news?'"

HOW GREAT BATTLE STARTED.

Germans Arrived Before the Allies Were Ready.

By G. H. PERRIS.

NEW YORK TIMES-London Daily Chronicle War Service.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 26.—From the mass of confused details it is now possible to construct provisionally an outline of the great combat in Belgium.

In the first place it is evident that the first Germans to reach the field of action came not from Brussels, but from the northeast. All the week the French had been in contact with flying columns of the army of the Meuse as far north as Gembloux. It seems probable that the battle of Dinant, which has been forgotten in the stress of later events, although it seemed to be a considerable victory, from which the French artillery, in particular, emerged with honor, really marked the end of an attempt to relieve and occupy Namur. However that may be, they have since been slowly retiring toward the frontier, and this movement, evidently prudential, became decisive when the German troops, thrown southward through Brussels, arrived upon the scene.

On Wednesday evening last French troops, including a battalion of the line, Chasseurs d'Afrique, and Turcos, with some artillery, were brought into Charleroi. By Thursday evening the Allies were engaged against increasing numbers of the enemy to the northeast of the town, but the northwest was still relatively free.

The Brussels-Mons railway was, however, cut midway, and numerous bodies of Uhlans were found about Nivelles and Hal. Hitherto Mons itself was not threatened.

Early on Friday morning a column of Uhlans broke into Charleroi. They were made prisoners, but by Saturday all the northern approaches to Mons and Charleroi were swarming with bodies of the invaders and serious fighting had begun.

The French artillery to the south of the town checked the first advance and put the German guns out of action. Four French mitrailleuses are said to have kept at bay for three hours 2,000 men, coming in by the northern roads. Infantry regiments were brought up but not in sufficient numbers to make pursuit possible.

Later in the day reinforcements, especially of Zouaves, arrived. Some of them were engaged in disposing of German incendiaries in the town, while others, crossing the Sambre at Thuin, pursued the enemy as far as Fontain-l'Eveque.

British Repel Six Assaults.

Meanwhile Mons had been occupied by the British expeditionary force and on Saturday morning one could see Mr. Thomas Atkins, stripped to the waist and taking his morning tub. During the morning a German armored aeroplane flew over the town. A French aviator rose and pursued the Taube, and he is believed to have brought it down near the frontier.

All through Saturday night the British artillery, well set on hills surrounding Mons, was engaged without interval. Between Saturday morning and Monday night the British force is said to have sustained and victoriously repelled six mass attacks by different bodies of German troops. That 2,000 out of perhaps 10,000 men should have been put hors de combat during these engagements, to say nothing of the greater losses of Germans, speaks sufficiently of their desperate character.

At many points the battlefield is described as being blocked with masses of killed and wounded, so that the cavalry found it difficult to charge, while the perpetual flight of shells and shrapnel made, especially during the night, a wonderful and terrible spectacle.

It seemed that the British on their side were more than holding their own, but although reinforcements were continually brought forward the position in Charleroi on Sunday evening was much more serious.

Charge after charge was made by one side and the other, while the French and German artillery kept up an unceasing bombardment.

By then the Germans had deliberately fired a large part of the buildings, and the fact that the place was no longer habitable, even if it could have been held, may have been one of the reasons for the decision to effect a general retirement on the frontier.

Allies Retire in Good Order.

While the Allies gradually fell back in perfect order, the line of fire moved southward until the allied army rested upon the base it now holds.

That the Germans had been so far in superior numbers would seem to be shown by the very large area covered by their raiding patrols.

One such body of the Uhlans, coming from the neighborhood of Mons, actually crossed the frontier near Condé, on the Scheldt, Monday evening. All through the night they traversed the neighboring towns and villages and tore up some of the railway.

After overrunning twenty miles of French territory, at about 4 A. M., they were caught and wiped out by a French artillery regiment.

On Sunday morning a similar patrol of German dragoons was caught to the north of Lille. One of the prisoners was found to be Lieut. Ernest von Wedemeyer.

Yet another band of Uhlans was captured Sunday at the gates of Courtrai by a detachment of French horse chasseurs. Their chief officer was found to be Lieut. Count von Schwerin, a nephew of the Kaiser. The young commander (he is only twenty-five years old) had been married only seven months. The officer commanding the French detachment found that the Count's sword was a present from the Emperor himself, and had the inscription to that effect on the blade. The sabre and the officer's belt and helmet were today brought to St Ouen and presented to the wife of the officer who captured him. The sword was bloodstained and its point was twisted.

"Other outpost engagements are reported in this region. Railway communications have ceased between Lille and Tournai, but the latter town does not yet seem to have been seriously threatened.

Three Raids Over Frontier.

The raid from Condé to Bouchain seems to have been conducted by one of the three columns, of which the other two crossed the frontier. The first crossed at Mouscron, making for Roubaix, where it was driven back in disorder in the direction of Douai. The second crossed between Valenciennes and Maubeuge and disappeared in the direction of Cambrai.

In all these cases, as in others, the fugitive villagers speak of the brutal way in which they were treated by the Uhlans, even their women being beaten with the butt end of rifles till they fell exhausted.

These scouting and skirmishing parties must not be mistaken for a serious invasion. It is easy enough for cavalry and even for lightly armored automobiles to move about in the country between Belgium and the railways from Valenciennes to Douai and Lille, but the march of a large army would be quite another matter.

German Plans Unforeseen.

The plans of campaign of the two chief adversaries are now clear and the difference between them is very important in a political as well as a military sense.

There is a good deal of evidence to support the belief that the French military authorities did not expect that the whole weight of the German attack could be thrown upon the track which the Prussian troops have actually taken.

This is a strong statement, for it is supposed to be the duty of soldiers to foresee every military possibility, but the facts, as we know them, are eloquent and unanswerable.

They show that while the violation of the neutrality of Luxemburg, and even the attempt upon the Meuse valley by Liege was anticipated, the destruction of Belgium to make way for the passage of vast armies through the great plain of Flanders toward Lille and Maubeuge had never seriously occurred to any one as possible.

Consider what the German plan of campaign means. The diplomats, the Kaiser included, seemed at the time to plunge suddenly into an abyss. In a few days a trivial quarrel about some miscreants in the little garrison town of Serajevo developed into a European conflagration. The Kaiser with his speech from the palace balcony seemed suddenly to have become demented.

But behind this fact there was another range of facts of a quite different order, the significance of which is only now apparent.

The vast turning movement by Brussels and then southward upon the centre of the Franco-Belgian border could not possibly be extemporised. No doubt it would not have been quite as pronounced if Liege had not maintained so long a resistance, but the Meuse Valley, which is through a large part a narrow strip surrounded by high hills and an almost impossible avenue for large masses of men, can only have played a minor part in the plan.

As a whole this has been fulfilled at it was prepared, and a moment's consideration of that long road from Cologne and Aachen through Brussels and the Dender Valley, and of the masses of transport material necessary to carry artillery, horses, munitions, and food, in addition to half a million men, to the end of a prodigious journey, shows that the plan must have been long matured and ready to be put into execution to the smallest detail at an hour's notice.

A pretext for war was found in a moment of passion, but the designs of war had lain must have lain, for many a long day in some Berlin pigeonhole.

I can think of no answer to this point but the one that the most military of Frenchmen and Englishmen were too human, too much impregnated with notions of honor, to conceive the possibility of such a design.

When the Kaiser quoted Hamlet and Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg (German Chancellor) remarked that "necessity knows no law" it seemed the fairest interpretation to suppose that they were in some mysterious way overwrought. When they proposed to buy England's neutrality their infatuation seemed established, but most people assumed that only a relatively gentle parade across the eastern corner of Belgian territory was contemplated. I cannot find evidence that any one foresaw the trampling down of the western plain.

Horror of Charleroi Slaughter.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

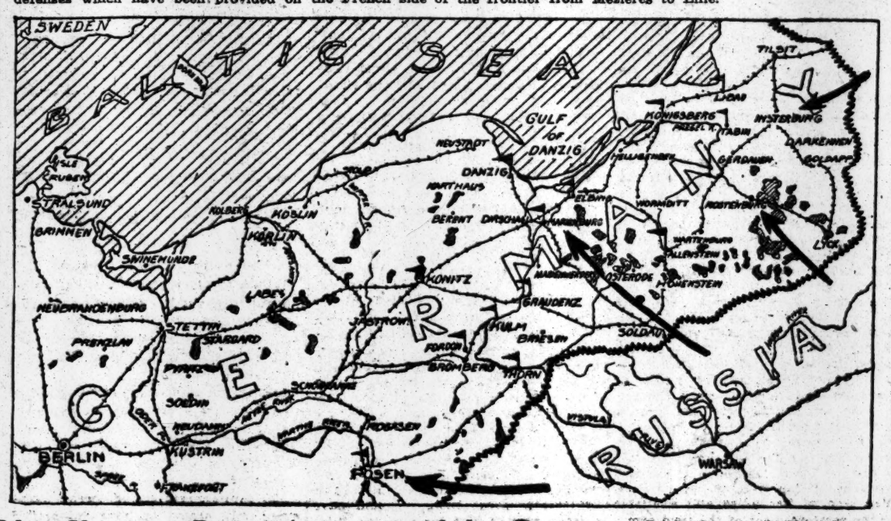

PARIS, Aug. 26 (Dispatch to The London Daily News).—A refugee just in from Charleroi says that the spectacle there surpasses all the horror that imagination can conceive. The corpses of the combatants are indiscriminately piled on both sides of the street. He adds:

"The soldiers are wading in pools of blood."

Western War Area of the Great Conflict.

Judging from the non-committal statement of the French War Office, the Franco-British forces, which have been holding a line within the borders of Belgium between Givet and Maubeuge, are falling back on the permanent defenses which have been provided on the French side of the frontier from Mezieres to Lille.

Germans Taking Great Risks with Their Communications.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

OSTEND, Aug. 26, (Dispatch to The London Daily News.)—I have been testing at points the communication line of the German army, and it is surprising how weak that is. The Germans seem to have gone forward with the idea that Belgium was a beaten country and of no account for the future, whereas, its army really has never once been beaten, and a large part has never been under fire.

If the Allies can hold their own at the front, it is certain that the German communications with their base can be cut at any moment. In fact, it would seem that their army is in the air. It has no supports.

Everything has been chanced on the victory of the advancing army, which has traveled east like a band of marauders.

There is little evidence along their line of that careful preparation for transport, which is considered essential for a modern army. For instance, railway men tell me that little use is being made of the lines from the German frontier, and motors are the chief means of transport.

Then, there is no second line to cover a check to the advancing corps.

The occupying force in Brussels is small and from there to the German frontier there is no sign of any advance of reinforcements.

BELGIANS STRIKING HARD.

Army's Offensive Power Shown at Malines—Rush to Enlist.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ANTWERP, Aug. 26 (Dispatch to The London Morning Post).—Details of the combat at Malines show conclusively that Belgium has an army in being with undiminished morale, capable of a strong offensive.

It was no mere skirmish, as the number of wounded on the Belgian side shows. Without any doubt, the Germans were driven back with horse, foot, and artillery.

The combat began at dawn yesterday, when the Belgian forces moved out from Malines to the south and attacked a German force intrenched between some villages. This German force had advanced from the south during the last three days, and its cavalry patrol had been attacking the environs of Malines.

The German position was along the line of the canal to Louvain.

In artillery work the Belgians showed superiority. Pressing forward, they drove the Germans back, once with a bayonet charge. One gun was captured.

The German losses are estimated at 2,000.

FRENCH ATTACK TOO HASTY.

Paris Newspaper Says So Bluntly—Ardennes Front Holding.

NEW YORK TIMES-London Daily Chronicle War Service.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 26.—The Journal des Débats attributes the lack of success at Charleroi to excess of boldness in the French attack at a point where the preparation had not been sufficiently patient.

Along the Ardennes front the German attack has been arrested and the news from the eastern frontier is believed to be good.

The withdrawal from Southern Alsace is universally recognized as inevitable for the strengthening of the Northern armies.

In revenge the news from Antwerp is very bracing. (Here the censor has cut out a portion of the message).

BETWEEN ANVIL AND HAMMER

London Newspaper Depicts the Position of Germany Thus.

LONDON, Thursday, Aug. 27.—"The Allies in their present entrenched positions are as the anvil to the Muscovite hammer," says The Daily Graphic's military correspondent. "It is good that the concentration of the Allies on intrenched lines within the French frontier is complete, and that the positions thus held, are little less than impregnable." He goes on:

"The Germans will find that their next move against the Allies will be much more difficult than that which confronted them a week ago.

"Gen. Joffre's troops will now be devoting all their energy to a stubborn defensive. They are the anvil. The Muscovite hammer is gathering all its immense force for a crushing blow in Posen. Hence it is most important that the Allies' forces should stand firm.

"The hammer is doing excellently, although the preliminary work is necessarily slow on account of the Russians' lack of facilities for mobilization. Nevertheless the progress, thus far made by Russia, has exceeded the most optimistic expectations and the Germans are likely to pay dearly for their undervaluation of the Russian foes.

"The outstanding fact is that the hammer is well poised for action. If the anvil only stands firm, the enemy must be speedily crushed between them.

"Here is the situation of the three-sided Russian advance: At present East Prussia is in process of being cleared of German troops, while in Posen another Russian army is moving almost unopposed and will soon be within 150 miles of Berlin. Meanwhile, in Galicia, the Austrian troops are not putting up an effective resistance."

SAXE-MEININGEN KILLED.

Berlin Announces That German Prince Met Death at Namur.

BERLIN, Aug. 26, (by Wireless Telegraphy to the Associated Press, by way of Nauen and Sayville, L. I.)—According to an official announcement made here today Lieut. Gen. Prince Frederic of Saxe-Meiningen was killed by a shell before Namur on Aug. 23.

"No news of the situation on the eastern and western fronts of Germany has been given out today.

ROME, Aug. 26.—How Prince Frederic William of Lippe died in the fighting before Liege is described in a dispatch received from the headquarters of the German Army. The Prince's infantry regiment was surrounded by the Belgians under the walls of Liege and he was struck by two bullets while standing among his men. The bullets took effect in the Prince's neck and chest and he died instantly.

The dispatch from Berlin clears up the previous reports received here stating that an uncle of Emperor William had been killed in battle. The identity of the German nobleman who had lost his life before the siege of Namur had been uncertain up to the time that this dispatch was received. One report from Paris stated that it was Prince Albert of Schleswig-Holstein.

Prince Frederic Jean Bernard Hermann Maurice was the third son of the late Duke George of Saxe-Meiningen and Hildbroughausen, the youngest child of the Duke's second marriage with the Princess of Hohenloe-Langenbourg. The Prince was a Prussian Lieutenant General, commanding the Twentieth Brigade of Field Artillery, attached to the Sixth Infantry Regiment of Thuringia. He was also a Chevalier of the Order of Crancelin.

Prince Frederic was born on Oct. 12, 1861, at Meiningen. On April 25, 1889, he married Adelaide, the Countess, and later Princess of Lippe, who is a sister of Leopold IV., Prince of Lippe. The couple had six children, the eldest, Princess Carola Feodora, being the wife of the Grand Duke William Ernest of Saxony. Of the other children, two are daughters and three are sons, the youngest, Prince Bernard, being only 18 years old. The two older sons, Prince George and Prince Ernest, are Lieutenants in the Thuringian Regiment.

BELGIAN PRINCE IS KILLED.

Georges de Ligne Had Joined the Army as a Volunteer.

LONDON, Thursday, Aug. 27.—An Amsterdam dispatch to The Post says:

"The Belgian Legation at The Hague announces that Prince Georges de Ligne, who joined the Belgian colors as a volunteer, has been killed; also that Count Vanderburgh, a Lieutenant in the Third Regiment, Belgian Lancers, was killed in the fighting near Diest."

Prince Georges Alexandre Lamoral is the second son of the late Prince Edouard and a cousin of the ruling Prince. He was 34 years old.

NEW GERMAN LIST OF LOSSES.

It Includes 885 Killed and Wounded —Baron von Schoen a Volunteer.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—A dispatch to The Daily Mail from Copenhagen says:

"The seventh list of German casualties, consisting of 885 killed and wounded, including thirty-three officers, has been published. The general staff says that the places and times of the casualties will not be published until later.

"German Socialist papers publish daily extremely patriotic articles. The Vorwärts says:

"'It must be every Socialist's duty to fight to the last drop of his blood for Germany's existence.'

"Many of the Socialist leaders have joined the army as volunteers.

"Among the German volunteers is Baron von Schoen, recently Ambassador in Paris. He has been appointed Colonel. He is 69 years of age."

BATTLE AT MALINES IS FIERCELY FOUGHT

Germans Reattacking, Dead Piled Up in City—Assailants Push On Toward Antwerp.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 26, (Dispatch to The London Daily Chronicle.)—A terrific battle has been raging all day. Apparently the Germans want at all hazards to get the Belgians back into Antwerp, and they continue sending fresh troops from the east.

The Belgians have kept the Germans at bay at Malines on the southern side of the canal that forms the boundary.

Yesterday the Germans were repulsed but they made another attack today. At several places dead bodies are piled to the height of five and six feet.

The greater part of Malines is destroyed and the Belgians themselves blew up part of the town to enable the fort to use its guns effectively.

The wounded have been brought across the river, and from there conveyed by trains and road ambulances to Antwerp, whither all the civil population of Malines has already fled.

BELGIANS HARRY GERMANS.

Move from Antwerp Helps the Allies by Diverting Foe.

LONDON, Thursday, Aug. 27.—This official announcement has been issued at Antwerp, according to the Reuter correspondent there:

"The Belgian operations have succeeded in the double object of diminishing the German intrenchments and drawing the German troops on the line between Malines and Brussels, and thus reducing the pressure on the French positions.

"We have compelled the Fourth German Division, which was advancing southward, to retrace its steps.

"The Fourth Belgian Division at Namur has fulfilled its task, arresting the German column and allowing the Belgians to retire on the French line.

"The Namur forts are still holding out."

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 26 (via London).—The Telegraf's Antwerp correspondent wires that fighting was resumed this morning near Malines, where the Belgians have been engaged daily with German advance troops.

"The road from Malines toward Vilvorde, six miles northeast of Brussels," the correspondent adds, "is littered with bodies of men and horses, while in the fields pasturing cattle have been killed by shrapnel. The Belgians captured one field gun.

"Everything in Brussels is going on the same as before the German occupation."

The correspondent says it is reported that the Duke of Brunswick, who married Princess Victoria Luise, daughter of Emperor William, has occupied the royal palace at Laeken, near Brussels.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—An Antwerp dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company says that the Belgian operations beyond Malines were continued throughout last night.

The Belgian forces succeeded in destroying defensive works constructed by the Germans.

The Burgomaster of Ghent, says the Reuter correspondent there, has issued a proclamation requesting that all flags be taken down and prohibiting public balls and music as not being in harmony with the national calamity.

The Civil Guards, who have been recalled to the colors, were sent by special train to Bruges, near which Uhlans had been seen, and drove the Germans off.

PARIS, Aug. 26.—A dispatch to the Havas Agency from Antwerp says that King Albert is at the Belgian army headquarters, which has been established at Malines, (13 miles from Brussels.)

Two Saxon Princes, the correspondent adds, have installed themselves in the Royal Château at Laeken, (a suburb of Brussels.)

NEXT STRUGGLE IS VITAL.

London Weighs Allies' Chances of Repelling Second Attack.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—The Daily Standard's military correspondent, in explaining the lack of news of active operations on the fighting line, says:

"When the British withdrew from Mons, and the French from Charleroi, the German effort had spent itself, owing to the heavy punishment it had received. Since that moment the German offensive has ceased, and we may conclude that the enemy has been forced to rest and reorganize his troops and permit them to accumulate fresh physical and moral energy. When this has been done the second great blow will be struck, and the delay which precedes the striking of it will be the measure of cost of the first one, for every day that goes by doubles the value of time to Germany.

"The next question is whether the second blow will be more effective than the first. I venture to think the answer is in the negative. We are entitled to think the resistance which the Allies will be able to offer will be more formidable than before. We must conclude that the Allies will be stronger in numbers and position when they are called upon to meet the second German effort, and that the Germans, in any case, will be unable to increase the volume of their force. At the same time the blow may be more formidable because it will be even more desperate. With the sands of time running out, and with the Russians almost treading on their heels decisive victory over the French and British is imperative.

"Therefore, I think the second blow is at least as much to be dreaded as the first, and that the Allies will need all their skill, courage, and fortitude to meet it. If it should fall disastrously the end of the war would be in sight, but if it should succeed a long, terrible, and costly struggle would lie before us."

REFUGEES FLOCK TO PARIS.

Some from French Frontier, Others from War-Wasted Belgium.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 26.—As I went home along the boulevards early this morning a procession of large touring motor cars passed, crowded with country people, most of them bareheaded women, who in these strange circumstances were getting their first view of what in the long ago days of peace was called "gay Paree."

They were refugees from the northern frontier, which is only 120 miles away, the first drops of a pitiful stream that has mounted steadily throughout the day. Besides the thousand or more of those fugitives who already have arrived there are Belgians flying from their ruined homes in the firing line. These have been mercifully taken in charge by the French authorities. For the most part they are old men and women, young women with babies in arms or children clinging to the skirts of their mothers.

Generally these martyrs of war are dumb as if frozen with fright, and it is only here and there that one can be found calm and intelligent enough to give a clear narrative of his adventures to the kind guardians, who are looking after them at Cirque de Paris and other places, happily prepared for them.

Through their broken sentences you may see something of the havoc and horror of the land invaded. You see the headlong escape from burning villages in the night, a terror of the unknown, which is even worse than in the daytime.

In despair of this random exodus all ordinary distinctions are lost, for all are paupers now, and the petty decorations of normal life are useless. There is no more gentleman and workman, Protestant and Catholic, Fleming and Walloon. There are only martyrs of war, filled with fear.

REPORT TO FRENCH EMBASSY.

Paris Foreign Office Sends Summary of Its War News.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26. — The French Embassy today received this dispatch from its foreign office, dated yesterday:

"The movement begun yesterday by the Commander in Chief has been followed all day with the greatest method, and the enemy is unable to stop it.

"It is confirmed that the army corps of the Prussian Guard was much exhausted. The Prussian Guard was attacked terrifically by the Algerians and suffered great loss.

"The Prussian attack against Nancy was unsuccessful.

"The Belgians, coming from Emberse, have been able by an energetic offensive movement to recapture Malines and to push back the Germans to Vilvorde.

"The Russians are following with great energy their move in Galicia, and routed a cavalry division.

"The Serbs have routed the Austrians from Chibets and their own territory.

18-HOUR FIGHT AT TOURNAI.

French Finally Put the German Force to Flight.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—A Reuter dispatch from Ghent says:

"A violent combat raged at Tournai (southwest of Brussels) on Monday, the cannonade lasting from 4 o'clock in the afternoon until 10 the next morning. Workmen relate that the Germans were driven back and that the French flag was flying at Orroir in East Flanders."

THANKS GOD FOR NAMUR.

German Empress Greatly Stirred by News of Capture.

BERLIN, Aug. 26 (via Copenhagen and London).—Empress Augusta Victoria learned of the German capture of Namur by accident, while making a visit. She was greatly moved and exclaimed:

FRENCH CONFIDENCE UNSHAKEN BY CHECK

Newspapers Tell the People Frankly the Result of Three Days' Fighting.

URGE ALL TO "HOLD FAST"

Figaro Says First Announcements "Carried Nation to Overprompt Hopes" and War Will Be Long.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 26.—The tenseness and uncertainty that has dominated the population was relieved tonight by the very frankness of the newspapers in admitting the turn of the three days' battle. "At last we know where we are" is the common remark of one nerve-worn person to another, but doubt of ultimate success has never entered the mind of any one.

The Journal des Debats says: "It is a check. In Lorraine we have been forced to the defensive on account of being outnumbered."

The Temps editorial article, headed "The Powers Still Neutral," says that as Germany is seeking to enslave the world, the existence of neutral nations is at stake, and adds: "Our sought-for result is not yet realized. We failed to out the German forces in two at decisive points."

The Petit Parisien says: "We must have the courage to call things by name. We have received a severe check."

The Figaro expresses the state of mind of the French public in an editorial headed "The Psychology of This War," in which the depression and expectation of defeat noticed in 1870 is compared with the present confidence and determination to succeed. The keynote of public sentiment today is struck thus: "The first shiver of apprehension has succeeded the thought that victory was near."

"Communiqués obviously intended to maintain our morale and strengthen our nerves carried the nation toward overprompt hopes. We said, 'It will be hard,' but the nation did not believe us. It believes us now, but it has not flinched. It, too, received a baptism of fire.

"This battle shows that the war will be long, bloody, and grievous. Sufferings must be borne. Very well, we shall bear them bravely."

The Matin sums up opinion in one line—"The army of the allied nations is perfectly united in faith, hope, and sentiments."

Stephen Pichon in The Petit Journal says: "France remains calm and dignified before the news of a check to our armies, with complete confidence in final success, and resolved, like England and Russia, to accept all difficulties, exhaustion, sacrifices, and sufferings to obtain it."

The Echo de Paris quotes Wellington's words at Waterloo, "Hold fast till death," saying this applies not only to the soldiers but to the nation, which must be firm.

A paragraph in The Petit Parisien says that paper has received information from arrivals from Mons that the British had orders to prevent the Germans from reaching that town. They repulsed six different attacks between Saturday morning and Monday evening.

The opinion is expressed here by military men of neutral nations awaiting permission to accompany the army as observers that the situation is not in any way alarming and that there is likely to be a lull in the conflict for a few days.

The first wounded to arrive in Paris were placed in the big Val de Grace Hospital, near the Luxembourg Gardens, on Tuesday afternoon, where 4,000 beds were ready. They arrived at the Gare de l'Est, showing that they were not from the Charleroi battle.

PROTESTS ZEPPELIN BOMB THROWING—HOLLAND COOL TO ALLIES

WHITLOCK PROTESTS ZEPPELIN ATTACK

Similar Representations to Berlin Made by the Other Foreign Ministers in Belgium.

WASHINGTON GETS PROTEST

Made by Belgian Minister — Renewal of Zeppelin Attack at Antwerp Reported.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROTTERDAM, Aug. 26 (Dispatch to The London Daily News).—Brand Whitlock, the American Minister, has addressed a grave protest to Berlin on the subject of the outrage committed at Antwerp by a Zeppelin airship. The Queen of the Belgians has been urged to leave Antwerp by sea, but has refused. She is doing magnificent work at the Red Cross hospitals.

A Hollander who returned from Antwerp yesterday reports that the city was quiet on Tuesday morning, although the streets were thronged in the neighborhood of the railway stations. Everybody was wearing a favor of the national colors. There was no sign of German troops in the neighborhood of the town and there appeared to be no expectation of an immediate attack.

Describing the Zeppelin incident, the Hollander says most of the people killed died in their sleep. The points aimed at by the bomb-throwers appear to have been the Royal Palace and the National Bank.

The headquarters of the German Army had on Tuesday been moved forward from Brussels.

ANTWERP, Aug. 26.—The Ministers of the foreign powers at Antwerp have protested against the bombardment of Antwerp by a Zeppelin dirigible balloon. Among other damage done was the total destruction of a building belonging to an American citizen.

All lights in Antwerp are out at 8 o'clock at night. The people of the city are behaving with remarkable courage and patriotism, although conditions are nerve-racking, owing to the uncertainty. Antwerp is cut off from the entire country except Malines, Ghent, Bruges, and the seacoast. The only communication with the outside world is through Ostend.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—A dispatch to the Reuter Telegram Company from its Antwerp correspondent says that another raid on the city by a Zeppelin airship was attempted last night. The effective measures taken by the Belgian military authorities, the correspondent says, caused the German airship to retire.

The same news is contained in an Antwerp dispatch to the Havas agency in Paris.

PARIS, Aug. 26.—A German aeroplane fell to the ground inside the British lines in the Quesnoy region yesterday, and the two German officers on board were killed. Quesnoy is six miles from Lille.

BELGIUM'S BOMB PROTEST.

Declares Zeppelin Attack Violated Fourth Convention of The Hague.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—The Belgian Government has determined to make an international issue of the attack on the City of Antwerp by a Zeppelin airship. Formal action in that direction was taken today, when E. Havenith, the Belgian Minister to the United States, left at the State Department a protest contained in a cable message sent to him by the Belgian Minister of Foreign Affairs. The cablegram follows:

During the night of the 24th to the 25th, a dirigible baloon, Zeppelin, has flown over the City of Antwerp and has thrown successfully eight bombs of a great exploding strength. According to an investigation conducted by the Judicial Court, there have been ten killed, all harmless civilians, among them four women; eight have been injured, of whom several mortally. One bomb has exploded over the palace, where the Queen and the royal children are living. The material damages are enormous.

This bombardment constitutes a violation of Article XXVI. of the Fourth Convention of The Hague.

When we went to the State Department Minister Havenith declared that the Zeppelin attack was a war against women and children.

Secretary Bryan said after the Minister's call that he had not seen any such protest. He was not inclined to discuss the matter, but it was gathered at the State Department that no action concerning the Belgian complaint was likely to be taken by the United States.

Article XXVI. of the Fourth Convention of The Hague, to which the protest refers as forbidding such an attack, follows:

"The officer in command of an attacking force must, before commencing a bombardment, except in cases of assault, do all in his power to warn the authorities."

The German Government ratified the Fourth Convention of The Hague "with reservations." But it is not known whether one of the reservations applied to Article XXVI. Both Germany and Austria declined to ratify Convention No. 14 of The Hague Conference entitled, "Declaration Prohibiting the Discharge of Projectiles and Explosives from Balloons." The convention was ratified by the United States, which commits this country to opposition to such practices. It is an open question, however, whether this Government would feel justified in protesting to the German Government. Apparently foreseeing such hesitancy, the Belgian Government has based its protest on the article which requires warning of an attack. Both the French and Belgian Governments already have protested to the United States against alleged violations by German troops of the rules of war with reference to non-combatants.

Reported activity of Brand Whitlock, the American Minister, in officially protesting to Germany, was denied by Secretary Bryan.

PRESSURE STILL ON ITALY.

Attempt to Join Dual Monarchy Would Bring a Revolution.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Aug. 26 (Dispatch to The London Times).—Italy cannot long afford to put off her decision as to intervention in the great war.

Pressure is being brought to bear on her by Germany and Austria, who have made alluring promises, but it has been without effect. The people are against Austria, and to impose upon them participation in the conflict, side by side, with the dual monarchy, would mean nothing short of a revolution in a few days.

Perhaps even before this reaches England four more classes of reservists will be called up and then a reason for intervention will be found unless the rulers of the former allied empires will kindly furnish a reason themselves, which is not impossible.

TAKE VENGEANCE ON LIEGE.

Germans Fire Houses on Charge That Bomb Was Thrown.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MAASTRICHT, Holland, Aug. 25, (dispatch to The London Standard.)—Fresh outrages have been perpetrated by the Germans at Liege. They set fire to all the houses surrounding the Place St. Lambert and the Place de l'Université, two of the largest squares in the town.

The Germans declared that a bomb was thrown from one of these houses and that they must exact vengeance for such a deed, but the inhabitants assert most positively that the story of the bomb is utterly untrue.

RUSSIAN POLES LOYAL.

Joint Manifesto by National Parties Opposed Revolution.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Thursday, Aug. 27.—The Daily News says that, to judge by Russian papers to hand, the response of the Russian Poles to Grand Duke Nicholas's manifesto has been everywhere received enthusiastically. There has been no hitch in the mobilization of the Polish troops, no desertions, and the national parties have issued a joint manifesto cautioning the Polish people against independent action.

"We must not," the manifesto says, "take upon ourselves an active part, but by merely defending our position as an independent people we may prepare ourselves for a better future. The danger consists in temptations, in premature initiative, in systemless activity. None of the peoples taking part in the war will have to make so many sacrifices as the Polish nation, whose sons will shed their blood in three armies. Those, therefore, cannot be regarded as our friends who demand from us a still greater tribute of blood."

These words are obviously directed against those impatient spirits who would like to see Poland rising on her own account against all comers. The manifesto, however, is also directed against the Austro-German blandishments when it says:

"It is obvious that those who have got up their universal storm have least of all regarded our interests, and will afterward want to exploit us for their own sake, as experience of the past has shown. We warn you against this danger."

It is obvious that the Russian Poles could not speak plainer in view of the heavy commitments of their brethren across the frontiers on behalf of the other powers.

In Austrian Poland the Princes Radziwill and Czartozyski, the foremost representatives of the old Polish aristocracy, married to daughters of Archduke Charles Stephen, are in union with the Austro-Polish Socialists, who are doing their best to tempt the Russian Poles to treason. The Austrian Government itself has had recourse to an old trick by forming two special volunteer regiments of Polish cavalry and presenting them with the complete outfit of the old Polish hussars and Uhlans.

It is probably in reply to these rather crude methods of corruption that the Polish parties in Russia have issued a further manifesto, saying:

"Do not lend yourselves to these promises. They are false. None of the invading armies intends to fight for the sake of Poland. Every one of them is fighting for the interests of its respective State, and these States care nothing about us. They only want to use us for their own purposes at this critical moment, and he is a blind dreamer who tells you Austria in alliance with Prussia aspires to restore Poland."

RUSSIAN ATTACHE'S REPORT.

Credits Czar's Army with Victories All Along the Line.

Col. Nicolai Golejevski, of the Russian General Staff, who is the Military Attaché of the Russian Embassy in Washington, issued through the Russian Consulate General in New York, yesterday, the following communication in which he gave further details of the advance of the Russian armies that are now invading Germany and Austria-Hungary:

"In Eastern Prussia on Aug. 24 the line of the River Angerapp, although fortified for defense, was abandoned by the enemy, without an attempt to offer resistance. Insterburg and Angerburg are occupied by the Russian troops. The enemy has retreated in great disorder, partly toward Koenigsburg, partly toward Rastenburg. From the front Ortelsburg-Soldau the Russians are gradually advancing, the enemy retiring to Osterode and leaving several guns, machine guns, ammunition wagons and prisoners.

"On the left bank of the River Vistula the enemy retired from the line Plock-Lentchitza, but further to the south his detachment, yet undisturbed by the Russian advance, retained in their hands Lodz, Petrokoff, Konsk, Random and Opatoff.

"In Galicia the enemy, on Aug. 23, advanced his left to the line of Annapol-Zamostie-Kamorow; while on their right the Austrians are falling back before our advance. On the evening of Aug. 23 the Russians took Tarnopol and strengthened their positions on the River Sered, affluent of the River Dniester.

"On Aug. 24 the Commander in Chief reported to his Majesty an account of a brilliant encounter of a squadron of the Nijagorodski Dragoon Regiment, which attacked a detachment of German scouts of 70 picked men, under the command of an officer. Six Germans were taken prisoners, the rest were killed. The Russian Dragoons had four men slightly wounded by the enemy's bullets, but none of our men was even touched by the enemy's sabres.

"The Servian Army continued to be invariably successful. From the beginning of the war, the Servians have captured 43 guns, 6 howitzers, 96 ammunition wagons, four field hospitals, a field bakery, and a large quantity of clothing, shoes and horses.

"There is no definite news from the western front of the Germans."

AUSTRIA LOST 16,000 IN BATTLE OF DRINA

Great Four Days' Fight Is Described as a "Decisive Disaster."

Servians Take Thousands of Prisoners and Quantities of Supplies —Austrian Commander Slain.

ROME, Aug. 26.—The Secolo, in a special dispatch from Nish, says that reports from the Camps at Losnitza and Schabatz confirm earlier brief messages that the battle waged in that district from Aug. 17 to 21 was a decisive disaster for the Austrian army. The Austrian prisoners, of whom there were 8,000, said that the Servian reconquest of the towns mentioned was wholly unexpected.

The Servian losses during the first two days' battle were considerable, but as soon as the Servians gained the upper hand the Bosnian troops turned and fled in the wildest disorder, abandoning a large number of cannon, machine guns, the camp hospitals, military ovens, motor cars, wagons, ammunition, stores, and victuals.

Gen. Siborsky, commanding a reserve regiment, who also commanded the Twenty-eighth Regiment, was among the killed. The last named regiment was one of four which were utterly wiped out. No fewer than 20,000 Austrians were wounded. When the Servians reoccupied Schabatz a big war booty awaited them in the abandoned forts. Nine Austrian gunboats were sunk. Not an Austrian soldier now remains on Servian territory. The Corriere della Sera published today a message from a correspondent at the Servian army headquarters saying that the Austrian offensive was regarded as completely paralyzed. Many Austrian wounded and prisoners of war had been taken to Nish, where 800 disabled Servians also were sent.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—A dispatch from Paris to Reuter's Telegram Company says:

"The losses of the Austrians in the battle of the Drina continue to grow, according to telegrams from Nish. The latest aver that out of 300,000 Austrians engaged 15,000 were killed, 30,000 wounded, and 15,000 made prisoners. Seventy-five guns were captured."

With the reoccupation of Schabatz by the Servians, says a dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Cettinje, Montenegro, the 4,000 Austrian prisoners have been doubled, 4,000 additional men having been captured between Lossuza and Schabatz during the Servian march to occupy the latter town. The Servian casualties in retaking Schabatz are admitted to have been very heavy.

Russians in Retreat to Lublin from Krasnik After 3-Day Fight.

BERLIN, Aug. 26 (by Wireless Telegraphy to The Associated Press, by Way of Nauen and Sayville, L. I.)—Official reports made public in Vienna and received here by telegraph say that a battle of three days' duration at Krasnik (in Russian Poland, twenty-eight miles southwest of Lublin,) ended yesterday in a complete Austrian victory.

The Russian forces were repulsed along the entire front of seventy kilometers, (forty-two miles,) and are now in full flight in the direction of Lublin.

MANCHESTER, Mass., Aug. 26.—Dr. K. T. Dumba, the Austro-Hungarian Ambassador to the United States, announced today that he had received a wireless message via Sayville, L. I., from the Hungarian Secretary of Foreign Affairs saying:

"The Emperor has commanded the Austrian cruiser Kaiserin Elizabeth at Tsing-tau to take up the fight together with the German navy. Diplomatic relations with Japan are broken off.

"The attacking Austrian forces are joining with German troops west of the Vistula River.

"On Aug. 23, near Krasnik, (in Russian Poland, twenty miles north of the Galician frontier,) Austrian forces repelled strong Russian forces and drove them toward Lublin, capturing three banners, twenty guns, seven machine guns, with their horses, and taking 300 Russians prisoners of war.

"Near the frontier town of Nowosselica, in the Province of Bukowina, 20,000 Russians were routed. Several hundred Russian soldiers were left behind and made prisoners. The Russians left war material in our hands."

ROME (via London), Aug. 26, Midnight.—A dispatch from Bucharest says the Russian columns invading Galicia have occupied Tarnopol, an important city eighty miles east-southeast of Lemberg, the capital of Galicia. Three Austrian army corps are said to be opposing them.

LONDON, Thursday, Aug. 27.—The Russian General Staff issued the following communication, dated Tuesday and forwarded by the St. Petersburg correspondent of Reuter's Telegram Company:

"Austrian rear gurds, supported by artillery, attempted to hamper our march on the River Sereth, in the region of Tarnopol, but after a series of fights they were repulsed.

"We continue to act on the offensive. We have taken numerous waggons, two quick-firing guns, and much ammunition. To the south of Gronbeschove we brought down an Austrian aeroplane, killing two officers and wounding a third. Our cavalry destroyed railway communication across the bridge near Kamenka, on the Dnest."

THE WAR SITUATION.

German Strategic Plan—Strategy of 1870—Great Britain Raising Immense Armies.

Written for THE NEW YORK TIMES

BY AN ASSOCIATE EDITOR OF THE ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL.

The allied forces are now lined up along the French border and are being hard pressed at all points by the German Armies. Between the Strait of Dover and Lille they have an undefended gap, toward which a turning force of 70,000 Germans seems to be headed. The line of the Allies seems to be strongly held only as far west as Saint Amand. The plan of action of the Allies in Belgium so far has been to hold back the German advance until they appeared in superior force and then to withdraw to a new line. They have now fallen back to a line that they must make strenuous efforts to defend on account of the moral influence of a retirement in French territory, though a withdrawal to the second line through Amiens and Laon would give them a much stronger military disposition of forces and would permit further reinforcements by their reserves.

This indicates the disadvantage to the Germans of pressing too far the invasion via the Valley of the Meuse River. If the fortresses of Liege and Namur had been captured by surprise, conditions would have been favorable for a rapid turning movement to get in behind the French line of defense and to break up their concentration plans before their armies could get organized. This was the essential feature of the campaign in 1870.

In that war the French attempted to concentrate their army of the Rhine, of three corps, under MacMahon, at Strassburg, to invade Germany. They also concentrated an army of four corps under Marshal Bazaine, at Metz, to assist in the invasion. A reserve army was concentrated at Chalons. The Germans concentrated their first army, of three corps, west of Coblenz; their second army, of six corps, west of Mannheim, and their third army, of six corps, west of Carlsruhe. The three armies covered a front of ninety-five miles between the Rhine and the Moselle Rivers.

The third German Army, under the Crown Prince of Prussia, assembled rapidly, moved south into Alsace, and struck MacMahon's army at Worth before its corps could be united, and routed this army so decisively that it was broken up and the survivors driven out of Alsace in separate detachments. This rapid concentration and aggressive movement resulted in an important success for the German arms only twenty-one days after the first mobilization order.

By their remarkably rapid concentration and invasion, the Germans cut off from the south of France and shut up in Metz or captured at Sedan within a month and a half from the beginning of the war all of the French regular forces, over 300,000 men.

All of the German military studies of recent years have emphasized the importance of cutting off the French field army from the south of France. A German success on the north can only force back the French Army, possibly as far as Paris, leaving the military resources of the country, of her colonies, and of her allies still available for the reinforcement of the field army. The success of the German advance through Belgium depended upon a rapid penetration of the French line and consequent disruption of their plan of defense. The delay caused by Liege and the Belgian Army has broken up this plan, and Germany now depends upon a combat with the completely organized French forces to accomplish her ends.

While the Germans are steadily pushing their advance via the Meuse River and are requiring a strong force of the allies to oppose them, the most important strategic reasons would now seem to call for them to mass their reserve forces that are rapidly coming to the front and to attempt to break through the French line at Mezieres or at Nancy. If the German Army of the Moselle under Grand Duke Albrecht is able to pierce the French centre at Mezieres it will have a chance to cut off the left of the field army of the allies. If Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria with the Army of the Rhine is able to pierce the French line between Nancy and Epinal the whole allied armies will be turned out of their first position and serious losses may occur during the retirement.

The defense of the Allies against such a strategic move by the Germans lies in an aggressive move from some part of their line that will threaten the flank of the German advance. The armies of the Allies must by now equal those of the Germans in numbers. In estimating the strength of the armies at the front allowance should now be made for the presence of reserve armies. It is estimated that the armies on each side have been increased about 50 per cent. in numbers by the addition of reserve corps.

The East Prussian Border.

The Russian advance into East Prussia continues in increasing force, and apparently the German forces are falling back on the Vistula. Reports show that the Russians have sent to this invasion not only the army from Vilna, but also a large part of the Polish army from Warsaw. This early successful contact with the German forces will give encouragement to the Russians and has political influence, but it has little military influence as yet on the general situation. The advance of the Russian Army through East Prussia to the Vistula River will take them much longer than would a concentration on the western Polish border, where Russia could make undisturbed use of her railroads for the rapid movement of troops to the front. Such a move would cause a German evacuation of East Prussia and would leave this district to be occupied by a Russian reserve force much as Germany is now doing in the case of the fortress of Antwerp. While the reports so far given out cover only this East Prussian invasion by Russia, she may also be concentrating her reserve forces in Poland for carrying out the above strategic move.

The delay in the aggressive movement by the Austrians on their Russian border indicates that they have diverted to the French border a larger part of their active army than has yet been mentioned in the reports. Austria can well allow the Russian armies to reach the Carpathian Mountains, or even to invade Hungary, if by so doing the two empires can break down the French resistance. Austria has undoubtedly withdrawn her first line corps from the Servian border. The slowness of the Servian invasion of Bosnia indicates an unexpected strength in the Austrian resistance. The Servian successes in this theatre of operations cannot have important influence on the general military situation unless Italy or the Balkan nations should join the cause of the Allies. In this case the southern invasion would become serious for Austria.

British Armies to the Front.

The latest reports show an awakening of the British Empire to the seriousness of the war in which they are engaged. The home army has a total war strength of 260,000 men, and can furnish a field force of hardly more than 200,000 men. The territorial forces, which correspond to our National Guard, have a strength of 315,000 men. These cannot be sent immediately to the front, but must have a period of thirty days or more for training and equipment. By the end of September, Great Britain should have a large part of this force in the field. Great Britain has mustered 100,000 volunteers, and Earl Kitchener, the Secretary of State for War, has called for more. Such troops as are thus obtained cannot be ready for service under sixty days, and may require longer.

However, Great Britain has strong colonial forces that can be called to the front at once and that can land in France in from three to six weeks. The army in India consists of 75,000 British regulars and 162,000 native troops. Great Britain has 45,000 British regulars in her other colonies. Canada has a permanent force of 5,000, active militia of 62,000, and about 40,000 reserves; she can probably dispatch to Europe at an early date two divisions, 40,000 men. The raising of volunteer troops in Canada, South Africa, and Australia will be subject to the same delays for training and equipment as mentioned above for those of Great Britain. It is readily seen from the above how weak Great Britain is for a land campaign under the present system of national military service and rapid concentration of armies upon the outbreak of war. It will take her from eight to twelve months to develop her military resources and to put into the field an army that can compare in strength with the other important powers of Europe. The important difference between military resources and military strength is obvious, though not wiser character, for an attitude which is unmistakable. They can be found in a sense of wounded amour propre, in the feeling that at the proper time Holland failed in courage, and that now she is in a position where, in dreading a German victory, she would yet be ill content with a German defeat involving the exaltation of Belgium.

Germany clearly is working hard to inflame the wound in Holland's pride. Everywhere I came across traces of German influence and so far as the newspapers and the news agencies are concerned, most of them are deeply colored with pro-German opinion and give publicity only to German accounts of the happenings at the seat of war. A counter-move should be made to all this sedition against the cause of civilization. There is not a single material or moral advantage which Holland can obtain by friendship, open or secret, with Germany, and every Hollander when put to the question admits this.

What advantage is to come from this manifestation of sourness toward the Triple Entente? If these questions were asked in Holland with proper authority and with proper regard for Holland's amour propre probably some benefit would result. The Holland Court has the reputation of being pro-German, but the Holland people in the mass are certainly not. The present position, however, is that their leaders are drifting into an attitude which if not sympathetic with Germany is at least antipathetic to Germany's adversaries.

AND JEALOUS OF BELGIUM

German Publicity Department Accused of Stirring the Animosities of the Dutch.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 26, (Dispatch to The London Morning Post.)—Holland has great fear of Germany and great jealousy of Belgium, and it is evident that the German publicity department, despairing of securing any credence in the world for the mendacities sent by wireless from Berlin, is using Holland as the base of its operations.

This fact, involving the spending of much German money, could account for a few of the baser sort of Hollanders becoming pro-German and abandoning the cause which has become the cause of all the little nationalities of Europe. But it could not account for the general public opinion in Holland, which can best be described by the adjective "sour" toward Belgium and the Triple Entente.

As the Hollanders are in bulk men of integrity and firmness of character, and as few could be influenced by direct bribes to become the creatures of German despotism, it is necessary to search for reasons of a more humanable, though not wiser character, for an attitude which is unmistakable. They can be found in a sense of wounded amour propre, in the feeling that at the proper time Holland failed in courage, and that now she is in a position where, in dreading a German victory, she would yet be ill content with a German defeat involving the exaltation of Belgium.

ENGLISH STILL WAIT FOR CASUALTY LIST

Loss of 2,000 Men in One Battle the Greatest Since the Crimean War.

RECRUITING IS VERY ACTIVE

The 100,000 Men Kitchener Asked for Have Come Forward, but Many More Are Needed.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—The reports in regard to the battle in Belgium where the falling back of the French forces also compelled the retirement of the British, show, from all accounts, that the English behaved with the utmost gallantry. They were unbeaten when the general situation necessitated Gen. Joffre's order for a retirement all along the line.

England has received the news of the loss of 2,000 men calmly, although it is her greatest loss in one battle since the Crimea.

The list of casualties has still not been published, leaving many thousands of relatives and friends worrying.

When the casualty lists are published they are likely to have the effect of fully arousing the British lion. Earl Kitchener's new army of 100,000 is now practically recruited, but thousands of more men are needed, and a vigorous campaign to obtain recruits is being instituted.

The latest effort is the pasting of flaming posters in taxicabs. They are headed "A Call to Arms! Enlist for the War Only." The taxicabs prove a splendid advertising medium.

The British press is vehement in its protests as a result of the Belgian official reports of German atrocities. Some papers call America's particular attention to this phase of the war.

The exploit of the Zeppelin at Antwerp arouses tremendous indignation. America is called upon to bear witness to the depredation of the "Modern Attila."

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—Since the withdrawal of the allied armies to the defenses of the French frontier virtually no news has reached the British public of the military operations in Southern Belgium.

Owing to the difficulty of compiling a correct list along such an extended front, no details of the British casualties, which Premier Asquith estimated yesterday at 2,000, have yet been received.

The announcement of losses, however, only seems to have intensified British determination, judging from the extra work being performed by the recruiting officers.

This tenacity of purpose was further evidenced by Premier Asquith in the House of Commons this afternoon in making the announcement that he meant to ask King George to convey to the King of the Belgians an expression of the admiration with which Great Britain regards "the heroic resistance of his army and people to the wanton invasion of their territory, and an assurance of the determination of this country to support in every way the efforts of Belgium to vindicate her own independence and the public law of Europe."

The Premier declared further that the Belgian Government was taking steps to get the established facts of German atrocities, as related in the statement given out yesterday by the Belgian Minister here, to the knowledge of the whole civilized world.

The opponents of compulsory military service in Great Britain momentarily raised their heads in the House of Commons today, but the Premier reassured them. He said there was no intention of introducing this system. He added, however, that Secretary of War Kitchener needed all the recruits he could get.

It was a great mistake to think, Mr. Asquith declared, that Great Britain wanted only 100,000 men.

FOR NEW BRITISH TAXES.

Legislation in Parliament Gives Wide Powers to Government.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—David Lloyd George, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, today introduced in the House of Commons a resolution as a basis for the forthcoming War Loan bill.

The bill, Mr. Lloyd George said, would differ from previous war loan measures in two respects. First, the actual amount of money to be taken had not been fixed. The sum to be raised would include not only the vote of credit for $500,000,000, already authorized, but the sum by which the revenue would be diminished in consequence of the war. Second, the bill would not indicate the precise method by which the money would be raised. That would be left to the discretion of the Treasury, to be decided according to the conditions prevailing.

Certain English banks which failed absolutely to assist the trade of the country in the present crisis were criticised sharply by the Chancellor of the Exchequer.

"At all costs we must keep the machinery of commerce and industry going," he declared, "and it is for this purpose that the Government came to the help of the banks. Many banks have behaved well, but some have not. It may be necessary to name the latter, but I hope that before this has to be done they will adopt a more liberal policy."

The Chancellor added that he was considering whether or not he could arrange a limited moratorium without interfering with the interests of those who wished to abolish it. He said he had consulted bankers and traders in this connection. Out of 8,000 replies 4,500 were in favor of ending the moratorium. The others wished its extension.

The second issue of £15,000,000 ($75,000,000) in Treasury bills has been another great success. The total applications, which were principally from banks, amounted to over £40,000,000. Those who made application at a fraction over £98 will get their allotments in full. The interest works out at slightly over 3¾ per cent.

The Treasury announcement that certificates would be issued to the banks instead of notes created the hope that this additional State assistance would induce the banks to grant full facilities to traders to assist trade.

Bills were taken rather freely on the market today at late rates.

TOGOLAND IS SURRENDERED.

Germans Give Up Unconditionally After Asking for Terms.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—It was announced officially tonight that German Togoland had surrendered unconditionally. The Allies will enter Kamina tomorrow morning.

Premier Asquith, in the House of Commons this afternoon, read a communication from the Commander in Chief of the forces in British West Africa, saying that the authorities of Togoland had offered to capitulate on terms. In reply the British officer said that the capitulation must be unconditional.

The German colonial possession of Togoland is on the western coast of Africa, between French Dahomey on the east and the Gold Coast, a British colony and protectorate, on the west.

Its area is estimated at 33,000 square miles. The population in 1903 was estimated at 800,000, of which 168 were whites. The colony is administered by an Imperial Governor, who according to current books of reference is Adolphus Frederick, Duke of Mecklenburg.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—Many Americans have enlisted in London in the foreign legion, and have offered their services to the British War Office. They have not yet been accepted.

The legion contains 3,000 men and 200 officers. One-third of its membership speaks English, one-third Russian, and one-third Italian. The Americans who enlisted here are uncertain as to this legion, and many of them are going to Paris to enter the foreign corps accepted there by the French Army.

Paul and Kiffen Rockwell, brothers, young college men from Asheville, N. C., are among those who left today for Paris to enlist. Before departing Paul Rockwell said:

"We came over to Europe just for a pleasure trip, but have made up our minds we want to fight for the Allies. Belgium won our admiration by her game fight. France is in the thick of the fight, and we want to help her out as best we can."

GERMAN COMPLAINT OF WAR NEWS—CLERGYMAN IN THE WAR ZONE

GERMAN SUCCESSES BELITTLED, HE SAYS

Naval Attache Avers That Liege Was Captured Within Six Days of Mobilization.

REVOLTS ALL OVER RUSSIA

Charges Belgians and French with Shocking Barbarities Against Helpless German Subjects.

Capt. Boy-Ed, Naval Attaché of the German Embassy in Washington, who is now temporarily stationed in New York, issued a statement yesterday in which he said, among other things, that the German successes in the present war had been belittled; that despite reports to the contrary Liege was in complete German control within six days after the German mobilization was ordered; that the Belgians had been guilty of excesses committed against citizens of Germany, and that in both France and Belgium German citizens had been maltreated, and that Germany in the present war was fighting against the "barbarians of Russia."

Capt. Boy-Ed also accused Great Britain of having made prior to the outbreak of war a "binding agreement with Russia as well as with France," although this her Ministers had repeatedly and vehemently denied. Germany's fight, he added, was for civilization.

"The Russian Poles," said Capt. Boy-Ed, "greeted our troops wherever they came with open enthusiasm and furnished them voluntarily with the best they could afford. In Poland, in Finland, in the Caucasus, and in the Ukraine revolutions have been started.

"All the Austrian peoples, especially the Poles and the Slavic Czechs, declared in enthusiastic demonstrations that they were resolved to take vengeance for the cruel murder of the Archduke.

"In France and Belgium German citizens were treated in the meanest and almost incredible manner. They were driven out of Paris and Antwerp, and in many cases their money and railroad tickets were taken away. They were then left without the slightest protection to the mercies of the mob. All Germans without means have been transported to southwestern France, where they are forced to do work of the lowest kind.

"In Belgium excesses against German citizens have taken place which should be expected only from savages. Every store owned by a German has been wrecked. Practically all Germans were robbed of their belongings. Many who tried to escape were slaughtered and the clothes torn from their bodies. German women have been stripped, dragged through the streets by the hair when naked, and shamelessly abused.

"In France, and especially in Belgium, the inhabitants have attacked and killed small detachments of soldiers, physicians, and wounded from ambush. The German Consul in Marseilles was beaten by a mob and bottles thrown at him. The German Embassy at St. Petersburg has been demolished. And in all these cases the police made not even an effort to interfere. According to trustworthy reports all Italians have been driven from France, after being abused shamefully.

"Our successes have so far been grossly belittled or not reported at all. Liege was completely in our possession about the sixth day of mobilization. This is a success that has no equal in the history of the world. On the preceding day an attempt had been made to surprise the fortress, with weak forces, which was repelled. Out of this a great and important defeat has been constructed.

"We knew from absolutely reliable sources that the French Army intended to march into Luxemburg and Belgium immediately hostilities were begun. The neutrality of Belgium was first violated by French military aeroplanes, many of which flew over Belgium in an effort to observe the movements of the German Army, without any protest on the part of Belgium authorities."

BRITISH INFANTRY ROUTED.

Cavalry Also Repulsed, Berlin Announces by Wireless.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—A British cavalry brigade was turned back and a British infantry division was routed at Mauberge, in the German attack on the British position in the line of the Allies, according to announcement made by the German Embassy at Washington today. The announcement was based on the following official message which came to the embassy from Berlin, via the Sayville wireless station under date of Aug. 26:

"English cavalry brigade was repulsed at Mauberge. An English infantry division was beaten off. Complete rout of the English infantry division. The Germans took many prisoners."

A second dispatch received today by the German Embassy via the Sayville wireless station from Berlin, under date of Aug. 26, read:

"A French official communiqué, dated the 24th of this month, proves that the French offensive on the Belgium line and Lorraine's frontier was ruined. Reports on Namur described great discipline among the German troops. Terrible effect of the forty-two centimeter howitzers on the forts of Namur not yet known here. Action of the German cavalry near Louvain in the direction of Calais. One Austrian corps attacked two Russian [illegible] in the south of Masonic district [illegible]

Japanese Premier's Message to the American People.

The editor of The Independent gave out last night the following message to the American people, cabled to the magazine by Count Okuma, Premier of Japan, on Aug. 24:

I gladly seize the opportunity to send, through the medium of The Independent, a message to the people of the United States, who have always been helpful and loyal friends of Japan.

It is my desire to convince your people of the sincerity of my Government and of my people in all their utterances and assurances connected with the present regrettable situation in Europe and the Far East.

Every sense of loyalty and honor oblige Japan to co-operate with Great Britain to clear from these waters the enemies who in the past, the present and the future menace her interests, her trade, her shipping, and her people's lives.

This Far Eastern situation is not of our seeking.

It was ever my desire to maintain peace, as will be amply proved; as President of the Peace Society of Japan I have consistently so endeavored.

I have read with admiration the lofty message of President Wilson to his people on the subject of neutrality.

We, of Japan, are appreciative of the spirit and motives that prompted the head of your great nation, and we feel confident that his message will meet with a national response.

As Premier of Japan, I have stated and I now again state to the people of America and of the world that Japan has no ulterior motive, no desire to secure more territory, no thought of depriving China or other peoples of anything which they now possess.

My Government and my people have given their word and their pledge, which will be as honorably kept as Japan always keeps promises. OKUMA.

LINER TAKEN, THEN FREED.

British Held Up by Cruiser Kaiser Wilhelm, ex-Liner.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Thursday, Aug. 27.—The London Times prints a story of the capture of the Union Castle liner Galician by a German cruiser, presumably, the North German Lloyd liner Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, converted.

The Galician was overhauled off the Canary Islands by the German on Aug. 15 and ordered to follow her. German officers later boarded the Galician and confiscated her papers, inspected the cargo, and mustered the passengers and crew.

Two army officers were taken aboard the German ship.

The next day the Captain received a message from the German commander, saying:

"On account of your women and children I will not sink the ship. You are released. Bon voyage."

The Galician arrived in London Tuesday.

The Galician, captured by the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, is a twin screw freighter of 6,762 gross tonnage. She was built by Harland & Wolff., Ltd., in 1900, and is 440 feet over all, with a beam of 58 feet and a depth of 30 feet.

EMBARGO ON HORSES URGED.

Alarm in Denmark Over Large Exportation to Germany.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 26, (dispatch to The London Morning Post.)—Strong efforts are being made to induce the Government to prohibit the exportation of horses to Germany, which never before has been carried on to such an extent as at present. The horses in greatest demand in Germany are of the lighter sort, suitable for military purposes. Several Danish Conservative journals urge the necessity of taking precautions to protect the requirements of our own country.

Germany is doing her utmost to influence sentiment in this country in a pro-German direction. A representative of the well-known German publishing house of Ullstein, proprietors of the widely circulated German journals Morgenpost, Vossische Zeitung and Berliner Zeitung am Mittag, has arrived in Copenhagen with a special recommendation from the German Foreign Office. He tried to enter into intimate connections with several Danish journals here. A rumor, the truth of which your correspondent has every reason to believe, says the representative in question also made it his business to offer coal from Germany at a very low price in return for services to be rendered by Denmark in sending provisions to Germany.

There also are movements on foot to counteract the effects of certain restrictions on free intercourse between Denmark and Germany.

ONE GERMAN WEAK SPOT.

Army Officer Thinks She May Be Invaded from the Baltic.

An army officer, who could not be quoted because the regulations forbid military men to discuss the war, pointed out last night a weak point in Germany's position which may have an important bearing on the outcome of the struggle.

"In my opinion," this officer said, "the English fleet is now devoting its scout ships to the work of clearing the mines from the North Sea. When this has been accomplished Germany will be put to the alternative of either sending her fleet into action, in which event she faces almost certain defeat at the hands of the British, or of interning her ships in the Kiel Canal or other impregnable waters.

"In either event, so soon as the German fleet has been thoroughly bottled a Russian or English force will be landed on the German shores of the Baltic somewhere near Swinemünde.

"A glance at the map of Europe will show that this is less than 100 miles north of Berlin as the crow flies, and the territory, so far as we know, contains no great fortifications. With the Kaiser's whole army engaged on the Russian and French frontiers such an expedition, striking directly at Germany's heart, should have [illegible]

FEW TOURISTS NOW ASK AID IN LONDON

American Committee Leaves the Savoy Ballroom for Smaller Quarters.

CANADIANS OUT OF GERMANY

Tennessee Returning to England—Many German and Austrian Women in Distress.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—The resident committee of Americans, who are looking after their marooned countrymen abandoned the big ballroom at the Savoy today, concentrating their activities in more limited quarters at the same hotel. This action was taken because it was felt that it was unnecessary now to have so much space as no great crowd is gathering here. In fact, unless the pent-up throngs in Germany are all permitted to leave at once the gradual filtration can be easily handled.

There were more Americans from Switzerland and Italy arriving today and a few from Holland. A party of Canadians got through from Germany because the German officials, seeing "North America," stamped on their baggage, immediately concluded that all were Americans and let them through.

Many Americans who came from Boulogne reported that grave fears were felt at that place by tourists, as well as inhabitants, that the Germans would soon make a raid there. They told of seeing British reinforcements being landed at Boulogne. Among the rumors at Boulogne was one that Lille had fallen, which added to the depression. Returning Americans report seeing trains of wounded French troops.

Complaint Against Steamships.

Indignation has been aroused by the canceling of passages already booked by the steamship companies without explanation or redress.

A. F. Martin of the American resident committee told today of the case of Mrs. R. L. Sanderson, wife of Prof. Sanderson, of Yale, and her three daughters, who booked passage for Boston in July on a French liner, sailing from Havre on Sept. 5. On Aug. 25 they were told at the London office that the steamer was full, and the money would be refunded in New York, the London agent giving them the following day orders for $260, payable in New York. They cabled Paris, but received no reply.

H. C. Hoover says the steamship lines admit they are receiving complaints of grafting, but say they are unable to obtain evidence. Mr. Hoover attributes the unwillingness of the victims to make written statements to the fact that the giver of graft is liable under the English law if prosecution is instituted. The American Embassy heard today from Secretary S. Gibson of the Brussels Legation, who got through to Antwerp. All the foreigners in Brussels are well and unmolested. Mr. Gibson added he was returning to Brussels as best he could immediately.

Mr. Breckinridge is expected again in London tomorrow or Friday on the Tennessee.

LONDON, Thursday, Aug. 27.—So many applications for relief from foreign women in distress have been received at the relief quarters of the Resident American Woman's Committee, that an appeal be made tomorrow to the New British Relief Society, which the Duchess of Marlborough, Beatrice Harraden, and other women are forming, to arrange to handle cases of this kind.

AMERICANS PANICKY IN PARIS.

Ambassador Annoyed by a New Series of Complaints.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 26.—The only persons in Paris seriously alarmed to the extent of running about in circles are American refugees. The majority are suffering all the "horrors of war" at the Ritz and other first-class hostelries with three meals daily.

Ambassador Herrick appeared to lose patience for the first time today over the progression of panics that have swept the Americans each time a new rumor gains circulation. He banged his fist on the desk in his private office and said: "I wish our people could be made to see that the French are doing everything possible for us. It is a great courtesy which we should appreciate instead of so many folks kicking all the time and being personally grieved that the war has curtailed their vacations."

As a matter of fact, the Government is running through specials exclusively for Americans from Geneva and not requiring a visé of passports until they arrive here. This is extraordinary when the trains might be needed any day to convey the wounded. Also it might be said that the placing of the French Line boats on the sailing list at the request of Mr. Herrick is not due to a desire to run the boats, when it is considered that every sailor is subject to war service, but to a sincere wish to aid Americans to reach home.

When the Espagne sailed Major Henry, representing the embassy, received a passengers' committee on deck with every degree of complaint concerning the arrangements. Major Henry finally lost patience and informed the committee that if they could not put up with the ship for a week, even in the steerage, they could either take their chances in France or swim. The boat sailed with all aboard.

Women and children arrived at the Gare du Nord tonight from Lille.

GERMAN UNIVERSITIES SHUT.

Russian Students Held at Magdeburg; Americans Reach London.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—T. S. Eliot of St. Louis, a student in the Summer school of Magdeburg University, arrived in London today with a number of students from Freiburg and other German universities which have been closed on account of the war.

"The German officials," said Mr. Eliot, "showed the students much consideration and helped us in every way, but traffic was interrupted by the military operations and there were few trains. Consequently foreigners are getting out of Germany slowly.

"The Russian men students have been detained and the Russian women students at Magdeburg are being cared for in a convent.

"It is unlikely that any of the German universities will open this Fall, as virtually all the German students and likewise the professors are subject to military duty. Conditions are too unsettled for the few foreign students whose countries are not fighting Germany."

ARMORED AUTOS EFFECTIVE.

Used by Germans with Machine Guns—French Urged to Try Them.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 26, (Dispatch to The London Morning Post.)—The Germans appear to have made considerable use of machine guns, mounted on motor cars, and some surprise is expressed that the French Army appears insufficiently provided with them.

The Figaro points out today that years ago armored automobiles, carrying mitrailleuses, were exhibited at the motor salon and attracted much attention. Unfortunately, the military authorities subjected them to tests that were scarcely reasonable. They were called upon to climb steel banks and to cross plowed fields with disastrous results.

It suggests that the French Army could be provided with this motor artillery in a very few days if recourse were had to the country's great manufacturing resources.

URGING SPAIN TO COME IN.

And Press Reflects a Leaning Toward Joining Allies' Cause.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MADRID, Aug. 26, (Dispatch to The London Daily Post.)—For several days Imparcial has been appearing in veiled terms for the intervention of Spain in the European war on the side of Great Britain and France. Last night also the Diario Universal, the organ of Count Romanones, the Liberal leader, published an article openly defending intervention.

The article, which has caused a great sensation, is attributed to Señor Caballera, ex-Minister of Foreign Affairs, formerly the Spanish Ambassador to Paris. The campaign which these journals have undertaken does not appear to be irresponsible, but possibly echoes hopes which are perhaps viewed with sympathy in distinguished circles.

King Alfonso presided over a meeting of the Ministers today, when opinion was expressed favorable to the preservation of neutrality. After the meeting His Majesty conferred a long time with Count Romanones, a fact which aroused considerable speculation.

PARIS, Aug. 26.—A dispatch to the Havas Agency from Madrid says the Spanish Government has declared its neutrality respecting the war between Germany and Japan.

WARNS US AGAINST KAISER.

Post Asks If Victorious Germany Would Respect Monroe Doctrine.

LONDON, Thursday, Aug. 27.—The Morning Post in an editorial article on the neutral States speaks of the German treatment of Belgium.

"It is impossible to believe," says The Post, "that these transactions can have the sympathy of the American people. America looks not at sentiment, but at her own future. A victorious Germany will control the navies as well as the armies of Europe. She would take the African and Asiatic possessions of England and France, if no one was strong enough to resist.

"Would such a Germany be willing to respect the Monroe Doctrine, and would the United States be able to enforce it against her?"

WARNS U. S. AGAINST JAPAN.

Herman Ridder Sees Peril to America in Island Kingdom's Move.

In an editorial in this morning's Staats-Zeitung, Herman Ridder, proprietor of that newspaper, says:

The expected and the inevitable has happened. The great guns of Japan are thundering at Tsingtau. I am informed, from a reliable source, that Germany suggested to Japan the neutralization of the Far East. The advisers of the Mikado referred the matter to Britain, and the Japanese ultimatum was the result.

The Japanese press is now clamoring for the retention of the German leased territory as a prize of war. What a change in a week!

Neither Kiao-Chau nor the coal mines and wheat fields of all Shantung will pay the price to be exacted later by Japan or Great Britain for this local and temporary blow to German prestige.

If Japan succeeds in taking and holding Kiao-Chau she will be able to resume her former policy of expansion, the annexation of all Northern China. If any one believes for a moment that Japan will stop at Tsingtau let him read the story of Manchuria.

Aside from the question of Great Britain's DESIRE to limit the activities of her yellow ally, the sincerity of which I doubt, there arises the further question of her ABILITY to do so, or even COURAGE to attempt it.

I put to Great Britain frankly: Does she intend to invoke the arms of the yellow man of Japan against the white man of Germany? I put it to the American people: Cannot they see in this pronouncement of the Japanese diplomat the loosening of the leashes?

I plead with the American people to open their eyes to the danger which confronts them. The day cannot be long postponed when the Island Empire of the East will call upon the Island Kingdom of the West, and together they will strike at our own land, even as they are now striking at Germany and Austria. When that day comes, we shall turn back to the month of August in the year 1914, and read the first chapter of the catalysm.

Tore Off British Medals Before Ambassador, It Is Said.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—The Express publishes the following, which is not confirmed elsewhere:

"When Sir William Edward Goschen went to say good-by to Emperor William the latter stalked into the room where the British Ambassador was waiting. The Emperor was wearing several British orders and medals on his breast and these he tore off, saying: 'Tell your King that that is what I think of him and his medals.' Whereupon the Emperor marched out of the room."

GERMAN REFUGEES ACCUSING FOES

Assertion That Patients in London Hospitals Were Forced to Depart.

INDIGNATION OF A POET

He Calls for a Whip for German Women Who Gave Chocolate and Cigarettes to Prisoners.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Thursday, Aug. 27.—The Daily Chronicle says that German newspapers print stories of ill-treatment of Germans by their foes.

According to a leading Hamburg paper, The Fremdenblatt, Germans under treatment in London hospitals were obliged to leave these institutions on the ground that the supply of food and medicine was limited, and in consequence foreigners could not be attended to any longer.

The same newspaper is responsible for the statement that The London Post and Telegraph offices are encased in strong wire netting from the streets right over the roofs, and that this measure has been dictated through fear of Zeppelins.

"Germans," it is added, "have been stopped in the streets of London in large numbers, and forcibly compelled by yelling mobs to wear the British colors. Dense crowds, numbering thousands, paraded the German quarters in the west of London, singing patriotic songs and shouting 'Down with the Kaiser! Down with Berlin!'

"Here and there in the Berlin press are curious little items of news which throw a world of light on affairs in the Kaiser's capital. Here are a few, taken at random:

"'The great annual Leipsic fair, at which most of the wholesale buyers of the empire purchase their supplies of haberdashery, fancy leather articles, furs, &c., has been abandoned, owing to the general belief that this year there will be no purchasers.

"'The Corn Exchange and market of Berlin have been closed. So have the exchanges for wool and coffee.'

"German associations and unions for waiters are in despair at the prospect before them. Restaurants and cafés are all reducing their staffs, and it is said that in Brandenburg, including Berlin, there are 35,000 waiters without work.

"'Boys' and girls' guilds are engaged in the arduous work of harvesting, and notices are frequent about the difficulty of finding male teachers to continue the work of education. Prof. Harnack and Prof. Delbrück have volunteered for school work.

"A Munich newspaper says the war enthusiasm of that city is unbounded, and it is stated that Geraldine Farrar, the American prima donna, has presented her two automobiles to the Bavarian Government for use in the army.

"Indignant protests are appearing in the German press against the 'scandalous conduct' of a number of German women, who met a train of French prisoners at Frankfort and other places and gave them little gifts of chocolate and cigarettes, and, in one or two cases, flowers.

"The Lokal-Anzeiger, a Berlin Government organ, has a poem in a prominent column entitled, 'Oh, for a Whip,' in which the poet exclaims somewhat as follows:

"'And you would traffic with the enemy! And you call yourselves German women! You, with your vicious faces! Give me a whip for such! You are women without breeding or honor. A whip, a whip! We will whip them and raise weals on them. They disgrace us, disgrace all that is German. They are traitors. Give me a whip for those women without breeding and honor!'

"The German newspapers up to Aug. 21 contain five casualty lists with the names of killed and wounded. The list most in detail is that of Aug. 18, which apparently deals with the first fighting near Liege. Approximately, this list numbers 650 dead and wounded and 135 missing. The percentage of killed is comparatively small. Severe wounds are out of the usual proportion to slight wounds, owing probably to the fact that most of them are the result of artillery fire.

"Roughly speaking, the four casualty lists published till the 21st account for about 2,500 killed, wounded, and missing."

PISTOL AT DIPLOMATS' HEADS.

Members of British Staffs in Munich Complain of Treatment.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Thursday, Aug. 27.—The Standard says that complaints have been received by the Foreign Office from the members of the British Legation and Consulate General at Munich in regard to the "discourteous and cavalier fashion" in which the staffs of both offices were treated by the German military authorities, all the members being expedited over the frontier at the pistol's point.

Immediately following the outbreak of the war no instructions from London were received either at the legation or the Consulate in Munich, and as a result the staffs of both offices remained at their posts, doing whatever they could to assist their fleeing countrymen in seeking shelter across the Swiss frontier.

For a few days the German authorities apparently took no notice, but on the afternoon of Aug. 19 German officers forced their way into the offices of the legation and consulate simultaneously and, presenting pistols at the heads of the staffs, peremptorily ordered them to leave the building immediately and start at once for the frontier.

All protests were at first useless, but the Chief Secretary of the legation finally obtained the concession of two hours in which the members of the staff might collect their families and what valuables they could carry with them. Most of the staffs had been settled in Munich for a number of years, but they received no time to make arrangements in regard to their homes and household goods.

Punctually upon the expiration of the two hours they were marched under an armed escort to the railway station and placed on a train for the frontier, German officers accompanying them in the railway carriages. As they passed through the streets and on the railway platform they were "booed" and hooted by hostile crowds, and a German Roman Catholic priest was allowed to approach the railway carriage in which the Chief Secretary of the legation was seated and to spit upon the window while shouting abuse, without any attempt by the authorities to check the demonstration.

At several stations at which the train stopped the members of the two staffs were allowed to descend from their compartments and stretch their legs by walking up and down the platform between two files of soldiers with fixed bayonets.

It is added that an instance of the "almost fantastic precautions" taken by the Germans occurred when the little son of the Legation Secretary, who had been eating sandwiches in the train, screwed up the paper which had contained them into a ball and threw it out of the window. Immediately a dozen soldiers pounced upon the bit of paper, apparently under the impression that an attempt was being made to smuggle a message out of the train, and officers in charge of the party sent a curt command to the Secretary to preserve "proper decorum" among his staff.

GERMANY ON THE CHANNEL.

English See an Attempt to Seize Belgian and Dutch Ports.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—The military correspondent of The Times today says:

"We and the Dutch need have no doubt that the annexation of all the North Sea ports from the Straits of Dover to Emden will follow a German success in the war—a success which would only be preliminary to the concentration of all German effort upon the subjugation of England."

The Daily Mail believes that the Germans will occupy Ostend for use later as a base of operations against England. "The German movement against Ostend is of great importance and is dictated possibly by naval as well as military considerations," says the paper.

"Ostend is only sixty-six miles off the British coast. If the Germans establish themselves there and bring up heavy artillery they may render it a dangerous base of operations against England. Airships acting from it could watch the Channel and the Thames and carry out raids against Great Britain.

"From a naval standpoint Ostend is well equipped to serve as a refuge and harbor. If it were strongly held by land several German warships might attempt a dash thither from Wilhelmshaven and Heligoland. They then could carry on a harassing warfare against shipping in the Channel and await a favorable opportunity for disembarking expeditionary forces for the British Isles."

Americans in Munich Safe.

News received yesterday from a young American, who started for Bavaria a few days ago to bring out American relatives, disclosed that, with the assistance of Charles H. Sherrill, Chairman of the American Committee at The Hague, he had succeeded in reaching Munich via Holland. The message received from him said that he had found everything quiet there and Americans in no danger.

ADMIRES GERMAN SYSTEM

Gathering Crops as They Move Along, Just Like Swarms of Locusts, He Says.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—The Germans are eating their way through Belgium as relentlessly as swarms of locusts, according to the Rev. A. R. Williams of Boston, who returned today, after having had many narrow escapes en route from Liege, being several times suspected by Germans of being a spy. He brought out mail from the American Consul at Liege, Alexander Heingastner. Mr. Williams said:

"The Germans are gathering the harvests as they go along. They have also taken possession of the mills so that they can rapidly convert raw products into foodstuffs. They are going about everything with marvelous precision and system.

"I reached Liege on Aug. 20. The American Consul told me how the Germans had come into Liege in the middle of the night, rapping with the butts of their guns on every door to make the people get up. Despite the Consul's declaration that his place was the property of his Government, the Germans made him open his doors and windows, but they did not billet any troops on him, as they did in every other house, and the next morning the officers of the German army came and apologized for the actions of the soldiers on the night previous.

"I had no chance to sleep in any house on the way from Liege, as peasants had been warned by Germans not to take strangers in.

"It was in Vise that a sentry placed a bayonet at my stomach, and I realized for the first time in my life what horrible instruments bayonets were, for I had always thought of them before as spectacular adjuncts of military parades.

"At Vise I also met a German officer who had been a student at Marburg University when I was there. He asked me if I would take two letters to Liege for him, and I did."

Mr. Williams saw two priests near Argentau who were being made the butts of brutal jokes of German officers.

The priests' cassocks were torn to ribbons by sword thrusts, the Germans thinking it great fun to be running blades through the cassocks to frighten the priests.

Mr. Williams says that there is every reason to believe that the Germans have been guilty of atrocities, but the Belgians also have been guilty, principally in firing from doors and windows.

One part of Mr. Williams's journey had to be accomplished by walking thirty-seven miles. He said that the American Consul told him that he was the first American arriving in Liege since the war began, and Mr. Williams said that he had been equipped with only a military pass. He undertook the trip into the war zone for the experience.

HENRY WHITE ISSUES DENIAL.

Ex-Ambassador Never Said That Germany Was Not to Blame.

COPENHAGEN, (via London,) Aug. 26.—Henry White, formerly American Ambassador at Paris, has made a formal denial that he said Germany was not to blame for the war. This alleged statement had been widely circulated on the Continent. Mr. White said:

"It is the duty of every American to be neutral in word as well as in deed. No such statement was made by me. I merely commented upon the excellent treatment given to Americans by Germans. This has been uniformly good, though several Americans did run into trouble. What the cause of this was I do not know.

"I wish to lay emphasis upon the necessity for a neutral bearing on the part of Americans. This war is not their business and they should keep out of it."

German View of Zeppelin Raid.

The afternoon edition of The Staats-Zeitung yesterday took exception to the American attitude with regard to the activities of German Zeppelins, in the following editorial:

It is evident from the cry of rage that has been made by the Allies and re-echoed here that the Zeppelin that dropped bombs on Antwerp fulfilled its terrible mission. The airship has actually demonstrated ad oculos to the world the terrors of a modern war.

That is one thing. But those who are excited about it here, above all our newspapers at Times Square and Park Row, have no right to join in a hypocritical cry of protest. If the bombs were falling on Berlin or Strassburg the matter would be dismissed with the statement that such is war and war is simply hell.

It is, of course, tough luck for THE TIMES and The World, but that is war, colleagues, and war is hell.

TWO REFUGEE SHIPS IN—BERNSTORFF ON GERMANY'S FOOD SUPPLY

TWO SHIPS BRING IN 1,874 NEW REFUGEES

Many Americans Travel in the Steerage Rather Than Wait for Better Quarters.

DOCTORS HELD AS SPIES

Thousands of Tourists Still in Italy Awaiting Opportunity to Get Home.

Two liners arrived from ports of Continental Europe yesterday bringing a total of 1,874 American refugees from the war zone. Many of those who arrived preferred travel in the steerage to waiting for another steamer and a chance of better accommodations.

The Scandinavian-American steamer Oscar II. had 1,104, of whom 170 were in the third class, and the Taormina from Genoa carried 770, of whom 67 were in the steerage. The Americans who came back third class were mostly students, teachers or clerks, who had little money, and were obliged to be in New York before Sept. 1.

On the Italian liner there were several doctors and others, who had been arrested as spies and examined at length by the police. All the Americans on board had the use of the decks regardless of class, but the Italian immigrants were kept in a part of the steerage separated from the section occupied by the Americans. When the Taormina was off Sandy Hook on Tuesday night the American passengers presented Capt. Mombello and his officers with a testimonial for their courtesy and attention on the trip.

The difficulty in Italy for Americans was to get railway accommodations from the interior towns to the seaports, as all the trains are crowded with natives at this season. Hotels were very good in extending credit to stranded Americans, the passengers said. The consulates had lists of names, more than 2,500 Americans being registered at the United States Embassy in Rome alone.

Most of the Americans on the Oscar II. were tourists who were in Norway, Sweden or Denmark. There were 170 Americans in the third c.

William Hitt, who was a passenger with his wife, formerly Katherine Elkins, and his mother, said they were in Berlin on July 20, and decided there to tour Scandinavia. "We left our heavy baggage in the hotel at Berlin," said Mr. Hitt, "and were in Norway when war was declared. I telegraphed to Copenhagen for room on this ship, and got cabins at once. After ten days in Christiania we went to Copenhagen, and sailed on Aug. 13."

Mrs. Hitt said conditions were nearly normal when they left Christiania, but there had been many Americans trying to get home when the war first began. "We had no troubles," said Mrs. Hitt, "and all the money we needed. There was some trouble in Stockholm, we were told."

Bernhardt Knollenberg, one of four Harvard students sent as delegates to the International Peace Conference at Geneva, came home with his sister Margaret. He was in Kiel visiting relatives, Mr. Knollenberg said, when war was declared, and he saw the mobilization of the German troops.

"Germans who have relatives among army officers and who seemed well informed," he said, "told me they did not expect Germany to win in the end as the allies would be too strong. Germany's plan, the story goes, is to strike France quickly and crush her till she will be glad to urge Russia and Great Britain to grant honorable peace."

Dr. Max Henius, who was born in Denmark and was naturalized in Chicago, said that, to preserve neutrality the Danes had mined the Belt, which is the channel between Zeeland and Fahnenland, and the only exit except the Kiel Canal from the Baltic to the North Sea. It keeps the English out and the Germans and Russians in, he said.

Dr. Henius said that Denmark was short of coal for a few days, but an agreement was made with Great Britain to accept eggs, butter, and other dairy produce for coal. Since then Denmark has been well supplied from English collieries.

Another passenger was Otto Ecker, a Director of the Hamburg-American Line, who said he was making the usual trip to inspect the American offices. Although their ships were laid up, Mr. Ecker said there were many office matters to be gone into. He would not discuss the sale of the company's liners laid up here. He said he knew nothing about the matter. As to the war, Mr. Ecker said he was confident Germany would win.

G. Hammerling, who was born in Chicago of Austrian parents, returned from Cracow, where he has an estate inherited a few years ago. A fortress is included in his property, Mr. Hammerling said, and he had lent it to the Austrian Government, with his horses, carriages, and automobiles when the war began. When asked why he had not stayed to fight, Mr. Hammerling said he was an American and did not want to disregard President Wilson's manifesto regarding neutrality. Mr. Hammerling is President of the American Association of Foreign Language Newspapers.

Capt. J. Hempel said the Oscar II. went north of the Shetland Islands and had an uneventful trip. The only ship that challenged her was the British cruiser Essex, off Fire Island.

Among the Americans in the Taormina's steerage were three Bronx doctors—John Riegelman, Coroner's Physician, Edward Corbett, and John W. Fineke. Dr. Riegelman, speaking for the party, said:

"We left here in June, and were in Austria when war was declared against Servia. Friends advised us to go to Germany. When we crossed the frontier we were taken to the police station at Kaufstein, where our cameras were seized and the films developed by a local photographer. Among the pictures was a snapshot of a German fortress which had been taken on the way to Austria, and this caused us serious trouble. The German officials insisted that we were English, and unless we could prove that we were American citizens we were liable to be sent to prison. We had no passports, and they would not send for the American Consul, so we had to stay at the police station all night. Next morning the American Consul called on the commandant and we were put on a car guarded by soldiers and sent with a military train to Lindau. After a tedious railway journey of about two days we arrived at Genoa."

J. William Baxter of 353 West Eighty-fifth Street and Walter Lane of 119 West Fortieth Street were in Switzerland on their way to Genoa in an automobile which they had hired in France. At Lucerne the chauffeur went away with his car and left them stranded. Finally they managed to get a train to their destination. Mr. Baxter said the trains were jammed with Italians ordered out of Switzerland by the Government.

Prof. Arthur K. Kuhn of Columbia Law School, who had been lecturing in Switzerland, was also a passenger.

"Switzerland will suffer much by the war," he said, "even if she is not drawn into the conflict, because the country is absolutely dependent upon the outside world for her supplies. At Domodossula on the Swiss-Italian frontier I saw 20,000 Italians, all expelled from Switzerland, trying to get home. The expulsion was necessary on account of the short food supply. There is no chance of Italy remaining with the Triple Alliance, and she is just as sure to be drawn into the war. It is only a question of a short time now."

REFUGEES DROP CRITICISM.

Party from Italy Converted by Secretary Bryan's Representative.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—The committee of passengers appointed by the American refugees who arrived in New York this week from Genoa on the chartered steamship Principe di Udine to protest to the United States Government against the Government's alleged neglect of Americans abroad, since the beginning of the European war, has made a statement to the Government Relief Committee modifying its criticism and expressing satisfaction with what has been done for relief by the executive departments in Washington.

The committee appointed by the passengers of the Principe di Udine asked the State Department to send to New York a representative to whom they would submit a great number of instances of gross neglect and also of dire need. Secretary Bryan sent Wilbur J. Carr, Director of the Consular Service, and he met with the members of the passengers' committee last night at the Hotel Biltmore.

Mr. Carr showed what had been done by the Government in sending millions of gold to Europe on the armored cruisers Tennessee and North Carolina, and the expeditious and effective relief supplied, and the passengers' committee adopted the following statement, which was forwarded to the Relief Committee today:

The committee appointed by the Americans who returned from Genoa yesterday by the specially chartered steamer Principe di Udine met today at the Hotel Biltmore with Wilbur J. Carr, Director of Consular Service of the Department of State, and discussed with him the conditions prevailing among Americans left in the southern part of Europe, particularly in Italy. They gave Mr. Carr all the information in their possession, and he answered them in detail the steps that had been taken, and were being taken, by the Departments of State, Treasury, War, and Navy, to relieve American citizens traveling in Europe at the outbreak of the war.

The members of the committee joined in the unanimous and hearty expression of appreciation of what the departments had done and are doing, and expressed complete satisfaction with it.

The committee conveyed through Secretary Bryan and the heads of the departments named their appreciative thanks and congratulations on the work accomplished.

The meeting of the Relief Committee today was occupied with reports of the progress of the work of the war and the Treasury details sent abroad with gold for marooned American travelers in the different war stricken countries. All reports showed, it was announced, that the work was being done promptly and completely.

A statement is being prepared for publication to satisfy relatives and friends that Americans in Europe are in no danger and that provision has been made for their comfort. No steps were taken to send transports or steamships to bring home travelers as the reports indicate that there are steamships enough running to meet all demands. But the transports are being made ready to be used if there should be occasion.

Secretary Bryan announced today that the State Department had received a cable memorandum from the American Ambassador at Rome reporting that the present situation did not require the sending of transports to Italy.

American Consul Heaton W. Harris at Frankfort-on-Main, Germany, has sent this dispatch to the State Department, under date of Aug. 24:

"The Emersons, Synders, Talmages, and many others left comfortably for Holland. This region is not in a military zone. There is no evidence of danger, but a widespread desire to return to the United States and a stampede for transports. Information, &c., taxing us far beyond resources. But few cases actual distress and Consul will assist these."

22,000 WAIT IN SWITZERLAND.

Personal Messages Show Conditions Are Easy There.

The number of American tourists stranded in Switzerland is now estimated at more than 20,000 by the authorities and relief committees over there, according to postcards and letters received yesterday from relatives of a member of the staff of THE NEW YORK TIMES. One of these messages, dated Aug. 6, from the Hotel Touriste, Interlaken, reads:

"We yesterday joined the American Association, which is forming here, but we haven't been able to get forms—not yet printed—to apply for our passport equivalents. We can get our express checks cashed, but lose twenty-five cents on each $10. People who have other forms of money are in a predicament, but the hotel keepers are very courteous and trust them to pay their bills. We are told arrangements are to be made to take us through France or Germany. There are 22,000 United States citizens in Switzerland. We are very comfortable—all five together, fortunately. We can't take trips, of course, so will stay here with our American Association."

PROTEST AGAINST SHIPS.

Doubtful Sailings Advertised—Relief Bureau at The Hague.

ROTTERDAM, Aug. 26, (via London.)—The steamship Rotterdam will sail with almost 3,000 Americans on Saturday.

The American Consul General at this port, Soren Listoe, has been endeavoring to prevent the advertising by small steamship concerns here of alleged steamship accommodations for stranded Americans. These concerns plan to put as many as 250 passengers on a 4,000-ton vessel not built for passenger traffic. Dr. Henry van Dyke, the American Minister, has made representations to the Government on this score.

There has been no great influx of Americans in the last four days, but it is believed that thousands will arrive from Germany as soon as the Berlin relief bureau makes possible the cashing of drafts. Men familiar with the situation express the opinion that more steamers should be provided for the purpose of transporting these people. This probably would necessitate the chartering of special steamers.

It is impossible here to obtain an accurate figure as to the number of Americans on the Continent. A fair estimate is thought to be 15,000 to 20,000.

THE HAGUE, Aug. 20, (via London.)—A bureau for the relief of Americans has been established at the Legation here. Capt. Richard H. Williams of the Coast Artillery is in charge. The bureau will look after the destitute Americans and those who are unable to cash drafts.

Capt. Williams returned last night from Antwerp where he took money to Consul Henry W. Diedrich for the relief of Americans.

Henry S. Breckinridge, Assistant Secretary of War at Washington, returned this morning from Berlin where he established a relief bureau. He expects to sail on the cruiser Tennessee for Falmouth, England, tomorrow.

ENGLAND'S MARCHING SONG

It's a Long Way to Tipperary" the Favorite Tune of the Army.

"It's a Long Way to Tipperary" has become the marching song of the British Army, according to London dispatches. It is not widely known in this country. The words are:

Up to mighty London came an Irishman one day,
As the streets are pav'd with gold, sure everyone was gay;
Singing songs of Piccadilly, Strand, and Leicester Square,
Till Paddy got excited, then he shouted to them there:

CHORUS.

It's a long way to Tipperary,
It's a long way to go;
It's a long way to Tipperary
To the sweetest girl I know.
Good-bye, Piccadilly, Farewell, Leicester Square,
It's a long, long way to Tipperary,
But my heart's right there.

Paddy wrote a letter to his Irish Molly O',
Saying "Should you not receive it, write and let me know;
If I make mistakes in spelling, Molly dear," said he,
"Remember it's the pen that's bad, don't lay the blame on me."

CHORUS.

Molly wrote a neat reply to Irish Paddy O', Saying, "Mike Maloney wants to marry me, and so
Leave the Strand and Piccadilly, or you'll be to blame,
For love has fairly drove me silly, hoping you're the same."

GERMANY'S SUPPLY OF FOOD LIMITLESS

Count von Bernstorff Says Country Is Absolutely Self-Sustaining.

CONSULTS ABOUT WIRELESS

Ambassador Says of Zeppelin Bomb Attack on Antwerp That Hospital Was Inside a Fortress.

"Our crops are excellent and our supply of food could last forever," said Count von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador, yesterday. "Germany is absolutely self-sustaining, if she wants to be. We are reaping the results of a policy, condemned by certain persons, of keeping up our agriculture at any cost to the nation, so that the country would be able to sustain itself."

"But if the men are all gone to war how will the crops be gathered?"

"There are sufficient men to reap. We have so many people that we cannot put them all in the army. Germany has a male population of at least 30,000,000. As for our factories, I do not know how many of them are being kept open. There is now hardly any export trade, though goods still go to Italy, to Copenhagen and to Christiania. Some factories are undoubtedly closed, and their workmen have gone to the front. You see we are at war, and it is likely that all the manufacturing that is being done is of materials that have to do with war necessities.

"I should like to make a statement," the Ambassador had said at the beginning of the interview. "Nobody is authorized to speak for the German Government over here except myself, and any statement that is not covered by my name can be regarded as a fake. The only news I have had today comes from our legation in Peking, and it is to the effect that the attack of the Japanese upon Kiao-Chau, or Tsing-tau, has failed, and the Japanese are preparing now for the siege of the place.

"I have nothing new to say regarding the situation with respect to the wireless station at Tuckerton, N. J. I have been consulting with people to whom the station belongs and with lawyers about it, and the situation is still absolutely open. I am trying to get information as to the state of the matter."

The attack on Antwerp by a Zeppelin airship and the consequent partial destruction of a hospital were mentioned.

"As to whether a hospital in Antwerp has really been touched by bombs I know nothing," said Count Bernstorff. "But there is this to say," he added. "Antwerp is a fortress, made for the purpose of resisting attack. Fortresses have always been bombarded. If a hospital is touched that is deplorable, but it is absolutely the result of a hospital's being inside a fortress."

An article quoted in one of the New York newspapers, from the pen of a German military writer, and published some time ago in Europe, pointing out how easily it would be possible to invade and subdue the United States was brought up.

"I never heard of that writer," said the Ambassador. "I should not suppose his work would be of great value if he writes such a ridiculous thing."

"Americans have complained that automobiles have been seized," was suggested.

"In war every kind of private property becomes the property of the Government. Most of my friends sold their automobiles to the Government. No American's car was taken without a receipt being given, and the car or its equivalent will be returned. Why, in France automobiles have been taken. My daughter, the Countess Pourtales, has a little property in Savoie, near the frontier and not far from Geneva, and the French seized her car and gave her just three days to get out of the country. They gave my son, who was visiting her, just twenty-four hours to leave."

Count von Bernstorff left last night to have dinner and spend the night at the home of James Speyer, up the Hudson. He will return this morning and leave for Washington at 11 o'clock.

HITS COTTONSEED MEAL.

Because of War, Manufacturers Want Aid to Market Output.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—At conferences today with officials of the Department of Agricultural and the Department of Commerce, J. W. Allison of Dallas, Texas, urged that the cotton seed industry, affected by the war, be assisted in finding a market for the 575,000 tons of cotton seed meal, which is usually exported each year.

Mr. Allison, who is Chairman of the Bureau of Publicity of the Interstate Cotton Seed Crushers' Association and of the Texas Association, also asked the Treasury officials to require that one-third of the cotton money sent to Southern States be devoted to protection of meal and other products of cotton seed against a disastrous market.

The cotton seed holders and manufacturers can only be aided through the agencies applied to the cotton crop. The Agricultural Department cannot assist in the absence of facilities for marketing, and a similar situation was found at the Department of Commerce.

About the only relief for the amount of meal usually exported is in extending consumption to Northern States, and, in order to come into competition with seeds produced there, the Southern manufacturer probably will be required to buy seed at revolutionary prices. Last year seed was bought for $24 per ton. Before the European war was begun this year the mills began paying $18 per ton, but Mr. Allison said that in the absence of an export market, and in competition with American-raised feed, this will mean a price of $14 per ton.

"I do not believe this is any time for the oil mills to figure on making an abnormal profit out of the disaster," said Mr. Allison. "There is an opportunity for widening the trade, and the mills should realize that they will have to take a lower price and lower profit for the time being. The Treasury Department does not recognize the value of the seed industry; it is the foundation of the cotton crop."

VON DER GOLTZ GOVERNOR.

Famous German Strategist Made Military Ruler in Belgium.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—A Reuter dispatch from Berlin says that Field Marshal Baron Koimar von der Goltz has been appointed Military Governor of the occupied part of Belgium and has proceeded to his post.

The Governor of the district of Aix-la-Chapelle has been appointed Civil Administrator of the same region.

Baron Kolmar von der Goltz, Field Marshal, and formerly General Inspector General of the Second Inspection District, is one of the great strategists of Germany. Born seventy-one years ago, he fought in the war with Austria in 1866. In the Franco-Prussian war he was on the General Staff of the Second Army. Subsequently he was Military Instructor in a military school at Potsdam, and later served on the General Staff.

He made a reputation as an organizer while he was the commander of the First Army Corps on the Russian border between 1902 and 1907. During this period, at Königsberg, he perfected a defensive scheme for East Prussia, taking for a model the work of another great soldier, Field Marshal Count von Häseler, who was putting the Sixteenth Army into form on the French frontier.

Gen. von der Goltz was sumoned in 1883 to rehabilitate the army of Abdul Hamid. He stayed in Turkey until 1895 and brought order out of confusion in spite of political intrigues. His friends have contended that Turkey's defeats in 1912 were not due to the training received under him, but were made less shameful.

As a writer Field Marshal von der Goltz has distinguished himself. In his early days he developed literary talent, and with the earnings from his first books (novels) helped to support a widowed mother. His first important work was "Leon Gambetta and His Armies," published in 1877, and this was followed by others, including "A Nation in Arms," which appeared in 1883. The latter has been translated into a dozen languages.

FEARS CONTRABAND DISPUTE.

London Chronicle Urges England to Avoid Trouble with U. S.

LONDON, Aug. 27.—The Daily Chronicle today warns the English Government of the danger of England's becoming embroiled with the United States over questions of contraband of war, and argues that any estrangement between the two countries would be the extreme of bad management.

"It must be the guilding principle of the British Government," the article says, "to direct its naval policy so that we may not become embroiled with any neutral power. In nearly every war of the last two centuries we incurred this danger.

"The only really powerful neutral of the present time is the United States. If there is wise statesmanship we shall remain in perfect amity with that power, as well as with the Netherlands, which possesses the great gateway leading to the heart of Germany.

"The United States possesses the right to send cargoes to Rotterdam and will exercise that right. We must be prepared to see neutral American vessels discharging cargoes in Holland ports. Many questions are likely to arise regarding the exclusion of absolute or conditional contraband—that is, things that may be used by the German naval and military forces.

"It has been the British practice to regard as liable to capture any contraband cargoes, concerning which it could be proved they had an ulterior hostile destination. It is evident that this provision presents a very real danger, as the character of a cargo can only be ascertained by exercising the right of search, which the United States has strongly resisted, and which was the cause of the War of 1812.

"Picture, then, an American ship approaching the port of Rotterdam and a British naval officer exercising the right of search and detaining the ship on the presumption that her grain cargo is contraband. The coolest judgment will be needed in such a case to avoid a dispute and a misunderstanding.

"It has been suggested that we allow food ships to enter Dutch ports on the mere declaration that their cargoes are not in transit to the enemy. Whether such a declaration would be sufficient, it is difficult to say, but it is evident that the officers of the fleet should have definite instructions on these points to avoid any entanglements."

NO DELAY WITH SPIES.

Frenchman Admires the British Method of Dealing with Them.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 26, (Dispatch to The London Standard.)—A correspondent of The Temps who had occasion to follow them on the way to the front is loud in his admiration of the English soldiers' discipline, equipment, and commissariat arrangements, but what he admired most was the summary method of dealing with spies, every one convicted being shot immediately.

An English Captain explained this attitude through a French interpreter. He said: "You French pride yourselves on your humanity in cases where humanity is mere useless sentimentality. To spare the life of a spy by postponing his trial is a crime against our own troops.

"A spy may be able by some means to convey a harvest of news to his own side or to begin again the next day successfully enough to enable the enemy to surprise us precisely when we hoped to surprise him. In such cases inopportune indulgence may cost the lives of several hundreds of our own troops."

BIG PROFIT FOR CUBA IN WAR-PRICE SUGAR

Island Expects to Realize $250,000,000 on Record Crop at Top Rates.

TOBACCO INDUSTRY UNHURT

Great Prosperity Expected from Steamship Lines and New Train Ferry.

One country at least expects to make a lot of money out of the war—not by supplying war needs of belligerents, but by selling raw sugar at the prices to which the market has risen, and perhaps at higher figures. Dr. Pablo Desvernine, the Cuban Secretary of State, who is at the Breslin, says the price of raw sugar has jumped in Cuba up to 5½ and 6¼ cents, and that the next crop is expected to realize $250,000,000.

Dr. Desvernine has come to New York on a leave of absence, and expects to make a stay of not more than two weeks here, his object being to rest.

"We expect that Cuba will soon be very prosperous," he said yesterday. "The high price of sugar will be a boom to our country. Our last crop is the biggest we have ever made, amounting, I believe, to a little over 2,300,000 tons.

"The effect of the war has not been felt in Cuba except that there has been difficulty about exchange, which is about settled now. It has been very high against Cuba. We may feel some stringency for a little time, but conditions will soon be improved. As for tobacco, our cigar manufacture may have been checked, but things will ultimately come out all right, and I believe such factories as have closed will reopen. In the matter of revenues, we may have a small check, but there has been none as yet, and it will not take long to recover.

"Cuba is rapidly building highways and importing automobiles. The main source of our importations is the United States, and these imports will increase considerably, as we may not be able to get anything from Europe.

"There is nothing new in Cuban politics. Of course local politics interest people, but there is no danger of any disturbance of the peace in Cuba, and no talk of such a thing. Not a shadow has ever been cast on the personal integrity of our President and his Government.

"In Havana we are looking for great development from the Panama Canal. I have heard that the Royal Mail Steamship Company is going to run a line from New York to Havana and through the Panama Canal down the West Coast of South America, with very large steamers. This is annnounced to begin sailings on Oct. 22.

TRUE Facts About Paris Fashions

When War was declared the Paris Dressmakers did not have their real Autumn Models ready for the American dressmakers and retail shops.

On the afternoon of July 28th—three days before War was officially declared—the writer visited the Salon of a couturier who ranks among the few that are foremost in Paris. "Are you ready for your Autumn Opening?" the writer asked. "No, I shall not be for two weeks—many models are yet to be created!" was his reply.

However, this dressmaker and all the other couturiers were showing Autumn Models. They had many of them. But these were the Models that were purchased by German and American manufacturers for copying purposes. As a matter of fact, we are now presenting Reproductions of these "Early" Models.

At this point, Paris closed!

INDORSE WOMEN'S PARADE.

Mgr. Lavalle and Acting Mayor McAneny Approve Peace Show.

The Peace Parade Committee gave out yesterday some of the letters they have been receiving from people, many of whom, opposing parades for other causes, are heartily in favor of this. A letter from Mgr. Lavelle is written to Miss L. L. Deaver, Executive Secretary of the Parade Committee, from the rectory of St. Patrick's Cathedral and reads:

"Dear Madam: Who would not sympathize with and approve your demonstration? May it be as large and enthusiastic as the cause deserves, and nobly efficient in securing its blessed object. Yours very truly, M. J. LAVELLE, V. G."

Acting Mayor George McAneny, in writing the women, says:

"Your protest against war as war, without regard to the merits or demerits of either side in the great conflict, voices, I believe, the feeling of the vast majority of American men, as well as that of American women."

The parade will be headed by Miss Alice Carpenter carrying the big peace banner, held at the sides by Miss Rose Young and Mrs. Florence Woolston. The Grand Marshal of the parade, Miss Portia Willis, will come next, all of these women to be dressed in white. Following in black will come the officers of the Parade Committee, Mrs. Henry Villard, Miss Lillian Wald, Miss Lillian L. Deaver, Miss Katherine Leckie, and Miss Melinda Scott. The first group of muffled drums come in here, followed by another line of the women of the committee, Mrs. Herbert Carpenter, Mrs. Mary Ware Dennett, Mrs. Charlotte Perkins Gilman, Mrs. James Lees Laidlaw, and Mrs. Mary Shaw. Automobiles will carry mothers and babies.

ADVISE EMBARGO ON FOOD EXPORTS

Investigators Insist Prices Here Will Soar if Merchants Fill All Foreign Orders.

FLOUR MAY GO TO $10 BBL.

Five Hundred City Employes Are Assigned to Cover City and Report Deviation in Prices.

Flour has joined sugar and wheat in swelling the list of exports from this port. Witnesses testified yesterday before Chief Magistrate McAdoo that inquiries for flour have been received from several European Governments and that unlimited quantities can now find a market abroad at high prices. The effect of this will be to put up food prices in America, it was said. Wheat at $1.50 a bushel, sugar at $15 a hundred pounds, and flour at $10 a barrel was the picture painted at the inquiry. Flour is now $6.75 a barrel. It was also stated that an American merchant marine will assist in raising prices. The unofficial boycott on meats has the effect of lowering prices and cutting down the retailer's receipts.

The Mayor's Committee on food investigation advocated the use of vegetables and fish, which are plentiful and cheap. When that advice was made public information reached the committee of a combination of fish men along the Jersey coast to raise the price of fish. The first raise of 1 cent went into effect yesterday. Long Island farmers, it is charged, also took advantage of the situation to combine and raise prices. This association has especially warned the farmers to withhold their potatoes. One farmer has already stored 2,500 barrels.

George Zabrinski, resident agent for the Pillsbury Flour Company of Minneapolis, said that the unusual demand at this time was caused by the housewife storing up flour. Questioned by Assistant District Attorney De Ford, Mr. Zabrinski said that the housewife was wise in storing up a barrel of flour, for it will go to $10 a barrel. His company has received inquiries already from Norway, Spain, England, France, Greece, and Turkey. Wheat prices, he said, will go up in sympathy with flour rises, and he believed the farmer is holding back waiting for the increase in price. He advised restriction of wheat and flour exports.

The working of the law of supply and demand is responsible for the rise in wheat prices, according to J. Ward Warner, President of the Produce Exchange. Ralph L. Gary, assistant manager of the Washburn-Crosby Milling Company of Minneapolis predicted that wheat would go to $1.50 a bushel, and that flour would go up 5 cents a barrel for every cent rise in wheat.

After three weeks of investigation," said George W. Perkins, the Chairman of the Mayor's committee, "it is apparent that one of the causes of high prices is the exportation of foodstuffs or of orders received here for future delivery. The manifest sheets in the Custom House show these exportations already far exceed those of last year. If it is plain that if the war should continue a long time the United States will be called upon to furnish supplies. Investigations show that the people are being aroused against the increase in prices, and will eventually be forced to ask Congress to place an embargo upon the exportation of foodstuffs. Manufacturers, producers, and exporters of foodstuffs for foreign shipment should take heed of the growing sentiment against the increase in domestic prices lest the people demand that no foodstuffs shall be shipped from this country."

The Commissioner of Weights and Measures was waited upon yesterday by three delegations of citizens who asked that some official action be taken to recommend an embargo on foodstuffs.

Beginning on Tuesday the entire city will be covered each day by 550 employes of the Health Department, the Tenement House Department, the Bureau of Weights and Measures, and policemen in civilian clothes, who will report every deviation in prices, with a view of checking extortionate raises.

Commissioner Hartigan has received word that twelve small butchers have had to shut up shop since high prices curtailed meat eating. The 30,000 reports gathered by the police show that, so far, the rich have not suffered much from the rise in prices. In the poorer sections the rise has been greatest.

The committee has extended an invitation to retail dealers to a conference. The committee, Mr. Perkins said, has in contemplation a plan whereby information may be distributed that will enable the dealer to get his stock without the assistance of a middleman. Mr. Perkins is convinced that much of the profit under the present system has gone to the middleman, who produces nothing and levies tribute upon foods as they pass from the producer to the consumer. With this in view the committee will try and work out some plan whereby retail dealers' associations will be financed.

An inspection of the packing plants in Hoboken yesterday showed that over there meat is from 1 to 1½ cents lower, and prices are down nearly to the level of June and July. Best beef cuts are off from 3 to 5 cents a pound. Hinds and ribs sold for 15 to 16½ cents a pound, as against 18 cents on last Wednesday.

The Hartigan investigators report that meats, wholesale and retail, are unchanged in price on the New York market. Butter went up a cent yesterday. It wholesales at 34 cents, and the retail price jumped from 37 to 38 cents. Flour, they find, is up 25 cents a barrel, and retailed for $6.75 a barrel. Sugar dropped wholesale from 7 to 7¼ cents a pound to 6¾ to 7 cents a pound. The retail price runs from 23 to 25 cents for three and one-half pounds.

A special report was made yesterday on fruits. These are some of the prices: Crab apples, 25 to 29 cents for five quarts; New Jersey peaches, 98 cents for sixteen quarts; New York Bartlett pears, 20 cents for five quarts; green apples, 18 cents for five quarts; fancy baking apples, 23 cents for three quarts; blackberries, 18 cents a quart by the crate of twenty-four boxes; black currants, 18 cents a quart; California plums, 65 cents for a box of forty-five; Malaga grapes, 45 cents for six pounds.

Tomatoes are selling forty-two pounds for 85 cents. Vegetable prices are unchanged.

Mrs. Julian Heath, Chairman of the Food Substitution Committee, opened a Housewives' Bureau yesterday at 25 West Forty-fifth Street.

KARLSRUHE GOES TO BRAZIL.

The Tagus Comes In with News of German Cruiser's Activities.

The officers of the Royal Mail Steam Packet Tagus, which arrived yesterday from the West Indies and Panama, reported that the German cruiser Karlsruhe passed the Tagus on the night of Aug. 12, between Trinidad and Curaçao, heading southeast. The liner did not sight the warship, but heard her wireless talking at intervals in the night. Three German stewards were taken off the Tagus at Kingston by the British naval authorities as prisoners of war.

The British freighter Drumcliffe came into Trinidad on Aug. 11 and reported that she had been boarded the previous day by officers from the Karlsruhe, who ordered the Captain to take down his wireless apparatus.

One of the officers of the Tagus said that the German cruisers had made no attempt to capture British merchantmen in the West Indies, as they had no port to take them to. He added that the Karlsruhe had gone to South Brazil, where there is a German colony at Santa Catherina. The Karlsruhe waited outside Martinique for four days to seize the French steamship Guadeloupe, which was carrying 600 reservists to France, but the Guadeloupe got clear away with them.

R. Lloyd George, son of the British Chancellor of the Exchequer, was a passenger on the Tagus from Cartagena, where he was employed as a civil engineer by one of the mining corporations. Mr. George, who is twenty-five years old, will sail for Liverpool today on the Baltic.

QUOTES TIMES ON WAR CAUSE

Comment on the "White Papers" Is Republished in London.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—The Daily Mail this morning printed a New York dispatch dated Monday with the heading "Delayed by Censor."

The dispatch referred to the publication by THE NEW YORK TIMES of the British and German White Papers and its comparison of the two cases, from which a lengthy extract is given, beginning with the words: "Sir Edward Grey puts all his cards on the table face upward," and "Germany presents a lawyer's brief," and "Between the two an impartial world will judge."

60,000 HERE SEEK TO JOIN.

Canadian Government Refuses a Flood of Applications by Letter.

Special to The New York Times.

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 26.—More than 60,000 applications by letter have been received from citizens of the United States who desire to fight for Great Britain against Germany and to enlist with the Canadian troops. Most of the applicants say that they are veterans of the Spanish-American or the Philippine wars.

"All of the applications have been refused," said Col. Hughes, Minister of Militia, tonight. "We can only enlist men who appear personally."

Col. Hughes said that one American Colonel had offered to raise a regiment of 1,000 men to serve with the Canadian troops. This offer could not, of course, be accepted. Several hundred citizens of the United States of Canadian birth have returned to Canada to enlist. In fact, it is said that 10 per cent. of the force now at headquarters at Valcartier, Quebec, is of this description. As about 20,000 men are at Valcartier, this means that 2,000 from the United States will fight in the first Canadian contingent.

The first complement of volunteers to go to the front will be sent to Europe in twenty transports with all possible speed. Official announcement to this effect was made by the Militia Department tonight.

The Princess Patricia Light Infantry, made up of men who have seen active service, will sail on Saturday. It has in its ranks twenty-four men who fought in the Spanish-American war.

Col. Hughes tonight provided transportation to England for a man of the name of Cassidy, who until recently was an aviator in the service of Gen. Villa in Mexico. He was present at the slaying of Benton, which he defends, saying that Benton gave the impression that he was about to shoot Villa.

The Duke of Connaught today issued a personal appeal to the people of Canada in behalf of the Canadian Patriotic Fund, the object of which is to provide for the needs of the wives, families, and dependent relatives of Canadian soldiers who go to the front.

"Unless generous-minded citizens come to their aid," the appeal reads, "there will be, during the coming Winter, much hardships in many families during the absence of the breadwinner. I am convinced that all Canadian hearts will go out to their brave fellow-citizens who have gone to the front. A prompt and hearty response to this appeal will put all anxiety at rest about those near and dear to them, and will also afford to those who cannot go an opportunity of doing their duty to Canada and the empire."

Special to The New York Times.

TORONTO, Ontario, Aug. 26.—The Government of Ontario today completed arrangements to send to Great Britain 250,000 bags of flour, representing a cash value of $700,000, as a gift from Ontario to the Imperial Government. Further aid will be given if needed.

The Ontario Government is also calling conferences of manufacturers and other employers of labor to check non-employment during the war.

TURKEY YET WAVERS ON BRINK OF WAR

Cabinet Is Urged by Diplomats of the Allies to Preserve Neutrality.

CRUISERS A SORE POINT

Bryan Denies Prediction by Our Ambassador of Massacre—Destitution Reported in Palestine.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Tension is so acute in Constantinople that diplomats there fear Turkey may at any moment be drawn into the general war on the side of Germany and Austria. A strict censorship has been placed on the newspapers in Turkey, which are now controlled by the military, and are being used, according to diplomatic dispatches received here, to create a pro-German feeling.

The Turkish Cabinet is wavering between a declaration of war and the preservation of neutrality. The diplomatic representatives of the various powers are in constant conference with the Government officials, Great Britain, and Russia endeavoring to keep Turkey neutral. The German Ambassador, it is understood, has intimated that while Germany wished Turkey to remain neutral, he believed the Ottoman empire should mobilize to prevent an invasion by Russia.

Feeling is most acute over the entry into the Dardanelles of the German cruisers Goeben and Breslau. Great Britain, Russia, and France requested ten days ago that if these ships were purchased by Turkey the crews be sent either to Germany or Austria and promised safe conduct. Today many of the German sailors are still on board and 150 more are said to have been distributed among Turkish torpedo boats.

The British Government is observing these incidents with much disfavor and the situation has been aggravated by the inability of several English merchant ships to pass through the Dardanelles, even after the Grand Vizier had given the necessary permission. Subordinate officials disobeyed the instructions for unexplained reasons.

Great Britain has let it be known that if the Goeben and Breslau enter the Mediterranean with German crews aboard they will be fired on by the English fleet. Neither Great Britain nor Russia, however, has assumed a threatening attitude diplomatically, hoping to persuade Turkey to remain neutral. A few days ago the Russian Ambassador was requested to cease using the wireless on a Russian vessel in the harbor. He acquiesced rather than force an issue.

Developments in Turkey were discussed generally today in official circles. The Turkish Ambassador had a long conference with Secretary Bryan concerning a statement credited to Ambassador Morgenthau in some published reports. Later Mr. Bryan issued a statement saying the story that Mr. Morgenthau had predicted a massacre of Christians was untrue. Secretary Bryan said:

"While Americans are anxious to leave Turkey as they are to leave other parts of Europe in which war has broken out, or may break out, there is nothing in Ambassador Morgenthau's telegram to justify the reports published."

Mr. Morgenthau's recent telegrams, it is understood, recorded conditions as much relieved, although a week ago there was some apprehension over the position in which Americans might be placed if the war were extended to Turkey.

The cruiser North Carolina will go to Constantinople with gold for Americans. Many Jews in Palestine are destitute, and an appeal for funds has been made to Jewish charities in America. Temporary relief for Americans has been provided personally by Mr. Morgenthau, who has advanced several thousand dollars to meet the immediate wants of those in need. He has raised a total of $75,000 by subscription, but has advised the State Department that additional funds are necessary.

SYRIANS FEAR HOLY WAR.

Syrians living in this city are alarmed by reports that the Turks are contemplating a holy war. Khalil Khayat of 96 Liberty Street, for members of the Syrian colony, sent this letter yesterday to Secretary of State Bryan:

Hon. William J. Bryan,
Secretary of State, Washington, D. C.

Dear Sir: The New York newspapers published in their issue of this date that the State Department has been notified by Henry Morgenthau, Ambassador to Turkey, that a massacre of the Christians by Turks is imminent. We, therefore, the Syrian Americans born and the naturalized Syrians of the United States, for the sake of humanity protest to the State Department in order that the lives of Christians of Turkey, whether they are Americans or Turkish subjects, be spared by the intervention of our Government. Yours truly,

KHALIL KHAYAT.

WHEAT UP TO $1.32 BUSHEL.

Europe Pays Cash Here for Quick Delivery of 1,200,000 Bushels.

Further heavy buying of grain for the account of foreign Governments carried prices forward sharply yesterday on the Produce Exchange. Spring wheat for immediate expectation sold up to $1.32 a bushel, a rise of 7 cents for the day and an advance of more than 26 cents over the price a month ago.

Wheat for September delivery rose 6¾ cents, and December contracts advanced 6 cents. The corn options closed with net gains of about 2 cents a bushel, and oats were up more than a cent a bushel at the end of the market session.

Estimates of the total takings of wheat for export ranged from 500,000 to 1,200,000 bushels, and it was figured on the board that fully 1,000,000 bushels of oats were contracted for.

There was evidence in downtown freight offices of the trunk railroads that special efforts were being made to bring grain by the trainload to this city for shipment abroad. Freight managers telephoned their headquarters in Chicago and other interior centres to hurry consignments through to the seaboard. In most instances the orders carried the information that haste was needed because of the impatience of exporters to get their cargoes on the high seas.

The New York Central notified its freight men in cities of the Middle West that through bills of lading could be issued hereafter on shipments for Cuba and Porto Rico. It is expected that the other roads will take similar action, but the foreign freight managers were not able to decide at a meeting to permit through bills as yet on transfers to Europe.

It was said in the grain trade that little of the day's buying of wheat and oats was for English account. As was the case on Tuesday, the Governments of France, Greece, Turkey, Norway and Sweden were the most prominent interests in the market, and sellers received cash. England, it was believed, had arranged for supplies that filled her demand for the time being.

FAVOR PHILIPPINE BILL.

House Committee Reports on Measure and Urges Its Necessity.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Contrary to earlier expectations, the Jones bill to liberalize the government of the Philippine Islands, with a view to the future independence of the islands, was reported to the House today. The bill has the approval of the Administration, and is generally approved by the Filipinos.

The presentation of the report today indicates a determination on the part of the Democrats to consider it immediately. The Rules Committee tomorrow will take up the subject and probably will report out a rule designed to make the way easy for the legislation.

The Philippine bill itself was introduced several weeks ago. It would enlarge the scope of self-government in the islands by granting certain additional powers, among them the right to an elective Senate, thus making both branches of the Philippine Legislature directly responsible to the people of the islands. The report says that the Administration is favorable to the "Philippinization" of the Philippines. It says:

"The present Chief Executive of the United States has extended this policy of 'Philippinization' by naming five Filipinos and four Americans, with Governor General Harrison at its head, as members of the Philippine Commission, thereby giving Filipinos control of both branches of their Legislature."

CLAYTON BILL AMENDED.

New Section Provides Jail Sentences for Trust Law Breakers.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—The Senate made some real progress on the Clayton bill today, though it was in regard to a section of that message that had been disposed of temporarily. That was the section relating to tying contracts, which was restored in the form in which it came from the House by a vote of 27 to 23. Then by a vote of 27 to 26 it was stricken out again, and the fight centred on the substitute for the section proposed by Mr. Walsh of Montana for the committee.

Into that amendment Mr. Reed of Missouri, by a vote of 29 to 24, inserted a provision making violation of the section a misdemeanor punishable by a fine not exceeding $5,000 or by imprisonment for not exceeding one year or both. The amendment was adopted.

NEW ENVOY TO FRANCE SAILS

Women Weep as Reservists Depart on the France.

William G. Sharp of Elyria, Ohio, the new American Ambassador to France, sailed yesterday on the French liner France for Havre accompanied by his son. The Ambassador said he had not received any special instructions and would not present his credentials in Paris for some time, as Ambassador Herrick had made plans for helping Americans which he would wish to carry out.

Cardinal Begin, Archbishop of Quebec, sailed on the France to attend the Conclave which will elect a new Pope. He was convinced, he said, that one of the three Italian Cardinals would be chosen to succeed Pope Pius X.

Jules S. Bache, a New York banker, went to the France yesterday and handed $3,155 to Capt. Mourrand for the International Red Cross at Paris, which was collected among the passengers on the last voyage of the France to this city.

There were 1,600 grief-stricken women and children on the pier when the France moved out into the river. Their relatives who were saying good-bye to them for perhaps the last time waved the tri-color and cheered, but the women on the pier could only weep.

Finds the Irish Against Germany.

Acting Fire Marshal H. W. De Mallynon received a letter yesterday from Fire Marshal John Prial, who sailed for Europe the day after Germany declared war, and is now in Bantry, Ireland.

"When I arrived here I found the town filled with excitement," he writes. "A huge meeting was held and the speakers urged that the Irish should let the foes of Great Britain know that all Ireland is united to fight the common enemy.

"After the meeting volunteers offered their services and excitement reigned. The Home Rule question is apparently forgotten by the people in their desire to fight for their country."

BANKS AGAIN OPEN IN MEXICAN CAPITAL

Confidence Restored by Decision of Government to Honor Huerta Currency.

VILLA VISITS FORT BLISS

Is with Obregon and They Will Settle Sonora Trouble—Mexican Refugees in Havana Report Massacre.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 26.—The financial situation has been considerably improved by the reopening of the National Bank of Mexico and other important banks. The National Bank opened about noon. Some of the other banks had opened earlier. These banks had been closed for two weeks.

The decision of the banks to reopen is attributed to the announcement of the new Government's attitude toward the fiduciary currency. The Government's decision apparently does not make the note issues legal tender in the absolute sense, but expresses the willingness of the Government to receive them for all payments due to the Exchequer. This decision has served to greatly ease business conditions and has been well received.

Señor Cardoso, the Brazilian Minister, and John R. Silliman, representing the American State Department, had an audience this morning with President Carranza. It was learned later that Mr. Silliman and Manuel Walls Merino, representative of Spain, would depart in a day or two for Chihuahua.

The foreign legations accredited to Mexico were notified today of the assumption of executive power by Señor Carranza.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, Aug. 26.—Former Huerta army officers are arriving here from Mexico in large numbers. They declare that former Federal officers are being shot in the streets of the Mexican capital. They report Gen. Garza Gonzales, ex-Governor of the State of Michoacan, as being among those shot. They also report that fifty rebels penetrated to Progreso six days ago and captured the jail, guarded by 100 soldiers, killing fourteen and wounding twelve. The killed included the commanding officer.

NOGALES, Mexico, Aug. 26.—Jose Maria Maytorena, Governor of Sonora, announced today that he had come here at the head of 2,000 or more troops to dislodge the "enemies of honest government." Maytorena is supported by Gen. Villa. Those whom he proposes to war against have the support of Carranza.

EL PASO, Texas, Aug. 26.—For the first time since the beginning of the Constitutionalist revolution Gens. Alvaro Obregon, and Francisco Villa crossed the international line here this afternoon and were received with military honors by Gen. J. J. Pershing, commander of the American troops at Fort Bliss, where Gen. Pershing and his staff had prepared a banquet for them. A dozen staff officers accompanied the Mexican Generals. Obregon and Villa will leave Thursday morning for Nogales, Sonora, to settle internal disputes in that State. They will journey through American territory.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Paul Fuller of New York, who probably will be the next Ambassador to Mexico, reported to President Wilson today that there was little danger of a conflict between Villa and Carranza, and that prospects for continued peace in Mexico were bright. Mr. Fuller probably will leave for Mexico again shortly as an unofficial representative of the American Government.

VERA CRUZ, Aug. 26.—Provisional President Carranza's local agent has petitioned his chief to permit the return to their posts of 400 priests and 200 nuns who are now refugees within the American lines here. The action of the agent was in response to a request by Father Francis P. Joyce, Chaplain of the Fourth Artillery, U. S. A., who has been active in assisting the fugitive clergymen. Some of the priests are virtually destitute. Several of them have obtained work, a few as waiters in cafés.

SMILE AT GERMAN INVASION.

Views Attributed to "Gen. von Edelsheim" Amuse American Officers.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Officers of the army and the navy showed amused interest today in the published extracts from an article in a German military paper reputed to have been written by "Gen. Von Edelsheim of the Prussian General Staff," setting forth how the Germans would conquer the United States in the event of a war between the two nations. But some of them expressed doubt that any officer of the Prussian General Staff could have been guilty of such errors as the article contained. It could not be established here or at the German Consulate General in New York that any Gen. Von Edelsheim was a member of the Prussian General Staff. The article attributed to this reputed Prussian General was quoted by Sir Conan Doyle, in an article on the European war, and attracted some attention for that reason.

Gen. von Edelsheim's alleged monograph says: "At present the regular army of the United States amounts to 65,000 men, of whom about 30,000 could be disposed of."

The facts are that there are 85,000 men in the American Army, of whom, outside of contingents in the Philippines, Hawaii, China, Porto Rico, the Canal Zone, and the coast defense, about 40,000 men, according to an estimate made today, could be put into the field. The size of the American Army is a matter of common knowledge. The figures can be found in any annual report of the Secretary of War.

The reputed Von Edelsheim document says also that of our forces "at least 10,000 are required for watching the Indian territories." The ridiculousness of this needs no comment.

"Lastly," Von Edelsheim is credited with asserting, "the militia is not efficient; it is partly armed with muzzle-loaders, and its training is worse than its armament." The American National Guardsmen are not armed with "muzzle-loaders." They are armed with Springfield rifles of the regular army type, and there are now more than enough Springfields, of the type used by the army, in the reserve supply ready to equip an army of 500,000 men for the first line of defense.

Wreckers Cost Newspaper $20,000.

Special to The New York Times.

HACKENSACK, N. J., Aug. 26.—The persons who first wrecked the newspaper office and plant of Morris McDermut of Grantwood because he printed derogatory matter concerning Congressman A. C. Hart of Hackensack and later wrecked the studio at Edgewater where the political cartoons were drawn are reported to have done damage amounting to $20,000. County detectives are endeavoring to find the Democrats who are suspected of the crime.

Brothers Drown Off Fort Lee.

Special to The New York Times.

HACKENSACK, N. J., Aug. 26.—Raymond and Rudolph Webster, 9 and 11 years old, respectively, of Hudson Street, Fort Lee, were drowned in the Hudson River off the old powder docks, late last night, when crabbing. It is believed that one of the brothers fell from the pier and that the other endeavored to save him.

STEAMERS IN CRASH, ELEVEN LIVES LOST

The Admiral Sampson Rammed and Sunk by the Princess Victoria.

FIRE ADDS TO HORROR

Doomed Vessel Had Cargo of Oil, Which Went Up in Blaze, Endangering Survivors.

Special to The New York Times.

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 26.—Three passengers and eight members of the crew of the steamer Admiral Sampson are dead and four others are reported missing as the result of a collision today off Point-No-Point, in which the Canadian Pacific liner Princess Victoria rammed the Admiral Sampson of the Pacific Alaska Navigation Company and sent her to the bottom in four minutes.

Capt. Z. M. Moore, Chief Engineer A. J. Noon, and W. E. Recker, first wireless operator, went down with the Sampson while trying to launch the last lifeboat after seeing the passengers off the liner. With them went Miss M. Campbell, stewardess; A. Sater, watchman; L. Cabaranas, third cook; C. M. Marquist, able-bodied seaman, and J. C. Williams, a mess boy.

Those of the passengers known to be lost are: Mrs. George Banberry, wife of the Pacific-Alaska Navigation Company's agent at Skagway; Ezra Byrne, Seattle, and C. W. Bryant, Seattle.

The missing persons are: W. Hoffem, J. H. Cline, William Klovitch, John McLaughlin, and one second-class passenger.

The survivors of both passengers and crew were picked up by the Princess Victoria and returned to Seattle.

The crash occurred while a majority of the passengers were asleep in their berths. Members of both crews assert neither vessel was making more than three knots an hour, and that the heavy fog so blanketed the sound of the fog whistles that it was not apparent that they were in close proximity.

The Victoria rammed the Sampson, a steel vessel, directly on a line with the after hatch, cut three-fourths of the way through her, and opened a twelve-foot gash in the steel plates of the Victoria, in which the cover of the Sampson's after hatch was still jammed when that vessel arrived here with the survivors.

The Sampson began to fill almost with the impact, and the Captain of the Victoria, realizing the danger of the doomed ship, rang for slow speed ahead and kept the bow of the Victoria jammed in the gaping wound.

Fire added its horrors to the scene almost before the passengers began to rush on deck from their staterooms. The bow of the Victoria entered the side of the Sampson at a point where a large amount of fuel oil was stored and crushed several large containers setting fire to them. In an instant both vessels were enveloped in flames, and as men and women, attired only in night clothes, ran from their staterooms it appeared that both vessels were lost. The Victoria, however, soon backed away and stood by to pick up the passengers that were being lowered down in boats. Immediately after the gap in the Sampson was left uncovered the vessel began to settle and soon disappeared.

The Canadian vessel has been laid up for repairs.

The revenue cutter Unalga left Port Townsend on learning of the accident, and is cruising about seeking bodies.

The Admiral Sampson was of 2,262 gross tonnage. She was built at Philadelphia in 1898 for the United Fruit Company for use in the banana and tourist trade to the West Indies, and was purchased by the Pacific Alaska Navigation Company several years ago.

THE RIVADAVIA DELAYED.

Argentina's New Battleship Not Yet Placed in Commission.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Aug. 26.—The commissioning of the Argentine battleship Rivadavia, which was to have taken place at the Charlestown Navy Yard, has been indefinitely postponed at a conference of the officers of the vessel.

The Captain of the vessel went to New York after it was decided to postpone the commissioning ceremony. While he is there he will confer with the Argentine Admiral and a committee of naval officers who supervised the construction of the Rivadavia at the Fore River yards.

Secretary McQuarrie of the Fore River works said today that the starboard turbine, one of the driving turbines of the vessel, must be taken back to Fore River for repairs to its casing. He said that last July the turbine was being carried by a traveling crane when the cable broke and the turbine was damaged.

Alleged Wiretappers Sent to Tombs

Charles Gondert, Charles Carbonell and Joseph Cohen, members of the "wireless wiretappers' syndicate," who are under indictment for swindling Eugene Adams, an Englishman, out of $4,500, were committed to the Tombs yesterday by Judge Swann in General Sessions following the raising of bail at the request of Assistant District Attorney McCormick. The action of the District Attorney took the three men by surprise and, as they did not have the required sums, they were hustled to Tombs cells to await the arrival of friends.

PEACE FLOAT WON PRIZE.

Asbury Park Baby Parade Included Groups Depicting War Subjects.

Special to The New York Times.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Aug. 26.—The influence of the European war on decorative conception was the marked feature of the twenty-fourth annual baby parade today. The winner of the grand prize, selected from nearly six hundred entries, was a float entered by James Doyle of New York, which demanded that the President's conception of peace and American neutrality be adopted.

One hundred thousand spectators who lined the parade concourse in Ocean Avenue vigorously applauded this selection. Another prize winner was a "Messenger of Peace," in which Philip Yadwin of Elizabeth, represented Columbia. Still another prize winner was Ralph B. Moore, son of William H. Moore, of New York, who paraded in the division for burlesque. He wore a ragged uniform, limping along with one crutch, and a leg in splints.

Gov. James F. Fielder and his military staff were among the prominent spectators.

Optimism and Opportunity

As we said in our advertisement of August 16th, "it is very good these days to be an American."

During this month our country has encountered a trying experience in which our finances, our foreign trade, and even our domestic business have been disturbed by the sudden and tremendous wars in our ancestral countries.

Yet, we are coming out of it well.

The President, with his cabinet and the Congress, and the co-operation of bankers and business men called to Washington for the purpose, have promptly and nobly met the emergency by sensible rulings and wise laws, which will largely free our industries and commerce from restraint.

They have arranged for the issuance of emergency currency, through amendment of the Aldrich-Vreeland Law, under which national banks can obtain all the currency needed for legitimate business.

They have organized the Federal Reserve Board which will insure the opening of the twelve new Federal Reserve Banks inside of sixty days, thus giving ample banking facilities for business to every section of our country.

They have amended the ship registry laws so that American capital will buy foreign ships, which together with the large number of ships already owned by Americans, will fly the flag of the United States and furnish ample carrying capacity for our foreign trade.

They have opened the Panama Canal, and thus provided shorter routes for our commerce with South America, Australia and the Far East.

They have under consideration a plan of financing the surplus cotton crop so that our southern planters will be enabled to hold their cotton until normal markets are restored.

The Studebaker Corporation, with its 62 years of business experience, its thousands of employes and its millions of capital invested—appreciates the patriotic work that has been done and the opportunities thereby afforded.

Speaking from our experience and immediate forecast of possibilities, we feel cheerful and optimistic over the outlook for profitable business and steady employment of labor, with increasing developments of foreign trade in neutral countries.

America is today the clearing house of the world.

The great nations of the earth are depending upon the integrity of her friendship—the safety and saneness of her diplomacy—the extensiveness of her trade and the soundness of her finance.

It is a time for Americans to show their optimism, their patriotism and their aggressive earnestness.

The foundations of our National prosperity have been laid too deep and too strong to be seriously disturbed, even by so great a catastrophe as the war of all Europe.

We regret deeply and sincerely that the war must be—yet, we are in no wise to blame and are happily far removed from the theater of its activities.

Friendship we feel for all—and toward all we must remain in both thought and action entirely neutral.

Our duty to ourselves and our moral obligation to the rest of the world compel us Americans to be up and doing; to maintain a cheerful and hopeful spirit, to operate our industries and business enterprises, to pay our bills as usual, and to conduct our affairs generally on conservative, but enthusiastic lines.

Try "Exporting" to the Farmer

South America is a long way off; our own country folks are here at home. No special packing is necessary; no special language is needed; undoubtedly your present organization can do the job.

EASTMAN has done it; the Kodak is standard and country-serving stores keep Eastman supplies in stock. Colgate has done it; the cream that comes out like a ribbon and lies flat on the brush is standard with country druggists as well as with country folks—"and I do wish some high-grade soap manufacturer would seize his present opportunity," said a country town druggist, "for then I could stock fewer lines."

Goodyear and Goodrich have done it; just observe the signs on country garages. Mr. Post did it—although we are frank to say Mr. Kellogg also stands well in volume of sales to country people. The Acme Quality sign is perfectly familiar to paint users, and so is the little Dutch boy. The "Hammer the Hammer" argument is not unfamiliar in the country. The New Home is perhaps the best-known sewing-machine. Wrigley's and Coca-Cola are everywhere demanded. All these, and some others, are regularly advertised in farm papers—which may explain their universality with country people.

So, you see, others have gone "exporting" to farmers and been successful. There is no magic formula—no guarantee that you will be able to do the job easier and quicker than these others have done it—there is just the knowledge that they have already made a go of it and that the field is wide open for some dozens, perhaps hundreds, of quality-goods manufacturers who have courage and common-sense and who can serve a larger market.

Really, it is not so much whether country people will buy from you as whether you want to sell to them.

Our recent three thousand mile automobile trip showed many things — gave us a perspective that might help you. Want us to try? Then write, and we will do our best. Meantime, bear in mind that the most widely circulated farm paper, consequently the most powerful influence on country consumers and storekeepers, is

The Farm Journal
Washington Square
Philadelphia

Despite the war, our September issue was more crowded with advertising than any previous September, and we actually had to crowd out something over a page for which there was no room. We mention this by way of suggesting that those who have become well acquainted with country selling are apparently putting on extra pressure in going after the farm trade. The crop reports certainly more than justify their action, so we want to remind you that our October number, with well over 900,000 circulation, closes September 5th.

RANKING PLAYERS WIN TENNIS MATCHES

13 Contests in National Championship Decided in Straight Sets—Schoolboys Play for Title.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 26.—Play in the lawn tennis tournament for the national championship at the Casino courts here today was brought up to the fifth round, and the sixteen racket wielders now left to fight for the title are the class of the country. Of the sixteen matches played today all but four were won in straight sets. Three of these went the full round, while the other one was completed in one extra set.

In point of numbers New York has the strongest representation in the fifth round, for six men from the Metropolis were successful in coming through. California is next with four, followed by Philadelphia with three and Boston with two. The sixteenth man is H. P. Pearson, a local player.

All of the stars managed to pull through with flying colors, the only semblance to a surprise being the straight set defeat of Dean Mathey of Cranford, N. J., by Nathaniel W. Niles of the Longwood Cricket Club, Boston, at 6—3, 6—3, 6—3. Most of the spectators expected that the Bostonian would register a victory, but few believed that he would have such an easy time in accomplishing it.

Niles started the match with a rush and literally played the former Princetonian off his feet by his aggressiveness. Mathey resorted to lobbing to stave off impending defeat, but his lobs were comparatively weak, and he could not cope with the generalship of the Longwood player. As a result the match soon degenerated into a walk-over for Niles, and the latter might have finished the tussle even more quickly if he had extended himself in the last two sets.

Maurice E. McLoughlin of San Francisco, the playing-through title holder, advanced to the fifth round at the expense of Irving C. Wright of Boston in three straight sets with the loss of only three games. Wright had been going along winning victories without much trouble, and there were some who thought that his chop strokes would prove a stumbling block for the champion. Instead of bothering McLoughlin, however, they merely helped him to get some practice on his ground strokes, and he scored points almost at will.

Richard Norris Williams, 2d, of Philadelphia, who is picked by many close followers of the game to come out to the final round with McLoughlin, vanquished Alfred S. Dabney of the Longwood Cricket Club, Boston, in straight sets at 6—3, 6—4, 6—1, early in the day.

Dabney appeared to be suffering from the effects of his long match with S. H. Vosshell yesterday and did not move around the court with much speed. Williams, on the other hand, was at his best and could have won more readily if he had wanted to. The Philadelphian, however, felt that a little practice would do him no harm and wasted a lot of chances by trying to find the corners and the base line.

Karl H. Behr of the West Side Tennis Club, New York, and Robert Le Roy, another Gothamite, took the championship court in the afternoon and performed for the smallest crowd of the week. Behr played his usual good game of tennis and captured the match at three sets to one with the scores at 6—2, 6—4, 2—6, 6—3. Le Roy's strong point was his driving to deep court, and he had no trouble winning when he could entice Behr into playing him from the base line. But when Behr went to the net there was a different story, for he choked off everything that Le Roy sent over.

Frederick C. Inman of New York defeated Harry Johnson of Boston in the longest match of the day. The contest lasted for three hours and forty-five minutes and went to five sets, with the scores at 6—2, 6—8, 6—4, 6—8, 9—7. At the finish of the tussle the men were so tired and worn out from the heat of the sun that they could hardly walk off the courts. All through the last set Inman had to take stimulants to keep him going.

Gustave F. Touchard, another New Yorker, won a long match from Eli H. Whitney of Boston in five sets, with scores at 6—4, 5—7, 6—3, 4—6, 12—10. Touchard might have won the match earlier if he had shown any life, but he played listlessly and allowed the games to drag on. In the last set his careless tactics almost lost the match for him, for his adversary came within an ace of winning it five different times.

The national interscholastic championship was well advanced with an octet of schoolboys who had won the various preliminary tournaments in different sections of the country. All of the first round was played, and the winners took the victories in straight sets. Edward R. McCormick of Los Angeles came through in the top half, and will meet in the semi-final tomorrow, while in the lower section of the draw Harold A. Throckmorton of Rahway, N. J., and Leonard Beekman of New York advanced and will strive for the final bracket. The final round, therefore, will be a duel between the East and the West.

The big match tomorrow will be the struggle in the fifth round between Karl Behr, a member of the recent Davis Cup team, who failed to get into the play, and R. L. Murray, the young Californian, who was favored by many close followers of the game as a selection for the team. The summary:

All-Comers Tournament, Singles, Fourth Round.—E. F. Fottrell, San Francisco, beat C. L. Childs, Pittsburgh, 6—2, 6—3, 6—4; N. W. Niles, Boston, beat Dean Mathey, Cranford, N. J., 6—3, 6—3, 6—3; R. N. The finals of the Columbia Summer School tennis tournament were decided yesterday on the courts at South Field. In the singles E. Fisman defeated S. D. Pyle, 8—6, 6—1, 7—5, and in the doubles Pyle, teamed with R. L. Cheney, won from E. Clark and Shepley, 6—2, 6—1, 6—3. Superior team work and Pyle's exceptional playing at the net were the chief factors in the victory.

English County Cricket Results.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—Kent beat Worcestershire by 154 runs at Dover today which again brings the two teams within striking distance of Middlesex, who are still second. Surrey and Middlesex play at the end of the week. Sussex played Lancashire at Eastbourne, and by winning by six wickets have now got into sixth place in the table. Hampshire and Somersetshire played a drawn game at Portsmouth, the former having the advantage through leading by a big margin on the first innings. Hobbs of Surrey, who is considered the finest batsman in the world, has shown remarkable form this season, and with nine innings of over a hundred each has now brought his total runs to over 2,000, having just beaten Mead of Hampshire. Surrey's fine ground at Kennington Oval having been taken over by the military authorities for the use of troops, they have arranged to play off their remaining county games at Lords, the headquarters of Middlesex.

WARNER GOLF MEDALIST.

Qualifies with Score of 74 in New York G. C. Tournament.

The qualifying and first match rounds in the annual tournament of the New York Golf Club were run off yesterday over the public links at Van Cortlandt Park. Theodore Warner, who was runner-up to William D. Patterson of the Scottish-Americans last year, won the medal with a score of 74.

One of the favorites for the chief cup this year was Walter F. Purcell, a member of the home club, and considered one of the most promising of the left-handed players in this vicinity. Purcell, however, fell before Paul T. Haber in the match play, losing by two holes. Purcell found difficulty with his approaching, and at times was inclined to lack direction on his tee shots.

Warner came through at the expense of G. M. Ivory, the margin being 3 up and 2 to play. There was scarcely a time when the issue was in doubt. Patterson, however, who has not been playing much this season, returning on Sunday from Europe, is expected to come through at least until the final match.

There were seventy-two starters, and thirty-two qualified for the principal division. The second and third rounds are on the cards for today, with the semi-final and final matches on Friday. The summary:

KEEN RACING IN ATLANTIC REGATTA

Alicia, Okee, Alice, Little Dipper, and Heron Among Winners on the Bay.

Interesting competition marked the second day of serica racing off the Atlantic Yacht Club yesterday. The only thing that marred the sport was the sudden hauling of the wind after the course signals had been set which practically eliminated all windward work for many of the classes. When the courses were chosen by the regatta committee, composed of Chairman Carlos de Zafra and S. L. Finlay the wind was fresh from the east. However, it kept hauling to the southeast and was coming from that quarter throughout the greater part of the contest.

The larger boats had a course that should have been made up of a reach from the starting line off Sea Gate to Old Orchard Shoal Light, a beat to Ambrose Channel Buoy No. 10 and another reach home. It was one of the new courses and would have been ideal if the wind had not hauled and worked havoc with the plans of the regatta committee.

It was a long course and so it was only covered once. The winner among the schoonerettes was Alicia and Okee had no difficulty in again beating Banzai in the New York Yacht Club thirty-footer class. Alice was the first of the Q boats home. She also saved her time and won a special race from Joyetta, the R boat that has come down from Long Island Sound to enter the Childs Challenge Cup race on Friday.

At Sea Gate last night the visiting yachtsmen were entertained by a masquerade ball. It was one of the best dances ever given by the Atlantic Yacht Club. The third and last race for the series prizes will be sailed today. A summary of the racing yesterday follows:

Wilbur H. Young's new forty-foot motor boat Harpoon, the only starter in the class for the International Challenge Cup in the first series race of the motor boat carnival, made the fastest time over the thirty-mile triangular course on Manhasset Bay, Long Island, yesterday. She covered the distance in 1:12:42, at an average speed of 24.75 knots an hour. The present holder of the cup, James Simpson's Peter Pan IV., had an accident last Sunday and was unable to start, but she may defend the cup tomorrow.

The next best time was made in the race for the national trophy by W. J. Brainard's Little Gunfire, a new boat. Allowing time to the other five starters in the class, she averaged 23.08. The winner on corrected time, however, was P. A. Proal's Muirmaid.

T. P. Taylor's Flyaway III. was the winner in the cabin launch class. She covered a twenty-one-and-a-half-mile course in 1:09:29, a speed of 18.56 knots an hour.

GIANTS SPLIT EVEN WITH CARDINALS--BOSTON LOSES TO CHICAGO

MATTY BREAKS GIANTS' LONG SLUMP

Marquard Loses Hard-Luck Game, Then Old Master Pulls Team Through to Victory.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 26.—Mathewson checked the Giants' losing streak today. The veteran pitched one of his best games, and against a team that usually has been the hardest for him to defeat. The Cardinals got only two hits and no runs off the Old Master. About 30,000 persons witnessed the games.

When New York dropped the first game of today's double-header, 1 to 0, McGraw read the riot act to his faltering men. When they went on the field for the second game they played brilliant ball, and late in the game got to the Cardinal pitching star for the runs that meant victory, and a probable end to the Giants' slump, for the Giant pitchers today showed a return to good form. Although Marquard was beaten, he pitched a great game. Huggins scored the only run in the first inning on Rube's wild pitch.

Doak permitted three hits, all singles, and for six innings he was on his way to a no-hit game. In the seventh one single came, and in the eighth two more were bunched. Only one Giant reached second base.

That was the pitching exhibition that won for the Cardinals. Doak had his saliva shoot breaking around all corners of the plate, and in the eighth inning, when the triple champions were within scoring distance, Snodgrass was retired on a foul to Snyder, while Doyle's sizzling bounder to Huggins ended the inning.

The run which won was scored by Manager Huggins, making this a great day in Huggins's career. He opened with a single, reached second on Magee's sacrifice, and then completed the circuit on Marquard's wild pitch. With that one run lead the Cardinals went out to hold their distinguished rivals scoreless, which they did.

The Giants' two chances to score in the first game came in the seventh and eighth innings. In the seventh Fletcher pounded a single to left, the first off Doak. Then with one out Magee leaped high for Robertson's bounder and made a sensational stop and throw, getting Fletcher at second. Grant then popped out.

In the eighth inning with one out, Meyers dropped a pop fly in left field for a single. Bescher batted for Marquard in an effort to start a rally, and lined a single to right, the Chief stopping at second. Snyder made a grand catch of Snodgrass's foul and Doyle forced Bescher.

In the ninth Fletcher got a life when Miller at short made his third error of the game, missing an easy grounder. With one batsman out Fletcher was caught stealing. Miller retrieved himself by a spectacular catch of Snyder's throw, taking it on the bounce and tagging out the flying Giant.

Snodgrass featured in the sixth with a circus catch off Miller's bat. He cut his way into the crowd to get the drive. It saved a run, for Wilson followed a minute later with a two-base drive over Robertson's head into the crowd.

Despite the Cardinals' four errors they played a sensational fielding game, and Doak was supreme in the pinches. His exhibition was equalled if not surpassed by that of "Matty" in the second game. Mathewson, who has often proved as easy as any pitcher of lesser fame for the Cardinals, today had them standing on their heads. His fadeaway broke just right and his fast ball was really fast. And with Matty his old-time self, his control was superb.

Matty had his worst trouble in the first. Huggins singled past third, Magee lost a hit when Matty knocked down his hot bounder and caught him by a step. Fletcher got Dolan's grounder in deep short and threw out Huggins at third. Dolan then was out stealing. Every play was close.

Matty's pitching was monotonously good. He mowed down the Cards with machine-like regularity. Once or twice the Cardinals got wicked wallops, but the Giants were always there with a good stop or catch.

The Giants broke the ice off Sallee in the sixth. Merkle singled and reached second on Dolan's fumble. Then he stole third. Matty went out to Sallee. Dolan made a wonderful catch of Snodgrass's drive in left, but Merkle scored after the catch.

In the eighth Grant opened with a single. Meyers sacrificed. Merkle scored Grant with a hit to left past Beck. Matty went out, Merkle going to second. Snodgrass's hit scored Merkle.

In the ninth Doyle singled and Burns walked. Fletcher singled, scoring Doyle. Griner went into the box and brought the inning to a close in short order. The Cardinals went out in order in their half. The scores:

Giants Want Bluejacket.

Harry Hempstead, President of the New York National League Club, has sent a notice to Jim Bluejacket, the Indian pitcher who has signed with the Brookfeds, ordering him to report to the Giants at Chicago today. Bluejacket was secured by the Brookfeds from the Three I League. His release was also purchased by the Giants, and he signed a contract with that club as well as with the Federals. The Giants claim to have a right to Bluejacket's services under baseball law, and the official notice which has been sent to the pitcher is believed to be the forerunner of an injunction suit. The Brookfeds will fight in the courts, if necessary, to keep the Indian pitcher, according to the statement of John M. Ward, Business Secretary of the club, yesterday. The Federal League Club claims to have signed Bluejacket before he was approached by the scout of the Giants and that his services are legally theirs.

Fielder Jones Here Monday.

Fielder Jones, the former Chicago American League club manager and the present leader of the St. Louis Federals, will make his first appearance in New York as a Federal Leaguer when his team comes to play the Brookfeds Monday, which was an open date on the schedule, but a postponed game has been arranged for the day.

BROOKLYN WINS TWO.

Superbas' Pitchers Effective Against Pittsburgh Batsmen.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 26.—Brooklyn won both games of a double-header today, the scores being 2 to 1 and 4 to 2. Cooper allowed only four hits in the first game, but the visitors made them count.

Brooklyn decided the second game by scoring three runs in the third inning on singles by Daubert and Myers, Egan's double, and Cutshaw's triple. The Pirates could do little with the Brooklyn pitchers. The scores:

BROOKFEDS HOME AGAIN.

Celebrate Return by Trouncing Buffalo by 6 to 2 Score.

Slow playing by Buffalo gave the Brookfeds an easy victory by the score of 6 to 2 yesterday in their first home game after a long tour through the West. The victory puts the Wardmen within striking distance of fourth place and another victory over the Buffeds today will lodge them in the first division. Heine Schulz, the former Yankee, lasted seven innings in the box for Buffalo and by his wildness let in a couple of the Brookfeds' runs.

Claude Cooper got a lucky home run in the first inning for Brooklyn which was easily the hitting feature of the game. The drive would probably not have been good for more than three bases had it been handled quickly by Agler. The deposed first baseman fell all over himself trying to pick up the ball and Cooper managed to cross the plate.

Hal Chase was making his first appearance on the field in a Federal League uniform and pulled off a couple of the old circus stunts which made him popular at the Hilltop grounds. One of his plays yesterday was a nice catch of Finneran's near-hit back of first in the fourth inning. The score:

YANKEES TRIUMPH IN TWELFTH INNING

Carroll Brown Pitches Strong Game Against Browns and Bats In Winning Run.

Carroll Brown yesterday recovered from the disappointment he has been suffering ever since he didn't pitch in the world's series for the Athletics last season. Up at the Polo Grounds yesterday, Brown worried the St. Louis Club for twelve innings and then, when the invaders had pleasant hopes of winning the game, Carroll came through with a smart spank and whizzed Fritz Maisel home from second with the tally which won the game 2 to 1.

Brown pitched extremely well. Sometimes he doesn't do that. In fact, sometimes he hardly pitches more than an inning or so, only to discover that somebody had moved the home plate from the place where it ought to be. Since he left the Mack champeens to become a Yankee he has always meant to pitch just the way he did yesterday.

It was a great day for Brown and if it hadn't been for past dinner hour and folks were in a hurry to get home before dark, somebody would have stuck around and carried "Brownie" away on their shoulders. It was quite important that the Yankees should win because if they beat the Browns a couple of more times they will supplant St. Louis in sixth place. The Yankees finishing sixth or better will be an experience that they have not enjoyed for some time.

The game developed into an air-tight flinging affair between Brown and "Silver" Wellman. Wellman is the tallest player who visits Coogan's Hollow and is about the only player in either league who can stand on his toes and look over the grand stand onto the Speedway. Manager Branch Rickey was pretty sick at heart at being mauled so badly by the Athletics and didn't speak above a whisper on the coaching lines.

The Browns grabbed a run at the start and the Yanks tied it up in the second and from then until the twelfth inning, there was some fancy pitching and some fancier fielding.

One of the neatest plays that have been seen at the park this season was made by Peckinpaugh in the seventh inning when he gobbled up Agnew's red-hot hopper in spectacular fashion and tossed him out at first base.

Austin singled in the first inning and was forced by Lavan. Shotten walked, but on an attempted double steal Lavan was out at third, Shotten traveling to second. He scored on Pratt's single.

After Cree was out in the second, Mullen got a pass and Peckinpaugh fanned. Sweeney was safe at first when Agnew let Sweeney's third strike roll away from him. Sweeney and Mullen then uncorked a double steal, Mullen scoring.

With Maisel on second in the tenth, with two out, Manager Chance rushed in Nunamaker as a pinch-hitter and Wellman intentionally passed him. It was then up to Arragon to win the ball game, as he was sent in to bat for Cook. Arragon ignobly struck out.

In the last half of the twelfth Sweeney, the first citizen up, rolled out to Leary. Maisel shot a grounder at Lavan, who made a weird toss to first and Fritz was safe. Maisel promptly stole second. Brown singled to left, Maisel romping home. The ball was home almost as soon as Maisel, but Agnew dropped it as Fritz came through in a cloud of dust. The score:

BOSTON, Aug. 26.—With three Boston runners on the bases in the third inning, Tris Speaker tripled to deep right field today, scoring three runs, and a moment later scored himself on Hoblitzel's double. Boston won, 5 to 2. Detroit's two runs were the result of bases on balls by Gregg. In the sixth he passed four men. The score:

LASSIE McGREGOR'S STAKES

Five Heats Required to Decide King George V. Race at Fort Erie.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 26.—Only four horses started in the King George V. Stakes, worth $5,000, for 2:14 trotters, the feature of the second day's races on the Grand Circuit at the Fort Erie track this afternoon. The track is still hard and no records were shattered. The big race was won by Lassie McGregor.

After Oakdale had won the first heat of the Queen City Stakes, for 2:08 trotters, the judges ordered all bets off on the heat. The gray gelding covered the mile in 2:12, and the judges scented something. Omar won the next three heats and the race, and the judges, after an investigation, announced that no further ruling would be made in the matter. The judges found that no heavy bets had been made on the heat or the race. Omar's best time for the mile was 2:06¼. Summary:

FISTS FLY FAST IN CHICAGO GAME

Zimmerman, Evers, and Maranville Strike Blows—Other Players Stop Hostilities.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—Larry Cheney's pitching, Vic Saier's batting, and Heinie Zimmerman's fists contributed to the downfall of Stallings's Braves today in the final game of the series, the Cubs winning by the slender margin of 1 to 0 and keeping the Boston terrors from climbing into first place in the National League race.

The Zimmerman episode completely overshadowed the performance of Cheney, who pitched such great ball that only one Brave connected for a base hit, only two walked and only one reached third base. Even Saier's home run, which decided matters after a brilliant duel between Cheney and "Lefty" Tyler was in a way lost sight of.

Zimmerman's outburst followed right on the heels of Saier's homer in the seventh round. Such belligerents as John Evers and "Rabbit" Maranville were dragged into the combat and the conclusion only came when four athletes were chased from the field for being ring leaders in a row which probably was the worst perpetrated on a big league diamond in recent years.

Zimmerman drove a single to left centre and tried to stretch it into a double. He went into second base head first and Evers was waiting with the ball. Chagrined over being put out, Zimmerman swung his right fist just as he slid into the bag. It seemed to be his intention to knock the ball from Evers's hand, but Heine miscalculated the range and the blow landed on a tender spot of Evers's anatomy.

The former Cub manager jabbed Zimmerman on the back of the neck as the latter was stretched on the ground. Immediately Zimmerman was on his feet. He started toward Evers and the Trojan made a counter move. Maranville executed a flank movement, caught Zimmerman unawares and landed on his jaw. The blow split Heinie's upper lip and drew blood.

For an instant then Zimmerman, Maranville, and Evers were in a tangle back of second base. They were then hidden from view by a flock of athletes and two umpires, who rushed to the scene. For fully two minutes thirty-five individuals were engaged in a dust raising, hand-to-hand scramble, the Cubs trying to wrest Zimmerman from his captors and the Braves doing their part to drag apart the belligerents. At one time Zimmerman could be sighted floundering in and out of the tangled mass with Umpire Eason clinging desperately to his right arm and a few athletes trying to pinion the other wing.

Finally Zimmerman walked out of the crowd and started toward the bench accompanied by Umpire Quigley. Blood was flowing from the athlete's mouth. With Zimmerman gone to the coop the argument broke out afresh in the vicinity of first base. The umpires were trying to locate other individuals alleged to have used their fists while the fighting was good. They finally picked out Schmidt, the Braves' first sacker, who departed with Zimmerman, Evers, and Maranville toward the clubhouse. In deep centre field the three main belligerents again got in an argument, but it never passed beyond the verbal stage. Schmidt later denied he struck a blow, and Evers and Maranville showed up with their sun scorched countenances intact. Score of the game:

A. A. U. COURT DOCKET CLEAR

Registration Committee Disposes of All Cases Prior to Annual Meeting.

The Registration Committee of the Metropolitan A. A. U. cleared its slate of all cases at its meeting last night at the St. Bartholomew Club in preparation for the annual meeting of the association next month. Only cases of minor importance came up for consideration by the board, but some of the matters had been on the docket for some time. The Rye Beach Swimming Club, which was accused of violating an A. A. U. rule by permitting women to swim at the same scheduled meeting with men, declared the trouble was brought on through ignorance of the laws, and was let off with a warning.

The second and third prizes, won by the Salem-Crescent A. C. in a relay race at the Eccentric Firemen's game recently, were forfeited because some of the runners on both teams were delinquent in payments of entry fees. The trophies went to the Bronx Church House and St. Mary's A. C., respectively.

R. M. Hutchinson of the Knights of St. Anthony was set down for sixty days for "attempting to mislead the handicapper by using an assumed first name on his entrance blank." He won one of the feature events at the Knights of St. Anthony field day. Handicapper Obertubessing turned his case over to the Registration Committee.

T. S. Fields, who was protested after he had won his heat in the low hurdles event at the metropolitan junior championships, was found to be ineligible to compete for the Irish-American A. C., with which club he was registered, until his year of unattached running expired on Oct. 17. He is, therefore, lost to the Irish club for the coming national junior title meeting. T. Gates of New Haven, winner of the shot-put in the Connecticut championships last year, was again placed in the good graces of the A. A. U. after being under the ban for a year because he failed to return a medal to which he had no claim.

Charles Pores, now competing unattached, was suspended until he clears up his indebtedness to the Sheridan A. C.

The Registration Board will shortly start preparing its recommendations to the Metropolitan Association for the annual meeting.

F. Gordon Joins New York A. C.

Freeland Gordon, brother of Willie Gordon of Yonkers, who has been the sensation of the present outdoor track season, will compete for the New York Athletic Club in the national championships. His year of unattached running recently expired, and his application to have his registration transferred from the Hollywood Inn A. A. to the New York A. C. was received yesterday by the Amateur Athletic Union. Gordon is a half-mile runner, and though he has not made the name for himself his brother has he is said to be seconds faster than Willie at 880 yards. Bernie Wefers, coach of the New Yorks, believes Freeland will become a star in another season and should score some points for the Mercury Footers at the championship meeting next month in Baltimore.

CARMEN'S CHAIN BREAKS.

Favorite Fails to Qualify in Fifty-Mile Motor-Paced Cycle Race.

Clarence Carmen, the Jamaica flyer, was put out of the fifty-mile international motor paced cycle championship when the chain of his bicycle broke in the first heat at the Brighton Beach Motordrome last night, causing him to lose ten miles. Carmen was the favorite in the race, and the accident which put him out caused disappointment.

Returning to the track after repairing his bicycle Carmen showed a wonderful burst of speed. With no chance of even being placed, the little rider set a terrific pace, and lapped the other riders time and time again. The handicap was too big for him, however, and he could not recover enough of the lost ground to get a place. He did, however, cut down the lead from ten to two miles, which is a feat of even greater proportions than that of winning under ordinary circumstances.

With Carmen out Menus Bedell took the lead and maintained it to the end. The veteran, Jimmy Moran, finished second after a game race with Vincenzo Madonna, third. Elmer Collins was a poor fourth.

The accident to Carmen's machine occurred in the fourteenth mile. Bedell, Moran, and Madonna by their victory last night qualified for the final heat for the world's championship. There will be a second preliminary heat in which Peter Drobach, Worth L. Mitten, Percy Lawrence, Bobby Walthour, and George Wiley will compete before the final is run.

Arthur Chapple won a special handicap motor-cycle race from Bert Sayer. Chapple gave Sayer one lap in five miles and easily defeated him.

Bert Sayer beat Pete Cronin in a match motor-cycle race.

Fred Woisin won the principal amateur events, the one-mile handicap and the unknown distance race. Woisin had an allowance of sixty yards in the handicap race. Gus Wohlrab, the scratch man, didn't get a place. The unknown distance race was permitted to go one and one-third miles and Woisin won out by a pretty spurt in the last lap. Summary:

Three-Mile Motor Cycle Race.—Won by Bert Sayer, Providence, R. I.; Pete Cronin, Sheepshead Bay, second. Time—2:22 3-5.

One-Mile Amateur, Handicap.—Won by Fred Woisin, (60 yards;) George Paull, New York, (100 yards,) second; W. Farris, Mohawk A. C., (115 yards,) third. Time—2:09 1-5.

One-Mile Novice.—Won by F. Messnel, Brooklyn; A. Reiff, Newark, second. Time—1:12.

Unknown Distance Race, Amateur.—Won by Fred Woisin; Adam Byerman, Mohawk A. C., second; Jerry Nunziata, New York, third. Time—3:40 1-5. Distance—1 1-3 miles.

Fifty-Mile Motor-Paced Race.—Won by Menus Bedell, Lynbrook, L. I.; Jimmy Moran, Chelsea, Mass., second; Vincenzo Madonna, Italy, third; Elmer Collins, Lynn, Mass., fourth; Clarence Carmen, Jamaica, L. I., fourth. Time—1:06 2-5.

Five-Mile Motor Cycle, Handicap.—Won by Arthur Chaple, New York, (scratch;) Bert Sayer, Providence, R. I., (one lap,) second. Time—3:43 3-5.

With open-air cycle racing coming to a close the professionals are desperately battling for the lead in the winning list, which at present is topped by Alfred Goullet, the peer of Australian riders. There is a slim chance of Kramer losing the lead in the championship points table, and now the Newark star entertains fond hopes of taking the lead away from Goullet in the battle for points in the open events. All the professionals will have a chance to increase their standings in the table Saturday night at the Motordrome when two important races will be decided, a five-mile handicap, with Kramer, Rutt, and Goullet going from scratch, and a two-thirds-mile event to be run in four heats and a final.

Cycle Stars Qualify at Newark.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 26.—Trial heats for the international sprint cycling championship in the professional division were held at the Newark Velodrome tonight with the world's speediest riders qualifying. Walter Rutt, the world's champion; Frank L. Kramer, the American champion; Alfred Goullet, A. Jackie Clark, and Robert Spears, the Australians; Caesar Moretti of Italy, and Iver Lawson, former world's titleholder, came through without mishap.

One additional trial heat will be run on Sunday, in which Bill Bailey, the champion of England, who is due to arrive in this country tomorrow, will start. The semi-finals will be decided next Wednesday night and the finals on Sunday Sept. 6.

Donald McDougall, the ex-amateur champion, showed that he still possesses great sprinting ability when he won his heat of the quarter-mile handicap from scratch in 28 1-5 seconds, which equals his own world's record time. He was able to finish no better than fifth in the final heat, however, the winner being Early Adams, the colored rider, who started from the twenty-five-yard line.

Britton Retains Canoe Sailing Title.

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Aug. 26.—Over the course of the American Canoe Association off Sugar Island Ralph Britton, the Gananoque canoe sailor, today retained his title as champion of the New England States by defeating H. D. Murphy of Boston, challenger for the Mystic Trophy, which Britton won from him at Boston early in July. The elapsed time was: Britton, 1:17:30; Murphy, 1:22:20.

GRAB BAG HANDICAP FOR TRIAL BY JURY

Capt. Cassatt's Colt Qualifies Splendidly for the Futurity on Saturday.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 26.—Capt. Edward B. Cassatt, the Pennsylvania sportsman and breeder, took down another rich purse at the course of the Saratoga Association this afternoon when his home-bred colt Trial by Jury won the Grab Bag Handicap, a six furlong feature. The race was worth $4,200 and by the victory the colt incurs an eight-pound penalty in the Futurity to be run Saturday. The Cassatt silks have been very successful at this meeting, for Trial by Jury began by winning the Flash Stake on the opening day. Then his stable mate, Garbage, won both the Grand Union and the United States Hotel Stakes. Both are entered in the Futurity.

Fifteen went to the post for the Grab Bag and James Butler's pair, Comely and Capra, an added starter, were looked upon as the best. Richard F. Carman added his filly Lady Barbary, winner of the Spinaway, and she too attracted considerable attention, while Edward R. Bradley's Briggs Sister had a number of admirers.

There was considerable delay before Starter Cassidy could get an alignment to his liking, and when he released the barrier the field left in good order, but almost at once there were so much crowding and jostling that several of the horses had their chances ruined. Top o' the Morning, from the stable of C. K. G. Billings, was one of those that escaped this interference and Sea Shell, racing for J. L. Holland, also got clear. Trial by Jury shook himself free from this early trouble, and Lady Barbary was in fairly good position. The others were more or less tangled and Comely, never a rapid breaker, was in no end of trouble.

Top o' the Morning made pace, with Sea Shell close by, to the stretch. There the Cassatt colt came along with a great rush, and under a long drive he was a going-away winner with a length to spare. Top o' the Morning saved the place and Lady Barbary just beat out Comely. Capt. Cassatt scored a second victory in the following race with Spearhead, a despised outsider. The summary:

Our salespeople wonder why we do not put greater emphasis on the price reductions recently made on men's Spring weight suits, those now marked $15, $20 and $25.

We never shout over things that are just "conversation," and our public knows that what we say is to be taken literally. This isn't a clearance of the Spring stock, although the values are there.

We have, however, put a clearance price of $15 on the entire stock of men's and youths' two-piece mixture sack suits. A few odd coats, vests and trousers are going for a trifle.

We might call in a trade "Scavenger" and close out the remnants of various discarded stocks preparatory to inventory, but prefer to give our consumers the benefit. Besides, it is fun to watch people chuckle over bargains.

For instance, yesterday the last of the following were in full flight:

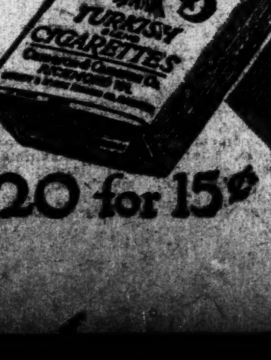

Men's and boys' straw hats, 35c.
Men's felt hats, 95c.
Boys' soft hats, 35c.
Men's and boys' shoes, all sorts and bad sizes, 95c.
Children's wash Sailors and Russians, 75c.
Men's and boys' neckwear, 25c.
Men's shirts, 65c.
Boys' shirts, 65c.
Men's bathing suits, $2.85.
Boys' bathing suits, $1.15 and $1.95.
Men's underwear, 35c., (3 for $1.)
Men's union suits, $1.35 and $1.85.
Men's silk socks, 65c.
Men's lisle socks, 25c.
Men's pajamas, $1.15.
Men's collars, 5c.
Boys' sweaters, $1.85.
Boys' dressing gowns, $2.15 and $3.65.
Boys' mackintoshes, $3.55.

Most of these were at all three stores, but where the quantity was very small, at one place.

If any remain this morning it is by chance only, hence we do not urge a visit.

WHEAT AND GOLD.

Wheat is $1.32 a bushel. Pounds sterling are around $5. Both prices are abnormal, and indicate the demand for the article to which they refer. Bushels of wheat are higher than pounds sterling of gold. Much as foreigners want our gold they want our foodstuffs more. In fact, they want the gold which we owe them on near maturities partly in order that they may buy the food they must have either to fight or to live, and which they cannot get anywhere else. It is absurd that such a deadlock as that should not be broken, and that its breaking should be obstructed by those who have more than they need of both gold and wheat.

Our wheat cannot be taken from us except upon our own terms of payment. To require payment in gold is to fix prices beyond the ability of ourselves to pay. If we want wheat to sell around where we can afford to pay prices extorted from those hungrier than ourselves we must take what they can pay. We must give them credit, either in the form of deferred payments, or of bankers' credit, or of payment in national loans taken instead of gold. Our own Government has obstructed the latter method, but it is open to doubt whether it can or should prevent it altogether. The teachings of experience and humanity are stronger than a form of neutrality which is not recognized in a world accustomed to wars.

The case of our gold is different. We have promised to pay it without any conditions. A promise to pay gold is not a promise to pay through the Clearing House, and is not avoided by the fact that payments are being made generally through the Clearing Houses only in all financial centres. There is no legalized moratorium in this country, and payment of gold could be enforced by legal procedure of the most embarrassing sort. The largest debtor of gold to be paid abroad and the biggest "short" of exchange is the City of New York. It is not to be imagined that it will not redeem its bond. Default could be followed not only by a legal proceeding against the city, but also by embarrassing demands upon both the banks and the Treasury. If the city were to demand its $30,000,000 bank balances in gold it would embarrass the banks. If the banks were to pay in obligations of the Treasury to deliver gold it would embarrass the Treasury. The prices of wheat and gold would be related in their fall as they are in their rise. Free sales of wheat would break the price of exchange, and nothing would break the price of wheat better than liberal foreign credits, either domestic credits or credits which would be created by payments of the gold which we owe. The trouble is that we are owners and sellers of both gold and wheat, and thus are on both sides of the bargain. To pay the party of the other part the gold which we owe is a first solution of the odd difficulty, even though it be incomplete.

PRINCE KROPOTKIN'S HOPES.

It is significant that the veteran Russian agitator and democrat, Prince KROPOTKIN, supports the Government in this war on the express ground that, whatever the issue, "the "Russian military autocracy will not "gain, but all progressive and liber-"alizing forces will be immensely "strengthened." He cites the promise of autonomy to Poland and states that "a great national conference of "all the Zemstvos is to be held in "Moscow entirely unopposed by the "Government." And he looks for concessions to Finland, in the Caucasus, and to the Jews.

It would be interesting to know the specific grounds of this optimism. Apparently it is shared in Russia, whence the information of the Prince is intimate and extended. It can hardly rest on the record of the past, which is full of blasted hopes and broken pledges. On the other hand, it may be said generally that the autocracy in Russia never was in such serious and comprehensive peril as it now is, and periods of peril have been followed heretofore by some radical changes. The war of the Crimea was confined to the shores of the Black Sea. The fall of Sebastopol was the prelude to the emancipation of the serfs. The war with Japan was waged in China and the adjacent seas. Defeat was followed by the concession of a Duma, which, with all its limitations, retains a vital organization.

In a general way the consciousness of danger makes the Czar's Government feel the need of loyalty in the people which oppression saps and tends to convert into hostility. Failure in the struggle with Germany, while it could not lead to the conquest and overrunning of Russia, might easily lead to its dismemberment and crippling and to the fatal weakening of the autocracy. Hence the promises. Prince KROPOTKIN probably relies on the pressure that would be brought upon the Czar and his Government by his allies, or, in case of defeat, by Germany itself.

A CRIME AGAINST HUMANITY.

The dropping of bombs into the City of Antwerp from a German Zeppelin airship is a crime against humanity of which civilized nations should take notice by earnest protests to the German Government. Condemnation of the act is not based upon the decision of the Second Peace Conference at The Hague prohibiting the "discharge of projectiles and explosives "from balloons or any other new meth-"od of a similar nature," which has been ratified by twenty-seven nations. Germany is not one of the signatory powers, and may plead exemption from that declaration. Nor can it be set up that Antwerp should be held free from assault. The city is fortified, and on the principle laid down by BISMARCK in reply to the protests against the bombardment of Paris, a fortified city invites assault. The essence of the crime, the condition that makes it a wanton and brutal offense is of a different nature.

Had Antwerp been besieged and been under bombardment no protest could be made against the use of the Zeppelin airships for dropping explosives upon its buildings and into its streets. But Antwerp was not under bombardment. This German airship was not part of a besieging force, and by dropping explosives upon the city the persons in control of the Zeppelin showed that they were willing to take innocent human lives, lives of men, women, and children alike, in sheer wantonness, for the killing of the inhabitants of Antwerp by this means can be of no possible advantage to the armies of Germany and has no rational place in her war plans. The crime is similar to that of a person who, conceiving himself to have suffered some offense, should open a murderous fire upon a crowd in the street. Under our laws the act of such a person would be murder, and it is defined as "an act imminently "dangerous to others and evincing a "depraved mind regardless of human "life, although without a premedi-"tated design to effect the death of "any individual."

The act of the crew of this Zeppelin airship was so evidently inspired by a depraved mind that we may well doubt whether the ship, although it was part of the military establishment of Germany, was acting under orders from responsible authority. It is not conceivable that the officers of the German Army would permit themselves to carry on war in this manner. It is much more likely that the person in control of the Zeppelin is responsible for the outrage. The act was one of bombardment, yet no notice had been given of intention to open fire, and the persons who lost their lives appear to have been innocent of any participation in hostilities. There have been many charges of brutality by German officers and soldiers, many of them, we believe, unfounded. But it cannot be denied that the excessive devotion to the military idea which Germany has exhibited in recent years of itself engenders brutality and a reckless disregard of the laws of humanity. It is some comfort to learn that the offending airship was soon afterward fired upon and brought to earth. The persons aboard her will richly deserve any punishment that may be inflicted upon them.

DANZIG, THORN, AND KOENIGSBERG.

The strongholds of Eastern Prussia which the Russian armies are about to attack are strong, also, in memories. Koenigsberg, its great forts of the Kaserne Kronprinz on the east and of Friedrichsburg on an island in the Pregel, within ramparts flanked by lines of six forts each on either bank of the river, is not only one of the most important commercial cities of Germany. In its Schloss FREDERICK I. and WILLIAM I. were crowned King of Prussia. ALBERT I. founded here in 1544 the great University of Koenigsberg, wherein KANT, J. G. VON HERDER, BESSEL, F. NEUMANN, and HERBART have taught. The town's part in the Hanseatic League is part of the commercial history of the world.

Thorn, called the "Queen of the Vistula," and "the beautiful," had its "blood bath" in 1724, when a religious war made it part of Poland. COPERNICUS was born there. It, also, was one of the great Hanse towns, and its place commanding the head of the Vistula occasioned the decision to make it a fortress of the first class after the Congress of Vienna created it a permanent possession of Prussia. Thirteen forts built in 1878 will defend Thorn against the Czar's forces.

Fortifications, with ramparts, bastions, and ditches flank Danzig, still flourishing under its aspect of the Middle Ages. There are the old Hanseatic houses; there is the Roman arched Hohe Tor, and the Junker-Hof of the merchant princes. The town is one of the chief in manufactures, in shipbuilding, and it is one of Germany's armories.

These cities have of old been drenched in blood. Perhaps the baptism, if it did not sanctify their greatness, was inevitably a part of it. It is their portion to be baptized anew with blood and fire.

ENFORCING A QUORUM.

It is true Congress has been too long in session. A good deal of its legislation has been unnecessary and disturbing, and some that was necessary has been hindered by the absence of great numbers of its membership to look after their political fences at home. Meanwhile the men who have been responsible for the lack of quorums have each been drawing a salary amounting to $20.54 a day. The instructions given to Sergeant at Arms GORDON to summon the renegades to Washington on pain of forfeiture of this sum for each day's absence are wholesome. We think the summons will be obeyed.

It would be rather undignified to take the recreant members into custody, and the sending out of a posse in search of them would consume time. The method adopted is more expedient. If the trust legislation must be put through, and if some means of adding to the country's revenues cut off by the checking of imports from Europe must be devised, it were well these things were done promptly, and that the country were spared the sight of an endless and dawdling session.

EMERGENCY CURRENCY.

The issue of other currency than the usual banknotes was authorized because of the emergency in which the country found itself as a whole. All trade was prostrated, and the currency was to be issued for the accommodation of everybody who traded in anything, and who could not do business because of the defects of a bond-secured currency unresponsive to the demands of trade, either in expansion or contraction. The cotton conference at Washington substituted an emergency of the cotton planters for an emergency of the country as a reason for the issue of cotton currency. The Secretary of the Treasury justified his support of the proposal by comparing the warehouse certificates to bonds.

The analogy is not convincing. Cotton receipts have more disqualifications than bonds as a basis of currency, and the disqualification of bonds sufficed for their rejection with the approval of a country which had suffered bitterly by their use. As an expression of sympathy with the cotton raisers the Secretary's action is reasonable and creditable. But sympathy with the country is a larger motive, and in that the Secretary fails, perhaps for lack of appreciation of what his action implies and signifies. Is his action to be limited to cotton? Is everything fit for storage to be circulated as currency? His approval is discriminating if it is to be limited, and is a step on a wrong path if it is to be general.

The act of the Secretary takes the cotton receipts out of the class of commercial paper upon which currency can be issued with the approval of the Currency Association to which the issuing bank belongs. By classing the receipts as bonds they are acceptable by direct transaction between the Secretary and the issuing bank. Commercial paper is acceptable up to 30 per cent., but bonds are acceptable up to 70 per cent. of the bank's currency allotment. The Secretary showed appreciation of the danger of his action in condemning every form of valorization of cotton, and yet his course is indirect valorization. The margin of the loans of the banks upon the receipts fixes the price of cotton, and the valuation of the banks is the valuation for the Treasury. It must be so unless the Treasury is to name the margin for the banks. It was said that the Treasury ought to fix the price because the banks did not like to venture to do so. There could not be a better reason why the Treasury should have nothing to do with the scheme. The duty of financing the movement of the crops is a delicate one, and has obnoxious phases. But the duty is not to be shirked for that reason, and it is as appropriate for the banks as it is inappropriate for the Treasury.

It is difficult to say with precision how much currency may be supplied in this way. Two hundred million dollars is above the possible total, and it is to be hoped may be double the probable total. The country does not need the currency, and it will be used not to "move" the crop but to "hold" it. That is the avowed object. There is not too much cotton for the world's wants. There is only too much for the convenience of those who own it. The action is taken through sympathy for those who have too much, in neglect of the wants of those who have too little to supply their needs of cotton and other necessities. If the price of cotton is sustained artificially there will be another surplus, and there will be a collapse such as Brazil experienced with its coffee speculation. Crops differ from other commodities in that they are an annual product, and the year's production ought to be moved out of the way of the next year's supply, a prudent surplus excepted. If the planters were better advised they would accept a temporary sacrifice for their own good. Their position is not peculiar. It is the same as that of many merchants, and as regards crops which have been raised planters are merchants. They suffer with all who feel the effects of the war, and for whom the Government can do nothing in particular. It is surprising that the Secretary should take action so inconsistent with his own words. It is startling to contrast his remarks about the danger of excessive currency issues with his statement that his act makes it possible for banks to borrow "on notes secured by ware-"house receipts for staple products, "not alone cotton, that I think it is "safe to lend on." The volume of the country's currency should not be trusted to any official.

COLE BLEASE'S DEFEAT.

Despite the aid of a strong and unscrupulous political machine and of a direct primary law that included many loopholes for ballot-box stuffers, COLE BLEASE has been rejected by the electorate of South Carolina as a candidate for United States Senator. Gov. BLEASE has taken care to let the people of the whole country know what manner of man he is. His belief in the efficacy of lynching, blatantly expressed, his custom of pardoning convicts by wholesale—he has set free over 1,200 criminals in that small State—and his addiction to violent language and coarse epithets have too long identified South Carolina with a spirit to which the term of Bleaseism has been applied as denoting everything bad in politics.

Senator BENJAMIN TILLMAN—not the radical "Pitchfork BEN" of his younger days, but a statesman on whom the atmosphere of the Senate has had a calming and renovating influence—issued during the primary campaign an appeal to the voters "not to disgrace the State" by sending BLEASE to the nation's capital.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Police Make a Record of Convictions.

We are glad that Police Commissioner WOODS has supplemented the statistics published in his first report with a statement of convictions and criminal cases pending in this city for the first six months of 1914, as compared with the first half of 1913. If Mayor MITCHEL'S Administration, like the Administrations of his predecessors, is to stand or fall by the record of the Police Department, he is entitled to sincere congratulations. The police under Commissioner WOODS have been singularly efficient. Not only have the number of complaints of crime diminished and the number of arrests increased, but there are both absolute and relative gains in convictions and fines imposed.

Thus the complaints of assaults and robbery for the two periods were 407 and 376, respectively, and of convictions 97 and 117, the cases pending at the close of the periods being 85 and 109. Complaints of homicides numbered 205 and 196, while the convictions were 18 for the first period, 21 for the second, and the pending cases were 23 and 78. That indicates that the gangs of Blackhanders and professional gunmen that distracted Mayor GAYNOR'S Administration are being rounded up. The records of the other grades of crime—burglaries, grand and petit larceny, pocket picking, and so on—are equally gratifying.

A Trust in Soporifics Born of War.

Curious even among the revelations which have been thrown upon the screen of publicity by the flame of war is one that discloses the existence of a bromine or bromide trust. It seems that the principal sources of the soporific agent are the salt wells of Michigan and the potash mines of Germany, both of which produce bromine as a by-product. Naturally, it would be supposed—bromine being on the free list of the tariff—that there would be competition between the two sources. Once this was the case. After a while, however, a combination was made similar to those in wood screws, petroleum, and other articles. The two bromine interests divided the world's territory between them, the Germans taking Europe and the Near East, the Americans keeping this part of the earth as their preserve, and the two dividing the Far East.

With Germany just now bottled up we are likely to see bromine and the bromide derivatives, for the first time in years, on certain export lists of the United States, to be followed up, possibly, by an inquiry on the part of the trust hunters at Washington. Meanwhile, the first effect has been a rise in the price of bromides in this country, and this would certainly seem to call for some official action.

Great Britain's "White Paper."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Permit me to congratulate you upon the enterprise and discriminating sense shown in the publication in last Sunday's TIMES of the full text of the "White Paper" issued by the British Foreign Office Aug. 5. It was fairly described in The London Times of Aug. 6 as "one of the most important collections of diplomatic correspondence ever made public." Yet the readers of that paper had to be content with a three-column résumé of that to which you devote nearly six pages. To some of us a copy of the "White Paper" would have been cheap at the price of a year's subscription to THE NEW YORK TIMES; and now we get it thrown in most gratifyingly. Your whole war service is unsurpassed. BENJAMIN P. MERRICK.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Aug. 25, 1914.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

War itself may be hell, but it's paradise when compared to the ravings of the "Pinochle Patriots" who ride on the Erie smokers and give vent to their opinions in loud tones, to the intense annoyance of their fellow-passengers who are not at all interested in the greatness of the Kaiser as an individual. If the Kaiser has such a hold on these pests (many of whom have sworn to be good American citizens) it is a pity that they don't start right back to Germany, even if they have to swim to get there.

HARVEY M. SANDERSON.

Rutherford, N. J., Aug. 25, 1914.

New Jersey Administrator Gives Bond of $250,000.

On petition of George W. Young of Deal Beach, N. J., husband of the late Lillian Nordica Young, the singer, who died while on a trip in the South Sea Islands on May 10, the Orphans' Court in Monmouth County, N. J., yesterday appointed Dew S. Crater, Secretary of State of New Jersey, as temporary administrator of the estate of Mrs. Young. Bond was fixed in the sum of $250,000, which was furnished by the United States Fidelity and Guaranty Company.

After the death of the singer it was learned that there were two wills made by her, the first, drawn up in 1910, leaving her estate to her husband, and the second, drawn up on board the steamship Tasman in the neighborhood of Thursday Island on Dec. 28, 1913, cutting him off on the ground that his wife had given him from time to time cash amounting to $400,000. The first will was attested by Ada W. Baldwin, who was Mme. Nordica's companion; Ernest R. Simmons, her secretary and accompanist, and Howard Constable. The second will was witnessed by Sadie Charlotte MacDonald, matron of the Torres Strait Hospital, where Mme. Nordica died on May 10, and W. M. Le Bryce, the Governor of Thursday Island.

Mr. Young was urged by relatives to file both wills. On Aug. 14 his counsel, John C. Tomlinson, indicated that there would be a bitter contest over the Nordica estate and that the genuineness of the second will would have to be proved. The singer's estate has been estimated at $1,000,000.

John C. Tomlinson, Jr., son of the New York attorney for George W. Young, appeared in the probate office of the Surrogates' Court yesterday and displayed the original of Mme. Nordica's second will. He declared that he had "produced" the will in court as Surrogate Cohalan had ordered. He would not file the paper, and left the building after having been advised that he would be in contempt of court unless he placed the will on file.

Yesterday was the time limit set by Surrogate Cohalan for the production of the original will by Mr. Young or his attorneys. Only a copy of the will has been filed in New York, and it was upon the application of one of the executors that the Surrogate ordered the original "produced." Young. Mr. Tomlinson contends that "produced" doesn't mean "filed."

$5,000 TO ANONYMOUS HEIR

M. Lowenstein Leaves It to a Person Known Only to His Executor.

The will of Moses Lowenstein, who died in the Hotel Wellington on April 15, was filed for probate yesterday. Among numerous bequests was one of $5,000 "to a person known only to John L. N. Hunt, one of my executors, who is commissioned to attend to this." The value of Mr. Lowenstein's estate is not stated, but the bequests show that it must be considerably more than $100,000.

The will leaves $1,000 each to the Mayor of Walloo and of Bredenheim, Germany, for distribution among the poor of those cities without regard to race or creed. Mount Sinai Hospital receives $5,000, and the residue of the estate up to $10,000 is to be equally divided between the Hebrew Technical Institute and the New York Institution for the Instruction of the Deaf and Dumb. If the residue is more than $10,000, the surplus goes to the next of kin.

Leopold Barman, a nephew, receives twelve shares of the stock of the Western National Bank of Baltimore and ninety-two shares of the Electus Glove Button Company. Solomon L. Lowenstein, a brother, and Isidor Loewenthal, a brother-in-law, receive $5,000 each, and $5,000 is left to the children of the decedent's brother, Benjamin Lowenstein, and $5,000 to Amalie Kohn, a sister. The income of $5,000 is left in trust for the decedent's mother, Zerlina Lowenstein, and for each of six sisters and four brothers, not otherwise mentioned. Caroline Herz, a sister-in-law, and Henry Levy, a friend, receive $1,000 each. There are a few other small bequests.

Son of Noted Promoter Made Large Bequests to Friends.

An appraisal of the property in this State of Charles G. Gates, son of the late John W. Gates, was filed in the office of the State Controller yesterday. The estate was estimated to be worth $73,508. Mr. Gates died in his private car at Cody, Wyo., on Oct. 28, 1913, while on a hunting trip.

The New York estate consisted of a house at 105 East Seventy-fourth Street, worth $40,000; two autos, worth $3,700; furniture, worth $518; jewelry, worth $28,630, and furs, worth $660. Mr. Gates's widow, Mrs. Florence H. Gates, gets $9,830 worth of the jewelry, an interest of $2,150 in the two autos and a half interest in the property in East Seventy-fourth Street. Mrs. Delora R. Gates, Mr. Gates's mother, receives an interest of $1,550 in the two autos, furniture worth $518; jewelry amounting to $18,800, and a half interest in the real estate.

In Mr. Gates's will he left to Delia F. Angell, St. Charles, Ill., $100,000; Henry F. Baker, $100,000; Charles E. Hermann, Secretary, $25,000; Albert Haenssler, valet, $20,000; George Scott, $25,000; Charles E. Smith, his former partner, $10,000; Wayne C. Bogue, Detroit, $10,000; Frank P. Hopwood, his father-in-law, of Minneapolis, $25,000; Mrs. Margaret C. Hopwood, his mother-in-law, $25,000; Robert G. and Warren J. Hopwood, his brothers-in-law, $10,000 each. Edward J. Baker, an uncle, received $50,000; Elizabeth S. Gurney, widow of his former partner, Charles H. Gurney, received $10,000, and the same amount was given to Herbert L. Jones, a friend, who was released from the payment of any notes owing to Mr. Gates at the time of his death.

Wendel Estate Pays Transfer Tax.

Pray! Don't Parade.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In the face of the open declaration by a religious critic that in this appalling return to barbarism on the part of the great powers we are witnessing the breakdown of Christianity, is it not a time for humiliation and prayer instead of parades? Should not we women seek our closets, there to implore Almighty God to have mercy on His sinful world, and speedily bring this terrible, devastating war to an end? A parade, admirable as it may seem as a protest, is futile to produce results. Prayer can stay armies and stop bloodshed and bring peace.

Germany's Case.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Permit me to express to you personally my great appreciation of your noble and statesmanlike editorial article in THE TIMES entitled "Germany Presents Her Case." It rings true to the highest moral consciousness and to the clearest political insight into this terrible international imbroglio. It is quite heartening to read your editorial page, especially in these dark days.

BLASPHEMY.

With hatred gleaming in his eyes,
Aflame with vengeance, lust, and pride,
The war lord arrogantly cries,
"The God of Hosts is on our side."

O arrant fool, to think that He
Who watcheth e'en a sparrow's fall
Would aid such foul iniquity
As war by taking sides at all.

SHIP PROCLAMATION URGED BY FARRELL

Head of Steel Corporation Wants President to Act Quickly on Registry Bill.

VESSELS AWAIT TRANSFER

But Nothing Can Be Done Until Terms Are Known—War Risk Bill May Be Sent to President Tonight.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Criticising the Government departments for slowness in putting into operation the emergency legislation which Congress passed at the outbreak of the European war, Representative James R. Mann, the Republican House leader, today read a telegram received by him from James A. Farrell, President of the United States Steel Corporation, pleading for an immediate proclamation by the President making effective the ship registry law, passed more than a week ago. Mr. Farrell, in his telegram, said that various ships of his concern which were available for the oversea trade were being held in American ports at heavy expense for further information from Washington indicating what disposition should be made of them.

"We appropriated $2,750,000 some weeks ago to bring home American citizens from abroad," said Mr. Mann. "I have no disposition to criticise, but I wonder why we cannot get the machinery in motion so as actually to take care of the people."

Mr. Farrell's telegram to Representative Mann follows:

Our steamer Bartu, loaded for Uruguay and Argentina, and steamer Crofton Hall, loaded for Chile and Peru, in New York Harbor ready to sail. Steamer Kentra ready for grain or cotton Atlantic Coast or Gulf. Steamer Santa Rosalia, Puget Sound, ready for wheat. Steamers San Francisco, Buena Ventura, Ikaria, Industry, Matoppo and several others available for transporting American products.

We are patiently awaiting issuance of proclamation in order to be in an intelligent position as to whether we can put these steamers under American flag immediately and operate them competitively with steamers in oversea trade under other flags. As our steamers are being held in various ports at very heavy expense, would appreciate advices as to about when information will be available to enable us to determine what to do. Capt. Dollar and other American owners of ships now under foreign flags are in same position.

The provisions of law prescribing that the watch officers of vessels of the United States shall be American citizens should be suspended for a period of at least three years, and the provisions of law requiring survey, inspection and measurement by officers of the United States should also be suspended for the same period. Further, until the War Risk Insurance Bill has passed the House and becomes effective, we would be without insurance in the event of a transfer. JAMES A. FARRELL,
President United States Steel Corporation.

It is planned by the House leaders to pass the War Risk Insurance bill tomorrow, despite the opposition of the Republicans. This is to be accomplished through a special rule limiting debate and restricting amendment. The Rules Committee will meet tomorrow forenoon to formulate a programme for the expedition of the legislation. The bill already has passed the Senate, and it is the expectation that it will be ready for the President's signature by tomorrow night.

The Seamen's bill, which was under consideration Tuesday, is the pending order of business for the House tomorrow. This legislation can be disposed of, in the opinion of Chairman Alexander of the Merchant Marine Committee, having the matter in charge, in less than two hours, after which the War Risk measure will be taken up. The Seamen's bill is not subject to amendment, and no motion to recommit it to committee can be made.

Chairman Alexander said today that the bill for a Government-controlled corporation to establish an American merchant marine will follow the War Risk bill in the House. The Merchant Marine Committee had announced that hearings would be held on that measure tomorrow, but none of those interested up to last night had signified an intention of being present.

Representative Underwood, the House leader, said today that war revenue legislation would not be attempted until the legislative conditions were such in both House and Senate that the bill could go through without unnecessary delay. There is no special hurry for this legislation, for the Treasury has ample funds for present needs. Mr. Underwood said that any tax naturally would disturb business and that, when it had been decided what should be done, the legislation would be enacted without delay.

TO GET SHIPPING VIEWS.

Will Be Put Before President in Modifying Navigation Laws.

A committee of the Maritime Exchange, headed by Edgar J. Luckenbach, which recently was appointed to consider possible changes in the American navigation laws of a sort to promote our merchant marine, announced yesterday that 1,500 letters had been sent out to shipping interests. In the letters a series of questions dealing with the matter were set forth for the purpose of getting the opinions of ocean traffic men of both coasts. When the replies have been received, they will be condensed and submitted to President Wilson for consideration. The emergency shipping law passed by Congress gives the President power to rescind or alter the existing laws at his discretion.

It was said at a meeting of the committee that the system followed for measuring and inspecting American bottoms makes the cost of operating an American vessel about 40 per cent. higher than for a similar ship under the British flag. The net tonnage of American vessels, on which port charges are based, was said to be considerably greater than that allowed under the rules of the British Board of Trade.

Clothing for Wounded Soldiers.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Red Cross Societies of Europe have sent to the United States for thousands of paper patterns for pajamas and nightshirts for the wounded soldiers.

Is this not a pathetic reminder that the finished articles would be far more welcome, and would it not be an act of simple humanity for each and every American woman to make one garment?

The pitiful appeal should find a ready response, particularly among women who have so much time to spare at Summer resorts.

Goods for South America.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A friend of mine who has lived much in South America has often said that the reason they preferred to buy European goods was because they were properly packed to stand a long, rough trip, while our things, being insufficiently wrapped, were almost always broken or damaged in transit. As a movement is on foot to secure the trade of South American countries, it might be well to call the attention of the public to the fact.

The Colonel's Return to Health.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I note that THE TIMES in reporting some Oyster Bay proceedings says: "Then the Colonel banged his knee with his fist. 'I am ready for the fight,' he said, with a grim set to his jaws. 'I am feeling better and stronger every day.'" Hoopla! Sounds just like old times, doesn't it? Also sounds just like (censored,) too, doesn't it? MEMBERS FLOCK TO HOUSE.

Docking Resolution Brings Immediate Response from Absentees.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—The decision of the House to deduct $20.54, representing one day's pay, from the compensation of each member for each day he is absent produced the desired effect today. At no time during the session was a quorum out of earshot of the clerk, whose duty it is to call the roll, and the business of the lower body of Congress ran along more smoothly than in two months.

The first roll call developed the presence of 267 members, forty-nine more than a quorum. Later in the day this number was augmented by the incoming of members from nearby States. It is not expected by the leaders that the present session will be hampered again by a lack of a sufficient number of members to do business.

Several members who had been here so infrequently that their faces were unfamiliar to the doorkeepers were held up as they endeavored to enter the chamber, and Speaker Clark, in one case, was compelled to seek assistance in the identification of a member who presented himself late at the clerk's desk to be recorded as being on the job.

Sergeant at Arms Gordon announced that he would enforce the law with as much liberality as he could command under the circumstances. The law says that sickness of a member or of his family is a legitimate excuse for absence. The Sergeant at Arms declared that he would place each member on his honor. If the member makes the excuse of sickness, nothing will be taken from his pay.

Representative Mann, the Republican leader, who Tuesday opposed the adoption of the docking resolution, continued to poke fun and sarcasm at the Democrats today.

"A short time ago," said Mr. Mann, "several members of the Missouri delegation presented with great eclat on the floor of this House the statement that they had asked the President to keep Congress in session and that they would always be here at his right hand to support him. Today there are six out of the fifteen in the House."

Speaker Clark in reply suggested that the House "should not be turned into a hippodrome."

FARLEY WELCOMED IN ROME

One Cardinal Was Transferred from One Ship to Another at Sea.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Aug. 26.—Cardinal Farley of New York, who arrived here from Switzerland late yesterday, has been cordially welcomed. The papers mention the circumstance that he is the first of the American Cardinals to reach Rome for the Conclave which will elect a successor to Pope Pius, and refer to his work on behalf of Italian immigrants in America.

It is believed in Vatican circles that Cardinal Farley is likely to have a good deal of influence in the Conclave.

ROME, Aug. 26.—Cardinal Farley of New York, accompanied by Monsignore Patrick J. Hayes and John Edwards and the Rev. Thomes D. Carroll, went to St. Peter's yesterday. They were received by Mgr. Giuseppe de Bisogno, Administrator of the Basilica.

They knelt and prayed before the tomb of the Apostle and then descended into the crypt to pay last homage before the resting place of Pope Pius X. They remained there in prayer for a considerable time.

Preparations for the Conclave which is to choose a successor to the late Pope continued today. The sixth congregation of the Cardinals was held, and several newly arrived members of the Sacred College took part in it. Among them was Cardinal Cavalcanti, Archbishop of Rio Janeiro. The Cardinal said he had already sailed for home from Europe when the news of the Pope's death reached his steamer by wireless. By the use of wireless the Cardinal succeeded in summoning another steamer, to which he was transferred at sea and which brought him to the Continent.

The congregation today took the oath of secrecy concerning everything relating to the Conclave.

Anna Sarto, sister of the Pope, who was prostrated by her brother's death, has recovered and expects to leave here soon with her sister to live in Possagno.

PARIS, Aug. 26.—A service for the repose of the soul of Pope Pius was held in the Cathedral of Notre Dame today. President Poincaré was represented by Capt. Barrière.

The fact that the President of the Republic was present by proxy is regarded as an indication that all parties in France, including the factions which took part in the separation of Church and State campaigns, have become reconciled during the present struggle.

There was a great gathering of notable persons in the church, including Signor Tittoni, the Italian Ambassador, and M. Isvolsky, the Russian Ambassador.

Guard of Honor for Papal Delegate.

Mgr. Mooney announced last night that the Color Guard of the Knights of Columbus, fifty strong, would form an escort of honor for the Papal Delegate, Archbishop Bonzano, who will sing the requiem mass for Pope Pius X. at St. Patrick's Cathedral at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning.

ICE FAVORS KARLUK CREW.

Conditions in Arctic Now Indicate Their Early Rescue.

NOME, Alaska, Aug. 26.—The crew of the gasoline schooner Hattie D., which arrived yesterday from the arctic coast of Siberia, reported that ice conditions were favorable now for the rescue of the twenty-one men and one woman who have been marooned on Wrangel Island since the Stefansson exploring ship Karluk was wrecked in the arctic ice last Winter.

The Captain of the schooner said he endeavored to reach Wrangel Island, and would have succeeded had not his gasoline supply become so depleted when his boat was 100 miles from the island that it was necessary to turn about and run for Nome.

The United States revenue cutter Bear sailed from Nome on July 21 to rescue the Karluk's crew. The Captain of the Hattie B. said that the Bear should have no difficulty in reaching the island. Capt. Robert Bartlett, master of the wrecked Karluk, sailed from Nome on the Bear to supervise the rescue of his crew.

STILL FIGHTING ELECTION.

Citizens' Union Case Argued Before Appellate Division.

"A bogus constitution will be foisted upon the people of the State of New York at the Constitutional Convention to be held in 1915 unless the Supreme Court of this State intervenes."

Louis Marshall, appearing as attorney for William Jay Schieffelin of the Citizens' Union, thus summed up his address yesterday to the five Justices of the Appellate Division, who had come in from their Summer vacations to hear argument on the appeal from Justice Seabury's ruling denying an injunction restraining the Board of Elections from holding an election for delegates to the Constitutional Convention. The Appellate Court reserved decision.

Presiding Justice Ingraham remarked that the court would be "compelled to jump" at the case in order to give a decision in time to have the case go to the Court of Appeals and have a decision rendered before the primaries.

FINDS ONE VACANCY IN CITY COURT BENCH

DELEHANTY RETAINS SEAT

Never Legally Elected, Hence His Place Is Not Vacant—Cases Going to Highest Court.

Five Justices of the Appellate Division hastened in from their country places yesterday to hear arguments on whether there is to be an election this Fall to fill the vacancies in the cases of City Court Judges Ransom, Delehanty, Lynch, and La Fetra. The court decided that there was no vacancy in the cases of Judges Ransom and Delehanty; there was one vacancy to be filled, it was held, in the cases of Judges Lynch and La Fetra, but the court did not decide which was the vacancy. The four cases are to go to the Court of Appeals in a day or two for final adjudication.

The court in July had adjourned for the Summer season, not to meet until Oct. 6. The urgency of deciding the cases and having them taken to the Court of Appeals for final adjudication in time for the Board of Elections to prepare ballots, &c., for the coming primaries and election induced the Justices to sit. Presiding Justice Ingraham came in from Bar Harbor, Me.; Justice McLaughlin from Port Henry, N. Y.; Justice Laughlin from near Buffalo; Justice Dowling from Allenhurst, N. J., and Justice Hotchkiss from Southampton, L. I.

The cases of Judges Ransom and Delehanty are treated individually; Judges Lynch and La Fetra are coupled in a separate opinion.

Judge Ransom, the court holds, per curiam, is legally holding his office, having been elected properly in 1913. In this case Owen Murphy, a Bronx County voter, asked for a peremptory writ of mandamus directing the Board of Elections to publish the regulation notices to the effect that the office of Judge Ransom was vacant and was to be voted on at the Fall election. Murphy's contention was that the voters in Bronx County were not permitted to vote for City Court Judges in the election of 1913, whereas the voters in the new county were entitled under a decision of the Court of Appeals to vote for such office.

The writ was denied in Special Term of the Supreme Court, and this ruling was affirmed by the higher court yesterday. The decision stated that the mandamus proceeding was not the proper method to attack the office of Judge Ransom, whose title to office could be questioned only in an action by the people of the State and to which the Judge was a party. He was not named in the action as a party to the suit.

In the case of Judge Delehanty the prevailing opinion, written by Presiding Justice Ingraham and concurred in by Justices Dowling and McLaughlin, held that there was no vacancy for the reason that the office never was legally filled. It recited that Judge Delehanty was elected to the office in 1900, an even year; that this was unconstitutional, as the law required him to be elected in an odd year, as the office was a newly created one. The only City Court Judges who might be elected in an even year were those chosen to fill a vacancy.

The opinion then states that Judge Delehanty began his term of office on Jan. 1, 1901, and served the full ten years until 1910, when he was re-elected. This re-election, the opinion stated, also was unconstitutional.

Judge Delehanty will hold office until the Court of Appeals decides his case, the Board of Elections meantime being restrained from taking any steps preliminary to voting for the office he holds. Justices Laughlin and Hotchkiss dissented.

In the cases of Judges Lynch and La Fetra the court, Justice Laughlin writing the prevailing opinion and Justices Dowling and Hotchkiss concurring, it was held that there was a vacancy to be filled at the coming election, but the opinion failed to state which one of the two Judges' places was to be voted for. This question could be settled only by the Court of Appeals. Justice McLaughlin and Presiding Justice Ingraham dissented, and took the stand that under no conditions was there a vacancy.

MAY OUST MITCHEL BOARD.

State Civil Service Commission Hints at Municipal Removals.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Aug. 26.—It was announced by the State Civil Service Commission after its meeting today that it "would institute a general investigation of the New York City Municipal Commission as soon as its other duties and the appropriations would permit."

At today's meeting the commission further considered the appointment, without examination, of forty-seven investigators of charitable institutions in the New York City Department of Charities. From the information at hand, the State Commission considers that the appointments were "not the only violation of the letter and spirit of the civil service law by the present Municipal Commission since its appointment by Mayor Mitchel in January last."

A statement given out at the office of the State Commission seems to indicate the possibility of the removal of the Municipal Commissioners. The commission quotes the lawto show that "if any Municipal Civil Service Commissioner is found guilty of incompetency, inefficiency, neglect of duty, or violation charged, he may be removed from office with the approval of the Governor; whenever a Municipal Commissioner has been removed, or whenever such Commissioner shall resign, or be removed by the Mayor pending an investigation by the State Commission, said commission, and not the Mayor, shall have power to appoint a person to fill the vacancy."

MODIFY NICARAGUA TREATY.

Payment of $3,000,000 on National Debt, Not Internal Improvements.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—A sub-committee of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations has decided to recommend a further amendment to the proposed treaty with Nicaragua. The paraphrase of the Platt Amendment giving the United States something in the nature of a protectorate over the little republic already has been eliminated to meet serious criticism within and without the committee, and it is now proposed to provide that the $3,000,000 to be paid by the United States for a canal right of way be devoted to payment of Nicaragua's national debt.

As first proposed by Mr. Bryan, the treaty provided that the money go to internal improvements, and the United States inferentially would have reserved the right to interfere with the Nicaraguan Treasury to the extent of seeing that the treaty was carried out in that particular.

PANAMA GUNS TESTED.

Experiments with Huge Pieces on Pacific End Prove Satisfactory.

PANAMA, Aug. 26.—Exhaustive tests were made today of the huge guns at the Pacific end of the Panama Canal. The tests were entirely satisfactory.

There was an all-day firing of the guns with both normal and over-charges.

SMART MELODRAMA SPLENDIDLY PLAYED

A Shrewdly Chosen Company Makes Doubly Sure the Success of "Under Cover."

A PLAY WITH A SURPRISE

Mr. Megrue, Who Wrote It, Has Cunningly Reserved His Strongest Thrust for the Last Minute.

UNDER COVER, a play in four acts by Roi Cooper Megrue. At the Cort Theatre.

James Duncan....Harry Crosby
Harry Gibbs....Jay Wilson
Peter....George Stevens
Daniel Taylor....De Witt C. Jennings
Sarah Peabody....Rae Selwyn
Ethel Cartwright....Lily Cahill
Amy Cartwright....Phoebe Foster
Michael Harrington....Wilfred Draycott
Lambart....John May
Nora Rutledge....Lola Fisher
Alice Harrington....Lucile Watson
Monty Vaughn....Ralph Morgan
Steven Denby....William Courtenay

A melodrama of crime and its detection, of smuggled jewels and the forces of the law closing in upon the smuggler, of a girl driven to aid them against the promptings of her affections, of alarms in the night, of whistles heard out under the shrubbery, of lights switched on and off, and of revolvers fired in the dark—this is "Under Cover," the new entertainment which New York saw for the first time last evening at the Cort Theatre. Thus far it is not strikingly different from the melodramas which in overwhelming numbers have been invading this city during the last two years. But "Under Cover" is something more.

Above all it is an ingeniously fashioned play, so constructed that its most vigorous thrust comes in the form of a surprise which is withheld until the last act is well under way. Its full force is felt at the moment when only too often at the theatre some members of the audience are beginning to reach restlessly for their wraps.

Roi Cooper Megrue, who wrote "Under Cover," has achieved this by the device of keeping a secret from his audience. It would be a fearful task to have to count all the paragraphs that must have been written in profound explanation of why this is something which playwrights must never, never do. But it seems that the latter-day writers for the theatre are more and more inclined to take liberties with the laws of dramatic construction, and some of their more recent evasions have been crowned with a confusing success.

Out of all last season's products the play that naturally comes to mind as an example is the triumphant "Seven Keys to Baldpate," and though the season is so young that the September plays are still in rehearsal one has only to visit the Candler to witness a new work in which the author has cheerfully violated one of the most formidable traditions of the theatre and done so with highly gratifying results.

These adventures in dramatic construction threaten soon to become so much the order of the day that a performance like Mr. Megrue's will hardly deserve to be described in terms of temerity. But at present such tricks as his are sufficiently rare to add zest to habitual theatregoing, and as a piece of theatrical property "Under Cover" has all the immense advantage of being striking.

When a playwright elects to play this particular trick upon his audience he must see to it that, however much misled and possibly mystified by events passing on the stage, the people out front shall be kept interested in those events as they succeed one another and as act succeeds act. In this Mr. Megrue is successful, for "Under Cover" is at least interesting all the time.

It is not true that he has happily evaded all the difficulties which the device entails, for time and again the persons of his play do things which seem unreasonable and even preposterous until they are remembered in the light of the last act's development. This is a real defect, possibly an inevitable one, but it must be said that the last act straightens out most of the kinks in the play's plausibility. And the audience departs not only smiling, but very wide awake.

The story of "Under Cover" concerns a certain lovely necklace brought undeclared into this port by one known to his acquaintances as Steven Denby. Necklace and all, he joins a small house party at the home of some steamer friends on Long Island. There the officers from the Custom House close in about him, guided from time to time by the girl for whom Denby cares, and who cares for Denby. The task is a bitter one for her, but the ruthless deputy collector forces her to take it up by threatening to expose her younger sister for a crime half-innocently committed.

The crash comes when Denby traps her in his room, to which she has come to find the necklace, and when all unconsciously he gives the signal which was to have been her sign that the customs authorities were to raid the house. How a few moments later the tables are swiftly turned and Denby escapes from the toils of the Collector's office—that is the material of the last act, and that is Mr. Megrue's little secret.

The events of this last act, by the way, begin some five minutes before the close of the act preceding. They begin with a sleepy, 3-in-the-morning bridge game that is exceptionally amusing. Its nodding progress is interrupted by the warning whistle outside, the sound of the alarm ringing through the house and the report of a revolver echoing through the upper halls.

It is the crash of the third act climax as heard by the unsuspecting folk at the card table downstairs. This tampering with the strict sequence of events is unusual enough to be piquant, but it can hardly arouse more than a fleeting interest among the playgoers who have just witnessed the violent shiftings of time that enliven "On Trial."

It has been suggested that there are many moments in the course of "Under Cover" when much of what is done on the stage seems just absurd. That the strain on the audience's acquiescence is not too painful is due to the remarkably competent company which the producers have assembled for the New York production. Several of the individual performances are exceptional and the whole company makes a splendid team. William Courtenay and Lily Cahill come pretty close to making the smuggler and the girl seem real.

Miss Cahill plays with charm and force. The rôle has innumerable difficulties. She surmounts most of them. In a smaller part Lola Fisher is pleasing, and as Mrs. Harrington, the clever but amiable hostess of the house party, Lucile Watson gives a performance that is a delight from first to last. Wilfred Draycott is admirable as Mr. Harrington.

Mr. Jennings is not particularly happy in the rôle of the pursuing deputy from the collector's office. Of course, Mr. Megrue is careful to see that his audience shall never for one moment get on friendly terms with this character, but it does seem as though the performance would gain perceptibly in smoothness if the deputy were less obviously a thug of peculiarly unpleasant aspect.

For smoothness your melodrama must have, and "Under Cover" achieves it to no small degree, not only through the skill of the players, but through the brightness of what may be called the melodrama's small talk. There is a good deal of the play that is smartly written, and this helps immeasurably in the total of the agreeable impression which it gives. After the first night at the Cort Theatre it is not difficult to see why Boston was pleased with "Under Cover."

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Col. Charles H. Laucheimer, United States Marine Corps, made a statement tonight in his capacity as President of the Army and Navy Club of Washington contradicting a report to the effect that there was a dance at the Army and Navy Club on the night that Mrs. Wilson died. Col. Laucheimer said:

"The facts as to the procedure at the Army and Navy Club at the time of the death of Mrs. Wilson are as follows: The President of the club learned of Mrs. Wilson's death about 4 P. M. on Thursday, Aug. 6, which was but a short time after her death occurred. He immediately directed that the part of the programme including music and dancing at the club on that evening be canceled, and that there be no music at the club until further notice. From that time until Wedensday evening, Aug. 12, the day following the funeral and interment of Mrs. Wilson at Rome, Ga., there was no music at the Army and Navy Club."

ROBERT J. COLLIER IS CRITICALLY ILL

Publisher, Unconscious Since Sunday, Being Rushed Here on a Special Train.

EFFORTS TO ROUSE HIM FAIL

Wife and Physicians Hurriedly Summoned to Summer Home at Raquette Lake.

Special to The New York Times.

RAQUETTE LAKE, N. Y., Aug. 26.—Robert J. Collier, editor and publisher of Collier's Weekly, is critically ill with uraemic poisoning. Late tonight he was removed from his Summer home here to his private car Vagabondia, and will arrive in New York early tomorrow morning.

On Sunday afternoon Mr. Collier fell asleep, and all efforts to awaken him were unavailing. His condition was attributed to extreme weariness, due to his athletic activities, and no alarm was felt. He had planned to leave that evening for New York with his wife, and, regarding the condition of her husband as simply the result of fatigue, Mrs. Collier departed alone.

On Monday morning, Mr. Collier had not awakened, and the household became disturbed. Dr. Parker, the local physician, was called, and made an examination of the patient. At that time the serious nature of Mr. Collier's trouble was not apparent. When night came and he still remained unconscious, Mrs. Collier was summoned and also Dr. F. J. Douglass of Utica. The latter arrived early yesterday morning, and some time later Mrs. Collier arrived accompanied by Dr. McCreedy, a New York specialist. The physicians discovered at once that Mr. Collier was in a critical condition. A special train was chartered and two trained nurses from Utica were sent for.

This morning Dr. Rogers, the Collier family physician, arrived from New York. The patient was still unconscious, and it was decided to take him to his home in New York.

LAUDS COMPENSATION ACT.

Gompers Fears Attacks on It Threaten Industrial Peace.

SCHENECTADY, Aug. 26.—Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, this afternoon addressed the convention of the New York State Federation. He praised the workmen's compensation law, and said if prosperity followed the European war it must be shared by empolyers with their employes. In his opinion, attempts by employers to discredit the compensation law did not bode well for industrial tranquility in New York.

Various reports were read at today's session, and all made some reference to the workmen's compensation act. The report of the Committee on Legislation urged careful consideration of the compensation law and a vigorous fight to support it and to obtain amendments to make it more effective and to extend its benefits. The report said:

"We should speak out in thunderous tones our severest condemnation of employers who are attempting to nullify the act by discrimination against the married man and by the enforcement of the physical examination of employes, both of which are contrary to the spirit of the law."

Miss Helen Todd of California and Miss Elizabeth Freeman of England will address the convention tomorrow on woman suffrage. An attempt to obtain the floor for anti-suffrage speakers to reply to them was discouraged.

MAY LOSE RARE PHILATELY.

J. A. Klemann's Treasure Floating About with the Cecilie.

John A. Klemann of the Nassau Stamp Company has not been able to regain possession of his valuable collection of Confederate postage stamps which he shipped by the Kronprinzessin Cecilie of the North German Lloyd Company to be shown at the Cassel (Germany) stamp exhibition. The Cassel exhibition was to have been held on Aug. 8, but the war caused its abandonment.

When the Cecilie sailed for Bremen it carried, in addition to its large amount of gold, rare philatelic treasures which if lost could hardly be duplicated. They consisted of Mr. Klemann's Confederate issues and Charles Lathrop Pack's fine collections of the stamps of Uruguay, Spain, and Victoria. Mr. Pack's collections were in ten packages, containing in all nineteen volumes, and were part of the registered mail. After the Cecilie put back into Bar Harbor, Me., Mr. Pack recovered his collection.

Mr. Klemann's collection was consigned through the local agents of the German Imperial Parcel Post, who placed the box aboard the Cecilie in warrant of the purser. Mr. Klemann made a demand on the agents for the return of his collection, and was informed that nothing could be done until the vessel reached New York. Mr. Klemann fears that this may not occur until the ending of the war.

We have not increased the importation price of HAIG & HAIG SCOTS WHISKY.

Owing to increased insurance rates, caused by the European War and advance in Exchange, it costs the importers about 24 cents per case additional, and this will promptly be reduced as soon as shipping conditions become normal.

Consumers should, therefore, not be charged exorbitant prices, as the advance is but 2 cents per bottle.

As HAIG & HAIG is more largely consumed in the United States than any other brand, we take the liberty of informing our friends of the actual conditions.

We have, and will continue to have, sufficient stock to fill all orders.

Why England and Germany Went to War

The Official "White Papers" of Both Countries in Pamphlet Form.

The demand for copies of The New York Times containing the full text of The White Paper of the British Foreign Office and the Memorandum issued by the German Government, both of which were printed exclusively in this newspaper, has been so great that The Times has decided to publish them in a separate pamphlet, the size of The Annalist, and on paper of the same quality. This pamphlet will be of inestimable value to all who wish to form a coherent and unprejudiced opinion of the relative position of Great Britain and Germany in regard to responsibility for the war. The diplomatic correspondence preceding the outbreak of hostilities cannot be obtained by the public in any other form.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Uprush in Wheat Carried Further—Negotiations with London Still Under Way.

Another violent rise in grain prices—cash wheat sold in New York as high as $1.32 a bushel—was the market's reflection yesterday of the belief that Tuesday's news meant a prolongation of the war in Europe. Lately wheat has been wanted much more freely for export than during the first fortnight of the war, and yesterday's additional rise of 7 cents a bushel in wheat was apparently attributable not only to this immediate demand but to speculative operations based on the prospect that a long-drawn-out war would force grain prices still higher.

Such an outlook would suggest a greatly decreased European supply next year, which could not perhaps be sufficiently offset by increased production in the United States and in other exporting countries which are at peace to avert prices much higher than those which prevailed at the outset of this week. The rise since then is looked upon as a discounting of the probable effects of a prolonged war. To the extent to which the rise in wheat carried this significance it was of course decidedly bad news, but the rise was favorable to the extent to which it reflected an increase export movement which will serve to offset our obligations on the other side.

The larger this export movement becomes the easier will be the solution of the problem over which our bankers are still working of making provision for the obligations which we have to meet in Europe during the next few months. The negotiations which have been under way looking to the establishment of a mutual understanding on this point between our bankers and the Bank of England had not yet been concluded, but the belief was expressed that ultimately the consent of the English market to the proposed plan will be obtained.

The chief trade news of the day appeared in the weekly summaries of the situation in the steel trade. The Iron Age records that the mills are as busy as they were in July, and some of them more active than they were in that month, while the new buying is considerably less than the output of the mills. Home consumers are increasing their stocks to some extent against the possible effects of the war. The inquiries from abroad, while not very large, are sufficiently numerous to be a sustaining influence in steel prices. So long as the present situation on the seas lasts the markets which have been buying from Germany will have to place their orders elsewhere to the extent of their needs. How far these will be affected by the war remains to be determined, although it must be assumed that the stoppage of all capital outflow from Europe will reduce the demand for construction merchandise in many of the countries which in the past have been supplied with capital by Europe.

FOREIGNERS WANT STEEL.

Inquiries from Abroad for Large Tonnage Cheers Trade.

The principal development in the steel trade this week has been the receipt of inquiries for extensive tonnages from foreign countries whose source of supply has been curtailed by the war.

The Iron Age says:

The tendency at the moment is to exaggerate the amount and significance of the inquiries from other countries for American steel products. England has asked prices on billets, sheet bars, wire rods, and plates. For Australia 31,000 tons of rails are wanted. Canada has been in the market for larger tonnages of wire rods and sheets than for some time. South America inquiry for iron and steel is small and tentative. Japan was inquiring for small amounts of a number of products, but rather in fear that British shipping would be held up more than has proved to be the case.

The tendency of prices is upward. In wire products the $1 advance made by two independent companies has been followed by the Steel Corporation and others, bringing nails to $1.60 and fencing wire to $1.40.

The Iron Trade Review says:

Continued heavy inquiry in this country for steel products for shipment to foreign consumers whose sources of supply have been shut off or interrupted by the European war features the iron and steel situation. The tonnage represented by these negotiations is heavy in the aggregate, and it is inspiring a favorable sentiment.

WOOL MARKET IS BUOYANT.

Sales of Week 10,000,000 Pounds—Cotton Goods Unsettled.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Aug. 26.—The American Wool and Cotton Reporter will say tomorrow:

"The wool market is buoyant with very active trading and prices well maintained with a decided tendency toward strengthening on certain of the more desirable grades of wool. Sales during the week have amounted to 10,000,000 pounds. The inquiry is considerably broadened, and sales have been in much larger quantities than for several weeks past. A new contingent has entered the market, some of the large German mills of Passaic sending their buyers here, who have purchased large quantities of the finer territory wools.

"The woolen goods market is still in a rather unsettled condition due largely to the European trouble, but there is a decidedly better outlook.

"In the women's wear market there has been a decided increase in demand from domestic mills for goods which may be substituted for some of the foreign serges which will not be obtainable. Broadcloths in particular have sold in such quantities that the majority of domestic manufacturers who are able to produce a satisfactory lightweight cloth have taken all the orders that their machinery is capable of caring for.

"The cotton goods market is in a more unsettled condition in some respects than in previous weeks, although considerable strength has developed in certain directions. The weakest portion of the cotton goods industry is probably the print cloth division. Prices have declined, and even at the lower quotations there are no large sales reported. Many print cloth manufacturers are making every effort possible to see if their machinery cannot be adapted to the production of a fabric that is in greater demand."

S. H. P. PELL & CO. OFFER.

Firm Proposes a New Corporation to Liquidate Its Assets.

The general partners of S. H. P. Pell & Co., the brokerage firm which failed recently, have proposed to creditors a plan for meeting the debts of the house. A letter sent out yesterday states that the liabilities are figured at $5,340,573, against which stand assets aggregating $1,322,200. A corporation to liquidate the assets is proposed, the corporation to issue its notes to creditors, bearing 5 per cent., interest from day of issue, and payable at stated times.

The largest creditor is Col. R. M. Thompson, with a claim of $3,100,000. The letter says that he will waive his claim provided the receivers will release to him all of the securities owned by him which went under the receivers' charge when they took up their work.

It is also suggested that the proposed corporation be known as the Pell Assets Corporation, and that its total stock, amounting to 100 shares, be held by three trustees, two of whom to be selected by Cotton Exchange creditors and the third by the other creditors. The plan provides that the three Cotton Exchange seats and the Stock Exchange membership owned by partners shall be sold and the proceeds applied to the payment of debts.

Silk Men and the Moratoria.

Leading silk importers and manufacturers met at the office of the American Silk Association yesterday and discussed the foreign exchange situation as applied to their business. The payment of acceptances drawn in England, Germany and France against shipments to this country before moratorium was declared in those countries was chiefly considered. It was decided after considerable debate that payment could not be required until the expiration of periods established under the different moratoria, and this finding was embodied in a resolution.

STEAM PUMP PUT IN RECEIVERS' HANDS

C. P. Coleman and G. M. P. Murphy to Run Business of the International.

DEBTS ABOUT $10,000,000

Papers in Equity Suit Put Assets at $9,000,000 or More—Plan for Reorganization.

The International Steam Pump Company, which controls companies comprising the largest part of the steam pump industry in the United States and the principal promoter of which was the late Benjamin Guggenheim, who perished in the Titanic disaster, voluntarily went into receivership yesterday. Shortage of money, due to the war, was given as the immediate cause. In an equity suit brought to conserve the assets of the company Judge Julius Mayer, in the Federal District Court, appointed C. Philip Coleman and Grayson M. P. Murphy receivers.

The firm is a New Jersey corporation with authorized capital stock amounting to $39,000,000, of which $11,350,000 of the preferred and $17,762,500 of the common stock have been issued. There is also a first lien mortgage bond issue amounting to nearly $9,000,000, upon which interest is due Sept. 1, which cannot be paid. The receivers, who were required to furnish a joint bond of $50,000, were authorized by Judge Mayer to continue the company's business, and they will be allowed to issue receivers' certificates to pay current and running expenses. The company, it was announced, was to be immediately reorganized.

The insolvency suit was brought by Paul D. Cravath, as counsel for William W. Conley, a stockholder to the extent of $30,000; J. Horace Harding, a bondholder to the amount of $10,000, and Alexander J. Lindsay, a creditor having an open claim of $3,000.

The officers of the defendant company, after admitting that the corporation is not able to meet its indebtedness because of the shortage of cash due to the war, joined in the application for the appointment of the receivers.

Although the papers in the equity suit were filed after office hours last night in the Federal Court Clerk's office and therefore were not accessible to reporters, it was learned that they placed the liabilities of the concern at between $10,000,000 and $11,000,000, which included the bonded indebtedness. The papers stated that the assets would amount to at least $9,000,000.

Committee of Bondholders.

With a view to a prompt reorganization of the company it was announced that a Bondholders' Committee had been selected as follows: Charles H. Sabin, Vice President of the Guaranty Trust Company of New York, Chairman; Thomas B. Gannett of Parkinson & Burr, Boston; George G. Henry of William Salomon & Co., New York; R. Walter Leigh of Maitland, Coppell & Co., New York; H. J. de Lanoy Meijer of Boissevain Brothers, Amsterdam, and Allen T. West of G. H. Walker & Co., St. Louis. The Secretary of the committee is Otis Everett of 140 Broadway. Cravath & Henderson are its counsel and the depositary is the Guaranty Trust Company of New York, which has appointed as its agents to receive deposits of bonds in other cities the St. Louis Union Trust Company of St. Louis, the Commonwealth Trust Company of Boston, and the Associatie Cassa of Amsterdam, Holland. A committee has been organized to act for the preferred and common stock of the company in connection with the reorganization.

This statement regarding the affairs of the firm was issued by the Board of Directors:

The receivership is a friendly one, the company itself having filed an answer admitting the allegations of the petition and joining in the application.

The receivership was rendered necessary by the fact that, although the company has been doing a fairly prosperous business, and has been earning considerably more than its interest charges, it will not be able to make the interest payment of about $235,000 and the sinking fund payment of $250,000 due Sept. 1 on its first lien twenty-year 5 per cent. bonds. It also lacks adequate working capital.

Apart from these bonds, of which $9,347,900 are outstanding, the company has no other indebtedness, except its current monthly accounts, aggregating about $115,000, for supplies and merchandise, its payrolls, and $1,150,000 of collateral trust notes, maturing on Oct. 2 next, which are amply secured by collateral.

The receivership of the International Steam Pump Company is not expected to involve any of its associated or subsidiary companies. Its principal associated companies are the Henry R. Worthington Company, the Blake & Knowles Steam Pump Works, and the Power and Mining Machinery Company, which have no indebtedness except to the parent company for advances, current monthly accounts, which they pay promptly, and amply secured notes given as part of the collateral for the International Steam Pump Company's collateral notes. It is expected that those companies will continue their operations without change.

The receivers expect to carry on the business of the International Steam Pump Company and continue to receive and execute orders without interruption, pending the reorganization, which it is expected will be promptly accomplished.

Organization of Company.

Benjamin Guggenheim was Chairman of the Board of Directors and President of the International Steam Pump Company from 1907 until his death in 1912. The present officers are: William Guggenheim, Chairman of the Board of Directors; and Leon P. Feustmann and C. Philip Coleman, Vice Presidents. The Directors are N. M. Clark, C. P. Coleman, Leon P. Feustmann, Thomas B. Gannett, S. R. Guggenheim, William Guggenheim, J. B. Haggin, George G. Henry, William C. Lane, Edgar M. Leventritt, H. Esk Moller, A. N. Parlin and T. M. Schumacher.

The company was incorporated in New Jersey in 1899, and acquired control of not less than two-thirds of the capital stock of the following corporations: Blake & Knowles Steam Pump Works, East Cambridge, Mass.; Deane Steam Pump Works, Holyoke, Mass.; Henry R. Worthington, Harrison, N. J.; Laidlaw-Dunn-Gordon Company, Cincinnati, O.; Snow Steam Pump Works, Buffalo, N. Y.; Holly Manufacturing Company, Buffalo, N. Y.; Clayton Air Compressor Works, New York.

In 1906 the company acquired the entire outstanding stock of the Power and Mining Machine Company, and in 1910 the plant of the Jeanesville Iron Works Company, makers of mine and oil pumps, of Hazleton, Penn., as well as the entire $500,000 capital stock of the Fred M. Prescott Steam Pump Works, makers of underground pumping engines and allied machinery, at West Allis, Wis. The company's majority interest in the stock of the Denver Rock Drill and Machinery Company, now the Denver Rock Drill Manufacturing Company, was disposed of in 1912-13.

The company has an authorized capital of $15,000,000 6 per cent. accumulated preferred and $24,000,000 common. The company and its subsidiaries have made annual sales of about $11,000,000. Dividends of 6 per cent. per annum were paid quarterly on the preferred stock from Aug. 1, 1899, to Feb. 1, 1913, inclusive, but none since. Dividends on the common stock at 4 per cent. were paid from July 1, 1901, to July 1, 1903. On Oct. 1, 1904, one-half per cent. was paid on the common stock and a similar dividend was declared in January and April, 1905. Since that time no dividends have been paid on the common stock.

The receivership brought to an end comprehensive plans announced by the Directors last April for the unification of operating properties with the view of greater economy. A step in this direction was to be taken by an exchange of stock of the Steam Pump Company for the outstanding shares of the H. R. Worthington Company and other allied concerns. The Directors were unable to decide whether or not to pay $237,150 interest due on the $9,486,000 sinking fund 5 per cent. bonds on Sept. 1, although it was stated that the money would be available if it seemed best to make the payment.

The company's stocks had been selling at receivership prices for months before the Stock Exchange closed. During June and July the common shares failed to get above 5⅛, and the average quotation was 3. In that period the preferred fluctuated between 10 and 12.

Oregon Wheat at Record Price.

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 26.—What was said to be the record price since 1908 for wheat in the Pacific Northwest was reached at noon today when 5,000 bushels were sold here for $1.06½. On account of the lack of export buying prices had changed little until today, when flouring mills were compelled to enter the market. Growers are holding back their grain and still higher prices are expected.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

Holders of certificates of deposit representing the 6 per cent. collateral gold notes of the Kansas City Railway and Light Company have been notified that interest due from March 1 to Sept. 1 will be paid on the latter date at the New York Trust Company.

Gold to the amount of $550,000 was withdrawn from the Sub-Treasury yesterday for shipment to Canada.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Initials on Shirts Make Them Dutiable as Embroidered.

The United Drug Company, Boston, was overruled yesterday by the Board of General Appraisers in a protest relating to lithographed leather boxes containing bottles of perfumery. The boxes were assessed as usual coverings at the rate of duty provided for perfumery. They were claimed to be properly dutiable at lithographed tins at 35 per cent.

Burhenne & Dorn claimed that Collector Malone should have made an allowance for breakage in importations of cordials. It appears that many of the bottles were broken upon receipt here with the consequence loss of the beverage. The Collector made no allowance for the breakage and took full duty on the number of bottles stated in the invoice. The importers argued before the board that they should not be called upon to pay duty on goods never received. In overruling the protest Judge Somerville holds that the Tariff act of 1909 prohibits any allowance for breakage.

The board decided that initials placed on wearing apparel for the purpose of identification of the garments constitutes "embroidery" as that word is used in the Tariff act of 1913. The goods in question consisted of men's shirts embroidered on the left-hand side below the bosom with initials of the purchaser.

Edward Benneche & Brother were sustained in a controversy dealing with the rate of duty on umbrella sticks. The Collector classified the articles as unmanufactured wood and exacted duty at 20 per cent. ad valorem under the old law. The articles were claimed free of duty as sticks for umbrellas in the rough, not further advanced than cut into lengths.

THE DYESTUFFS MATTER.

England May Yet Supply the Colorings for This Country.

In commenting on the possibility of a dyestuff famine, a factor in the men's wear market said yesterday that England may yet be placed in a position to prevent such a scarcity by adding to her present production of this commodity. The process of manufacturing alizarines, he pointed out, is more or less of an open secret in England and no difficulty should lie in the path of increasing the amount of these dyes produced. He recalled the fact that some years ago the German dyestuff combination was compelled to call upon the English dyestuff manufacturers to join in a movement for higher prices. Unable, however, to obtain their consent to the proposal, the Germans were forced to abandon the attempt.

The action of the English manufacturers in refusing to join such a combination resulted from the expressed determination of Pullar & Co. of Perth, a dyeing establishment employing about 6,000, to place their custom in German hands if the English dyestuff producers agreed to the plan. This would seem to indicate that the English industry was considered of sufficient importance to make their consent to such a price agreement necessary before they, the German combination, could put through its plan. Since then, the industry has no doubt grown considerably, and by the adoption of emergency measures should be able within a short time to supply at least a good portion of the mills' requirements.

RESTRICTS STOCK SALES.

Exchange Acts on Odd Lot Trades—Little Board's Plans.

The New York Stock Exchange took additional measures yesterday to restrict dealings to transactions carried on through the Clearing House. The special committee which is looking after the board's affairs decided that all members desirous of acting as dealers in odd lots of stock must follow regulations made by the Clearing House Committee. The regulations were not made public, but were available to Stock Exchange members on application.

The Consolidated Stock Exchange referred to a committee of six members the matter of reopening the board to trading in securities. The committee consists of President M. E. de Aguero, C. C. Perpall, J. Frank Howell, E. H. Heath, A. J. Marks, and L. J. Dietz. It is expected that announcement will be made within a day or two of a method of doing business which will not tend to unsettle the general financial situation.

COMMODITIES MARKETS

WHEAT.

Another sensational advance occurred in the wheat market, prices at one time showing gains of 7¼ to 8 cents a bushel, from the closing level of Tuesday, and, while part of the advance was lost under profit-taking, final quotations were 5⅛ to 6⅛c net higher. Sentiment was very bullish, on the belief that the war in Europe will continue for an indefinite period, some authorities predicting that hostilities may last two or three years, and in this event farming operations in Europe will be demoralized, as already it has been predicted that the acreage of Winter sown wheat will be much reduced. Since the beginning of the excitement over the situation in Europe prices of wheat in American markets have advanced 27 to 31 cents a bushel, but notwithstanding this phenomenal advance the trade at large is looking for further gains, as America is believed to be in a position to dictate prices, and some of the most enthusiastic bulls declare that $1.50 wheat is practically assured during the present season. In the local cash market quotations were largely nominal, owing to unsettled conditions, No. 2 red being quoted at $1.18¾, elevator, domestic; No. 2 hard, $1.18¾; No. 1 Northern Duluth, $1.28, and No. 1 Northern Manitoba, $1.26½, cost, insurance, and freight, Buffalo.

CORN.

The corn market was active and firm in sympathy with wheat and influenced by the general bullish excitement which prevailed in all the markets for foodstuffs. Offerings were light and prices advanced easily, closing with net gains of 1⅝ to 2c. In the local cash market prices were nominal, with No. 2 yellow quoted at 92½c, cost, insurance, and freight, to arrive, and strictly prime Argentine 92c, delivered.

OATS.

The market for oats again advanced to new high records on heavy buying, inspired by reports of further export demand and on comparatively light offerings from the interior. The local cash market was strong but largely nominal. Standard white was quoted at 54@54½c; No. 2, 54½@55c; No. 3, 53½@54c; No. 4, 53@53½c; ordinary clipped white, 53½@55½c; fancy clipped white, 55½@56½c, all elevator.

PROVISIONS.

The provision market was irregular early in the day, with prices showing an easier tendency owing, to liberal receipts of hogs and selling by packers; but toward the close a steadier tone prevailed as a result of the strength in grain. Receipts of hogs at Chicago were 25,000; estimated for Thursday, 17,000; Kansas City received 7,000, and Omaha, 7,500.

COTTON.

There was some rather vague talk in local cotton circles late yesterday that the Exchange might be reopened for dealings in the new Government contract only. No official statement was made, but it seemed to be generally believed that the Board of Managers of the Exchange had discussed such a possibility at their meeting during the afternoon, and that plans for such action were being seriously considered. There has recently been a good deal of agitation for an early reopening of the market in order to establish prices of one sort or another on which to base banking advances or forward business in goods, and some think that when the interest in old-style contracts is reduced to a minimum, the change to the Government contract might be effected with the least confusion.

COFFEE.

Conditions in the coffee trade seemed to be gradually improving, although they are yet far from normal. Liquidation through the voluntary committee has progressed favorably, and the volume of operations far exceeded expectations. Prices of contracts transacted through the Liquidating Committee yesterday were slightly higher, December selling at 7.25, and it was said that interest now is centred in that month, and when holders made sales of spot coffee they bought the December to remove their hedges. The local spot market was unchanged, with Rio 7s quoted at 7⅛c.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday, 10,479 packages. The late advance in fresh creamery was firmly maintained, but sellers made no effort to crowd prices any higher at the moment. There is fair trading. Creamery, extras, 31½@32c; firsts, 28@31c; seconds, 25½@27½c; thirds, 24@25c. State dairy, finest, 30@31c; good to prime, 27½@29c; common to fair, 23½@21c; process, extras, 26@26½c; firsts, 24½@25½c; lower grades, 22½@23½c; imitation creamery, firsts, 24@24½c; ladles, current make, firsts, 23½c; seconds, 22½@23c; lower grades, 21@22c; packing stock, current make, No. 2, 21@22c; lower grades, 19@20½c.

EGGS.—Receipts yesterday, 14,884 cases. The market maintains a firm tone on the very highest qualities of fresh gathered, of which the supply is small. There is also a prompt demand for good value cheap eggs, including good dirties and checks, but the medium qualities move slowly. The range of prices shows no material change. Storage eggs quieter, but generally held steady, although it is a little easier to buy than a week ago. Near by whites in light supply, but trade is quiet and selective, and much of the supply has to be shaded below top quotation. Fresh gathered, extras, per dozen, 28@30c; extra firsts, 26@27½c; firsts, 24½@25½c; seconds, 22@24c; thirds and poorer, 17@21c; dirties, No. 1, 20@21c; No. 2 and poorer, 17@19c; checks, good to prime, dry, 18½@19c; undergrades, 16@18c; refrigerator, special marks, fancy, charges paid, 27c; firsts, charges paid, 26@26½c; seconds, charges paid, 24½@25½c; undergrades, 20@24c. State, Pennsylvania, and near by, hennery whites, fancy, large, new laid, 34@35c; hennery whites, defective, 28@33c; gathered whites, as to size and quality, 27@33c. Western, gathered whites, 24@28c; State, Pennsylvania, and near by, hennery browns, 28@30c; gathered brown and mixed colors, [illegible].

NEW SUBWAY WORK CONGESTS TIMES SQ.

Traffic Hampered Greatly by Material Which Has Been Piled in the Streets.

SOME RELIEF IS PROMISED

Many Excavations Are Only for a Short Time and "Decks" Will Cover Stored Girders.

Thousands of persons who come to Times Square daily to read the war bulletins of THE NEW YORK TIMES, as well as automobilists, have found this congested district of the city, and particularly Seventh Avenue, between Forty-third and Forty-second Streets, obstructed by the excavations for the new Seventh Avenue Subway, begun several days ago. Obstructions on the sidewalks, and other extending from the curbs to the car tracks, made traffic almost impossible yesterday, except for the few vehicles that were able to get through the block by following the car tracks.

As a result of this serious congestion an investigation was made by Capt. Gilmartin in charge of Traffic Squad C, yesterday afternoon, and he received assurances from the engineer of the excavating contractors, digging that part of the subway between Forty-second and Forty-fifth Streets, that conditions would be relieved either today or tomorrow. He was informed that most of the building material now piled in the streets would be used in building decks over the excavations, so that the street, thus covered over with boards, would afford more room for passage.

Beginning on a line across Seventh Avenue, from the middle of the Times Building, an excavation from car tracks to curb, about fifty feet long, was opened on the east side of the street. A steam shovel was set up in this excavation, and the north passage of the street to the trolley tracks was closed. On the west side of the street a smaller opening was made in the pavement, right alongside of the southbound car tracks, and only enough room for the passage of one vehicle was left between this hole and the west curb. Consequently automobiles and other vehicles were forced to follow the car tracks except for the small passageway next to the west curb.

The smaller excavation on the west of the curb was made so that a gas main could be shut off, and the excavating company promised that it would be filled up, and the entire west side of the street opened for traffic this morning. In the excavation where the steam shovel was at work, the construction of the board deck was already under way, and it was said that this excavation would be partially covered over for the resumption of northbound vehicular traffic this morning. There will be an eight-foot clearance from the car tracks for vehicles on the east side of the street, while a high board fence, inclosing the excavation where there is to be a shaft, will encroach on the sidewalk on the west side of the Times Building, about six feet. About half of the pavement on the northwest corner of the Times Building is to be torn up and covered with a deck.

Another small excavation, extending three-quarters of the way across Forty-third Street, was made yesterday, so that a second gas main could be plugged, and this excavation will be closed as soon as possible. The gas mains in the vicinity of the excavation have been closed because of the danger of an explosion.

The sidewalks between Forty-fourth and Forty-third Streets and half way between Forty-third and Forty-second Streets have been obstructed on the west side by stacks of girders to be used in the Seventh Avenue Times Square subway station. This obstruction will stay for perhaps two years, until the material is needed in building the station. To facilitate passage along the streets board platforms have been constructed over these piles of girders, with steps at either end of the block.

The excavation of that part of the Seventh Avenue subway extending through Times Square will be completed within a year if the contractors make the progress in the work that they expect. However, they said that their contract gave them several months' leeway.

Obstructions are to be found all the way down Seventh Avenue, but much of the street has been covered with decks, and the decrease in traffic south of Times Square makes the problem less serious. The side streets are filled with building material and building machinery. This is true of Thirty-ninth and Fortieth Streets, bounding the Metropolitan Opera House on the south and north. Unless this material is removed to the excavations under way there before the beginning of the opera season in the middle of November, it is a question whether automobiles can get to the entrances of the opera house. That's another problem confronting Capt. Gilmartin.

The traffic in Times Square and throughout the theatrical district will be more than quadrupled in a few weeks when the theatrical season has opened, and Capt. Gilmartin is trying to devise a way to accommodate this traffic at night. As yet he has thought of no place for the hundreds of limousines and taxicabs that ordinarily wait in unbroken lines on either side of Seventh Avenue for the crowds coming from the theatres.

DELAYED CARGO RULINGS.

Only Two by English Courts Cover Cases of Interned Ships.

The National Association of Importers says in its Bulletin that it has been appealed to for advice by a number of shippers whose cargoes in steamers flying the German flag have been taken to ports to which they were not consigned because the owners or masters of the vessels were unwilling to risk capture. The association's counsel reports that the respective rights of the cargo owners and the steamship with reference to the freight moneys earned and the transport of the goods to port of destination do not appear to be covered by any decisions of the United States Supreme Court. The only decisions to which attention has been called are two by English courts growing out of the Franco-Prussian War. In one case the English court held that the apprehension of capture, founded on circumstances calculated to affect the mind of a master of ordinary courage, judgment and expense, would justify delay. In the other the court made this ruling:

A master of a North German ship, carrying a neutral cargo, who deviates from his course from fear of capture and enters a neutral port, is entitled to remain there while the risk lasts, and cannot be compelled to go on, even if the owner of the cargo wishes him to proceed. No right is given by the code to the owner of the cargo, except to withdraw from the contract on payment of distance freight, and the owner of the cargo must pay his share of the expenses of the detention up to the time of withdrawing. The master must have reasonable cause for his delay.

It is impossible to say how the courts of the United States would decide in the case, for instance, of a ship destined for New York putting into Boston. In the opinion of the association, if there was no expression in the contract to the contrary, it would seem that the freight earned from port of loading would be in proportion to entire freight to port of destination.

In the problem of recovering seized goods considerable burden is put upon the importer. It has been announced by the State Department that citizens of neutral nations owning shipments of goods on vessels seized by British warships may obtain possession of their property on proof of ownership by applying to the Procurator General, Treasury Chamber, Whitehall, London.

NEW CABLE REGULATIONS.

Cable messages to Germany, Austria, and Hungary are not accepted at all. All cables to Turkey must be written in French and to other countries where war conditions prevail in French or English.

McADOO TRANSFERS LYNCH.

Still Weighs Case of Acting Captain Accused of Discourtesy.

Chief Magistrate McAdoo yesterday transferred John Lynch, Acting Captain of court attendants, from the Morrisania to the Harlem Court. District Attorney Martin of the Bronx had preferred charges of discourtesy against Lynch, who is a brother-in-law of ex-Lieut. Charles Becker.

Lynch engaged in an altercation with Sheriff O'Brien when the negro George Webb was arraigned on a charge of kidnapping Katharine Larkin. He insisted that the prisoner be taken to court by the regular passage through the prisoners' pen, and Sheriff O'Brien wanted Webb to go another way to avoid danger of violence to the prisoner, against whom there was much indignation. Following the controversy in the court room, District Attorney Martin withdrew the Assistant District Attorney representing him in the court and preferred the charges against Lynch.

Chief Magistrate McAdoo, in transferring Lynch, said that he was still considering the case and that the transfer was made pending the conclusion of his investigation. Lynch had been at the Morrisania Court one year. He begins his duties in the Harlem Court today.

BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday...6@7 per cent. for the best names.
Tuesday.....6@7 " " " " "
The quotation is for six months' paper.

Milliners Still After Ribbons.

Local wholesale milliners are said to be combing the ribbon market for narrow ribbons with tinsel effects, stocks of which are getting very scarce here. They are also after velvet ribbons in sizes ranging from 12 to 16, these goods being well taken for the trimming of beaver hats. The bulk of the call is for dark browns, dark blues, and dark myrtles. Roman stripe ribbons are actively sought by the dry goods and manufacturing trades, being still very popular for use in ornamental belts and sashes.

Button Situation Serious.

Many shipments of foreign buttons are being held up on the other side by the war, and stocks in this country are being depleted rapidly. This is proving to be a big button season, the principal demand being for jet, fancy glass, and crystal effects, and Roman stripes in odd shapes and various sizes. The bulk of these buttons comes from Germany and Austria, though many of the novelty buttons are received from France. Most of the jet buttons come from Austria. Advances have been made on several lines here, but they are said not to be as large as warranted by the present condition of stocks.

Gray Goods Show Little Change.

There was little change in the local gray goods situation yesterday. Printcloths were quiet, but firm, the converters and printers still holding off until some definite news concerning the finishing situation comes forward. There is an almost total absence of bidding as a result. None of the printcloth sales made yesterday was large enough to be worthy of record. Reports from Fall River indicated that that market was reflecting conditions in this. There was a fair call for lawns and voiles in the fine goods end of the trade here, and a good inquiry was reported for specialty weaves. A few odd lots of 36-inch sheetings were taken by the bag trade during the day.

Taking Machine-Made Goods.

The inability of the manufacturers of women's underwear to obtain the usual French embroidered goods necessary for use in turning out their merchandise has made it necessary for them to take American machine-made goods for their purposes in many instances. As the situation now exists in the trade, the uncertainty of where to turn for the required fabrics has meant delay, and deliveries are reported as far behind specifications. This is as true of the infants' wear trade as of the underwear branch, since French materials are also used extensively in this business. Buyers realizing that it is a question of "first come, first served" have rushed manufacturers with orders.

Imported Velvets Moving Up.

Some sharp advances in the price of imported velvets have been made in this market of late, this being especially true of the German velvets from Crefeld and the French product from Lyons. Shipments of velveteens from England are also being held up on the other side. The better grades of velvets have been advanced the most sharply, prices on certain chiffon velvets having reached such a high point that buyers are almost in despair. It is reported here that many of the importers are sending out notices to their trade saying that their contracts for the present season cannot be filled. Domestic goods are also scarce here, from all accounts, and it is said that a great deal of speculative business is going on among the holders.

Silk Makers Much Disturbed.

If reports heard around the market are true, the silk makers are almost at their wits' end trying to find out where they stand for Spring. It is at least a fact that they are not overanxious to take orders for the current season, and for this reason, if not for any other, the Spring business that has been taken to date is much less than is normally the case. Reports are current that many of the mills are reducing the number of their active looms, keeping in action at this time only those that are necessary to get out Fall requirements. This is said to be due to the present scarcity of raw silk, as well as to the fact that the manufacturers are unwilling to book orders or make stock for Spring until they can be assured of getting prices commensurate with the cost of turning out the goods. The lack of a definite style tendency is also holding things back for the new season. Fall business shows no new feature, satins of the bright-face type still leading the demand by a good margin.

FUR WORKERS STRIKE.

Men in 400 Shops Walk Out—Negotiating New Scale.

The International Fur Workers' Union declared a general strike yesterday in 400 shops in this city against the members of the Mutual Protective Fur Manufacturers' Association, to enforce the signing of a new agreement proposed by the union.

About a week ago an agreement was signed between the officers of the union and the Associated Fur Manufacturers, another organization of employers, by which a strike of about 4,000 furriers employed by the members of that association was averted. The strike against the members of the first-named association started yesterday at 10 A. M.

On behalf of the Mutual Protective Fur Manufacturers' Association it was stated that the strike was only a partial one. A. School, Secretary of the association, said that not more than 1,500 were on strike.

"We do not regard the negotiations with the representatives of the furriers as definitely off," he said, "and will wait a day or so to see what will happen before we take action."

Julius Margolies, Chairman of the Strike Committee, says no further negotiations will be made until the Fur Manufacturers' Association, but the union will treat with the individual members.

DENOUNCE AUTO SEIZURES.

German Papers Demand Free Way for All Travelers.

The stopping and seizing of automobiles of tourists, reported by travelers returning from Germany, was only a war measure carried out as a defensive safeguard in the first few days of the war, according to the Deutsche Tageszeitung. In its issue of Aug. 11 the paper contains this proclamation, under the caption, "A Patriotic Duty!":

"A clear road for the automobile! There are no more hostile automobiles in the country. The mistaken zeal that thinks it can harm the foe by seizing foreign automobiles harms our own cause most. All repeated warnings seem not to help. It would be regrettable if the authorities were compelled to proceed with penal prosecutions against those who put obstacles in the way of free passage of our automobiles. Every stopping of an automobile must hereafter be regarded as a violation of the national duty."

California Forest Fires Raging.

GRASS VALLEY, Cal., Aug. 26.—Two hundred men are fighting fire in the Tahoe National Forest near the Nevada State line, and a call has been sent out to all neighboring forest preserves for help. More than one thousand acres of timber are reported to have been ravaged.

FLOATING HOTEL TO CLOSE.

Fifty Girls Living on Arbuckle Ship Saddened by the News.

Notices were posted yesterday in the Arbuckle Floating Hotel, which is the old ship Jacob A. Stamler, moored at the foot of East Twenty-third Street, that the hotel would be closed on Sept. 12 next. The fifty or more young women who live in the hotel were downcast when they read the notice. They were told by Frank D. Shelley, the manager of the hotel, that the sisters and heirs of the late John Arbuckle, who provided and opened the hotel, had decided to close it.

The sisters are Miss Marie Arbuckle of Pittsburgh, and Mrs. William Jamieson of New York. The Arbuckle Floating Hotel was opened to afford working girls an inexpensive and safe place in which to live. It has been popular for years. Last year it was announced that it would be closed, but upon petition by the young women living in it, Miss Arbuckle and Mrs. Jamieson consented to keep it open.

ROOSEVELT HOSPITAL FIRE

Quickly Put Out Without Damage—Patients Calm.

A bundle of straw used for lighting the boiler fires in the engine room of the Roosevelt Hospital caught fire last night and a call for the Fire Department was sent by Patrolman Beyer of the West Forty-eevsnth Street Police Station.

The engine room is below the surface of the grass covered yard between the Simms Operating Theatre, at Fifty-ninth Street and Ninth Avenue and the south wing of the building on the block below. The smoke rose throughout the Ninth Avenue side, but there was no panic among the patients as the blaze was speedily extinguished. There was no damage.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Private Dwelling on Upper West Side Purchased by Alexander Carmichel—The Leonari Apartment Figures in a $500,000 Lease—Edward M. Grout Buys Old Kings County Democratic Clubhouse.

With the exception of a private dwelling sale on the upper west side and several Bronx and suburban deals, the real estate market continued dull and inactive yesterday, with few signs of any immediate improvement.

Rumors of important deals pending were numerous, but the same rumors have been in circulation for the last two or three weeks. The majority of them never materialize, and the general opinion is that they hurt the market far more than they help it.

The west side transaction involved the four-story and basement dwelling 311 West Seventy-sixth Street, which was sold by Frederick J. Lisman to Alexander Carmichael, located between West End Avenue and Broadway, the structure occupies a lot 18 by 100.2. L. J. Phillips & Co. were the brokers in the sale.

$175,000 West Side Loan.

William A. White & Sons have placed a loan of $175,000 on the six-story elevator apartment house, 552 Riverside Drive, on a plot 75 by 174 by irregular.

The Leonari in a $550,000 Lease.

The Leonari, a thirteen-story apartment hotel on the southeast corner of Sixty-third Street and Madison Avenue, has been taken by the present tenant under a new lease for a term of ten years at a rental of about $55,000.

The property, which is owned by the Park Realty Company, in which the Hudson Realty Company and the United States Realty and Improvement Company are interested, covers a plot 100.5 by 83.6. Extensive improvements will be made to the structure at once.

Bronx Borough Sales.

W. E. & W. I. Brown, Inc., have sold for Regina Holstrom the one-family dwelling on a plot 50 by 100 on the west side of Byron Avenue, 50 feet north of 234th Street.

The Margaret Corner estate has sold to Nellie Wood a plot, 100 by 100 feet, on the west side of Jesup Avenue, 238 feet north of Boscobel Avenue. It was an all cash deal, the property, which is occupied by a frame dwelling, having been in the hands of the Corner estate for over a half century.

A Recent Buyer.

Jennie M. Kleckner is the buyer of a four-story dwelling at 158 West Seventy-sixth Street, recently sold by John R. Higbie.

E. M. Grout Buys Clubhouse.

In an action to foreclose a mortgage of $115,000 on the old Kings County Democratic Clubhouse in Schermerhorn Street, between State Street and Boerum Place, started by Edward M. Grout and William S. Hurley, the property was offered at public auction in the Brooklyn Real Estate Exchange yesterday.

The property was bid in by the plaintiffs for $1,750 over the mortgage.

Long Island.

The Lewis H. May Company has sold at Belle Harbor, L. I., for J. & H. Holler a plot of lots on the northeast corner of Oxford Avenue and Bayside Drive to J. & A. Rutledge; also a plot of lots on the southeast corner of Henley Avenue and Bayside Drive to the same purchasers, who will improve with homes for investment.

William Dalton of Manhattan has purchased from Thomas Burton a plot 75 by 100 feet on the west side of Fifth Street, Bayside, between Lawrence Boulevard and Broadway. A private dwelling will be erected on the site by the buyer.

New Jersey.

S. S. Walstrum-Gordon & Forman have sold for the Ridgewood Trust Company to Waller & Co., the business plot 42 by 90 feet adjoining the Thornton Building on Ridgewood Avenue, Ridgewood, N. J. The purchaser will improve immediately.

New East Harlem Warehouse.

The Turner Construction Company has been awarded a general contract by the C. Leicester Payne estate for the construction of a three-story service building for the Austin Nichols Company, 129th Street, between Third Avenue and the Harlem River, Hopkins & McEntee, architects.

The building, which will be of reinforced concrete and brick, 60 by 173, adjoins the new public market which will be opened by the City of New York at Third Avenue and 129th Street on Sept. 1.

Peck & Peck Lease 586 Fifth Avenue.

Peck & Peck have leased through the John N. Golding Company the building at 586 Fifth Avenue. The structure will be entirely remodeled and opened in the Spring of 1915.

Commercial Leases.

A. A. Hageman has leased the building 820 Sixth Avenue to the C. C. Bohm Electric Company for a long term of years.

Unger & Watson, Incorporated, have leased for the Lauramac Realty Company to Harry Jaffe, pharmacist, who formerly occupied a store at 595 Lexington Avenue, larger quarters at the southeast corner of Fifty-second Street and Lexington Avenue for a term of ten years.

Payson McL. Merrill Company, Incorporated, have leased the store at 1,198 Park Avenue, southwest corner of Ninety-fourth Street, to Charles A. Adam for his business as a grocer.

Herman Knepper Company has leased for a term of years for Gustav Thomas two five-story tenements, 4,036-4,038 Third Avenue; also, in connection with J. Clarence Davies, the store 358 East 149th Street, to the Bronx Hungarian Restaurant Company.

$260,000 Apartment House Lease.

The Wingood Realty Company has leased from the De Peyster Realty Company the Oxford and Cambridge, two seven-story apartment houses at 23 to 29 East 124th Street, on a plot 95 by 100 front. The lease is for a term of years at an aggregate rental of $260,000. Goodwin & Goodwin negotiated the lease.

Real Estate Notes.

Goodale, Perry & Dwight have purchased the up-town branch of the real estate business of Gibbs & Kirby at Broadway and 103d Street.

Henry J. Kantrowitz was associated with W. S. Baker in the sale of the six-story Atwater apartment house to be erected at 125 to 135 West 111th Street, reported in Wednesday's issue of THE NEW YORK TIMES.

The mortgage recorded Aug. 25 on 521 Union Avenue for $21,000, made by the Purchase Holding Corporation to John A. Braun as trustee, is to draw only 5 per cent. interest, and not 6 per cent., as reported.

There were no plans for new buildings filed in Manhattan yesterday.

The said order provides as follows:

On reading and filing the order of this Court made herein on the 6th day of February, 1913, and the mandate of the Circuit Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit herein filed in the office of the Clerk of this Court on the 6th day of June, 1914, and the order of this Court on said mandate filed in the office of said Clerk on the 9th day of July, 1914, and it appearing that by said order of February 6, 1913, it was provided that all claimants against Metropolitan Street Railway Company and against New York City Railway Company claiming preference in payment out of the estates of said companies, respectively, should file statements of claims to such preference with the Special Master therein named on or before March 15, 1913, that such claimants might present typical cases and, until further order of the Court, no claim for preference represented by a typical case need be presented to the Special Master, that no such claimant who failed to file as therein provided a claim on or before March 15, 1913, should be entitled to assert a preference in the assets of either of said companies unless the claim of such claimant should be entitled to a preference under the decisions of the Court upon one of the typical cases so presented and it further appearing that pursuant to said order of February 6, 1913, typical cases were presented and that the said Circuit Court of Appeals has determined which of said typical cases are and which are not entitled to preference in payment out of the assets of Metropolitan Street Railway Company and New York City Railway Company, respectively, and the Court being fully advised in the premises, it is, upon motion of Masten & Nichols, solicitors for Douglas Robinson, as Receiver of Metropolitan Street Railway Company, and of Dexter, Osborn & Fleming, solicitors for William W. GLYNN AND HERRICK, DEMOCRATIC SLATE

Platform Says Legislature Should Meet Only Once in Two Years.

CULLEN HEADS DELEGATES

Conference Names 15 for Constitutional Convention—Suffragists Get Little—Harmony Prevails.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 26.—The Democratic conference today adopted a platform containing generous indorsement of the Administrations of President Wilson and Gov. Glynn, and embodying pledges for a scheme of far-reaching structural reform in the Executive and administrative departments of the State Government in case of a Democratic victory this Fall. The conference also picked out fifteen candidates for delegates at large to the Constitutional Convention; but refrained from making any reference or suggestion with regard to other nominations.

There were three sessions of the conference. Harmony prevailed, and all the conferees parted upon final adjournment this afternoon with the best of feeling. The only differences voiced in the assembly arose over the short-ballot plank. Ex-Speaker Alfred E. Smith of the Assembly and Congressman John J. Fitzgerald of Brooklyn, both opposed certain features of this plank as going too far in the centralization of power to be in keeping with good Democratic doctrine. It never came to a line-up, however, for Tammany Leader Murphy had counseled moderation on the part of his spokesmen, and the changes they urged were so slight that the Platform Committee declared its willingness to accept them. The platform was then adopted by unanimous vote

A salient feature of today's gathering was the speech made by William F. McCombs, Chairman of the National Committee. Mr. McCombs apparently directed his remarks against the Hennessy-Roosevelt movement, though the name of either of these candidates was not mentioned. He urged Democratic harmony in this State this Fall, and emphasized the duty of every Democrat to accept the results of the direct primaries. By implication, too, he resented as unfair and unjustified any attempt to drag in the name of President Wilson to promote a factional fight in the Democratic Party of this State.

"This is not the time for petty political intrigues or backstairs conspiracies," said Mr. McCombs. "This is the time for conservative Democratic politics in the open and in the clear."

Mr. McCombs was cheered to the echo at the close of his speech. It was a volcanic burst of enthusiastic approval which was wholly surprising in view of the air of apathy and dejection which had marked the conference preliminaries.

Organization is for Glynn.

The only outspoken opposition to the nomination of Gov. Glynn was voiced by George E. Noeth, Chairman of the Monroe County committee, who, it is understood, has made common cause with the promoters of the Hennessy-Roosevelt movement. Some other county Chairmen and members of the State Committee, who are openly hostile to continued Tammany domination of the up-State organizations, told their friends that they had no intention of making war on Gov. Glynn either in the primaries or in the general election. Many such men, however, expressed the belief that the Governor was not the strong candidate of whom the Democrats stood in need this Fall in order to win.

While no action was taken by the conference with regard to candidates on the State ticket, it is the consensus of opinion here that there will be no opposition to Gov. Glynn in the primaries outside of the Hennessy movement. James W. Gerard, United States Ambassador to Germany, was more generally spoken of as a candidate for United States Senator by men whose word carries weight in the Democratic counsels than at any time prior to the withdrawal of William R. Hearst. It was freely admitted, however, that either National Chairman McCombs or State Chairman Osborn, should either of them actively aspire to the nomination, would have claims that should be recognized.

Mitchell May will be a candidate for renomination as Secretary of State. William Sohmer is a candidate for renomination as Controller. So far as the organization is concerned each will have the field to himself. Objections from Gov. Glynn alone, it was said, might interfere with the chances of State Engineer John A. Bensel for renomination. James A. Parsons of Steuben, who is to be appointed Attorney General by Gov. Glynn, is a candidate for that office and has been assured of support in the primaries. State Senator Walter R. Herrick of New York came to the front as a promising candidate for Lieutenant Governor today, while it is thought that the nomination for State Treasurer will go to Harlow C. Curtis of Erie County.

Cullen Heads the Delegates.

These men were selected in the conference today as candidates for the nomination for delegate at large to the Constitutional Convention:

Edgar M. Cullen of Kings, John A. Dix of Washington, D-Cady Herrick of Albany, William F. McCombs of New York, William Church Osborn of Putnam, Martin W. Littleton and Michael F. McGoldrick of Kings, Samuel Untermyer and Herman Ridder of New York, James M. Lynch of Onondaga, Robert B. Van Cortland of Westchester, Morgan J. O'Brien of New York, John F. Murtagh of Chemung, Thomas B. Lockwood of Erie, and T. Harvey Ferris of Oneida.

The candidates were selected by a committee of seven, of which Charles E. Tremain was Chairman. The other members were Congressman John J. Fitzgerald, George R. Van Namee, Robert F. Wagner, Harry P. Keith, E. E. Perkins, and A. D. Morgan.

The sessions of the conference were held in the ballroom of the Grand Union Hotel. They were attended by about 200 Democrats of prominence, a majority of whom, as members of either the State Committee, the Executive Committee, or the Board of County Chairmen, took active part in the deliberations. There were many spectators, including fifty or more advocates of woman suffrage.

At the morning session Chairman Osborn's speech bristled with praise of President Wilson, which evoked hearty applause. Eulogistic references to the administration of Gov. Glynn were even more warmly applauded. Mr. Osborn outlined the plan for Executive reforms recommended in the platform, and declared that the time had come for the Democratic Party to "set the administrative house of the State in order" by eliminating the chaos which now prevails in the departments at Albany and focusing both power and responsibility in the Governor.

Osborn Eulogizes Wilson.

The first outburst of applause came when Mr. Osborn referred to President Wilson as a man "who combines in his public career broad sympathy with the current of popular thought—a philosophical mind to translate that thought into intelligent action and the administrative ability to secure the enactment of the people's will."

Tammany Leader Murphy in a natty suit of gray, and accompanied by Public Service Commissioner Cram, entered the ballroom as Mr. Osborn was getting toward the end of this eulogistic reference to President Wilson. He was established in his seat in time to take part in a half-hearted fashion in the applause which rang through the room.

"To Woodrow Wilson," Mr. Osborn went on, "we owe our present happy state of peace in contrast to the horrors of war abroad."

The Republican State Convention last week, Mr. Osborn characterized as a "nice old-fashioned affair."

"They called us thieves and pirates to their hearts' content," he said, "but they left the issue of bossism where they found it when the convention began."

D-Cady Herrick said that as he realized a fight to compel consideration of candidates in the conference would be useless, he had decided not to make the motion. There was lots of applause. The rest of the forenoon session was devoted to the reading of the platform by Martin W. Littleton. A summary is given elsewhere.

McCoombs for Harmony.

Chairman McCombs of the National Committee made a "harmony speech." He said there was more at stake in the coming election than merely the success of the party in this State. The constructive programme of President Wilson would suffer if a Democratic majority to the House of Representatives was not returned to insure effective support for his policies.

"The Democratic Party in this State is unreservedly committed to the principle of the direct primary," Mr. McCombs continued. "The undisputed purpose of this law is to give every man a fair and equal chance to secure party nominations. The law is contrary in spirit to the use of any oppressive power which may be exercised by those holding any political office or leadership. I am assured that no such attempt will be made.

"Those Democrats who even suggest that they will not support candidates selected by the popular primary method of voting in this State do not reveal that generous spirit of conciliation and assent to the wisdom of the majority which is in itself one of the most important tenets of the Democratic Party. If there be difficulties in the situation either before or after the primaries I offer to the Democrats in this State my undivided services."

Women Are Pleased.

Before the platform was adopted Speaker Smith urged an amendment to the woman suffrage plank. The plank is a short one and reads as follows:

"The Democratic Legislature redeemed the party platform of 1912 with regard to woman suffrage. We recognize the widespread interest in this question and pledge ourselves to the submission of a constitutional amendment to the voters of the State, either through the act of the next Legislature or of the Constitutional Convention."

Mr. Smith urged that in addition to the "widespread interest" the "growth" of the movement should be recognized, and this word was added without any objection. The woman suffragists in the hall, who had received the reading of the plank by Martin Littleton at the morning session with their "silence treatment," when the amendment was proposed and accepted broke into wild applause. Both Mrs. Harriot Stanton Blatch and Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, leaders of the rival suffrage movements, in statements tonight expressed their satisfaction with the treatment they had received from the Democrats as compared with that given by the Republicans last week.

BIENNIAL ALBANY SESSIONS.

Democratic Platform Recommends Many Changes.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 26.—The Democratic State platform indorses the Wilson and Glynn Administrations; declares for the short ballot; proposes that the Legislature meet only every two years; opposes doctrines declared to be destructive of representative government, although not mentioning specifically such measures as the initiative and referendum; denounces the recall of Judges and reviews the accomplishments of the present State Administration.

The Woman Suffragists were defeated in their fight for an outright declaration for suffrage, as the platform simply reaffirms the stand of the party in 1912 for submission of the question to popular vote.

No mention is made of the appointment instead of the election of Judges, the tentative plank for this change having been stricken out.

"The wisdom and patriotism of Woodrow Wilson and the work of Congress are commended, with especial reference to the Administration's Mexican policy, the banking law, the tariff law and anti-trust legislation," reads the platform.

"No more serious or dangerous attack has been made upon our institutions," the platform continues, "than the proposition for the recall of Judges and judicial decisions, thus appealing to the fears and striking at the independence of all judicial officers."

The platform declares for State rights, including control of water power and other natural resources.

Gov. Glynn is commended for "the dignity, ability, and fearlessness with which he has discharged the duties of his position." Then follows a detailed indorsement of the acts of the Glynn Administration, including the labor and compensation laws and the State banking laws. The party pledges itself to make such changes in the primary law as may be necessary. The Democratic Party, it is asserted, has corrected abuses in the Highway Department.

The platform declares for a progressive policy for development of water power resources, a unified plan of prison administration, further legislation for an impregnable civil service system and elimination of dangerous grade crossings. The liquor question is touched on in these words:

"We are opposed to all sumptuary and drastic legislation interfering with personal liberties of the citizen."

The short ballot plan is taken up under the label of "executive reform." Advocates of a radical stand on this subject lost their fight, for the platform declares for the election of Attorney General and Controller as well as Governor and Lieutenant Governor. Absolute power of removal is advocated for the Governor, who, it is said, should also have control over the various boards and commissions.

Home rule should be conferred to the fullest extent, it is said, upon cities, "and, the Legislature thus relieved of the burden of local organization, there need be only biennial sessions, except in cases of emergency." The platform recognizes the widespread interest in woman suffrage, and pledges the party to submission of a constitutional amendment to the voters through the act of the next Legislature, or, failing that, through the Constitutional Convention.

A change in the situation is recommended to permit a profit to the State to be derived from the scientific preservation and cultivation of forests, at the same time protecting them from exploitation by private interests.

General charges of corruption are being made by the opponents of the party, it is said, "but no specific instance of any corruption or maladministration is given or official named. We challenge our adversaries," reads the platform, "to furnish the evidence showing that any State official had been guilty of malfeasance or corruption in office, and we promise that such official will be vigorously prosecuted."

STANCHFIELD FOR U. S. SENATE

Lawyer's Friends in Congress Think He'd Be a Good Candidate.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Some Democrats of the New York delegation here are considering the name of John B. Stanchfield of New York City and Elmira as the Democratic candidate for United States Senator. His friends say he meets the geographical needs of the situation in an unusual manner, as his business in New York City and his residence in Elmira put him in close touch with both the upper and lower parts of the State.

Geographical considerations are against James W. Gerard, American Ambassador at Berlin, even if he wanted the nomination, which his friends are inclined to doubt.

ROOSEVELT'S FOOT ON SULZER'S BOOM

Colonel Says He's Neutral, but Leaders Take Cue from Him and Declare War.

TALK NOW OF DAVENPORT

Will Get Behind Him if No Better Appears and Proceed to Crush the "Sulzer Peril."

Special to The New York Times.

OYSTER BAY, L. I., Aug. 26.—A bitter fight will be made by the State Committee of the Progressive Party to prevent William Sulzer from obtaining the Progressive nomination for Governor at the primaries. Col. Roosevelt remained neutral today when the name of Sulzer was mentioned, but there was plenty of evidence of opposition to the deposed Governor from other quarters.

It was stated authoritatively that Sulzer would not be allowed to romp away with the nomination at the primaries. Frederick M. Davenport probably will be placed in the field against him, and unless the situation undergoes another complete change, the party organization will be behind the anti-Sulzer candidate.

Sulzer's visit to Col. Roosevelt at Sagamore Hill aroused resentment among the Progressive leaders, as the Colonel learned when he went to New York today to talk things over at the National Headquarters in the Forty-second Street Building. One of the first to call upon him there was William H. Childs, Chairman of the Steering Committee of Twenty-One. He dropped in to talk things over before he left for the State Committee meeting at Utica. Childs brushed the Sulzer aspiration aside with scant consideration, and told the Colonel bluntly that he was opposed to Sulzer and would do everything he could to defeat him. He said he felt sure that was the opinion of practically every member of the Committee of Twenty-one.

Hugh Gordon Miller, a member of the State Committee, called to ask Roosevelt to run. He thought at first that it might not be a bad idea to get behind Sulzer if the Colonel would't be a candidate, but after his chat with Roosevelt and other leaders he said he was satisfied that efforts to get Roosevelt into the race were useless and he also changed his mind about Sulzer.

"Of course the Progressives couldn't stand for the nomination of Sulzer," he said. "It wouldn't do at all. We will have to get behind some straight Progressive."

Another evidence of the feeling against Sulzer was found in the reception given to "Suspender Jack" McGee, who stampeded the convention in 1912 for Oscar Straus for Governor. McGee remained at headquarters nearly five hours in an attempt to get an interview with Roosevelt and urge him to accept Sulzer. He talked for a time with the newspaper men, but no one else would listen to him. Finally he left without seeing any of the leaders. He made the threat that he might go to Utica and try to stir things up a bit there.

When he left for Oyster Bay at 5 o'clock Col. Roosevelt had a pretty good idea of what the leaders thought of the Sulzer candidacy. He was asked if he would support Sulzer if he made good his claim that he could carry the primaries.

"I will not answer any questions about the situation," he said. "I have made my effort, and, as things are now, I will not interfere with the primary in any way. I have no doubt that the Progressives will act with entire wisdom in naming the ticket."

Col. Roosevelt decided not to attend the meeting at Utica, which he was informed would be purely a committee meeting. The danger of a Sulzer boom being started at the meeting, it was said, had much to do with the decision not to hold a mass convention.

The leaders will do everything in their power to kill off without scruple any effort to start a Sulzer boom there. It is understood that they consider Sulzer's assertion that he is in full command of the situation as presumptuous and something not to be tolerated for a minute. Childs and other leaders are for Davenport unless some stronger candidate can be found to head off the Sulzer peril.

NO SULZER BOOM AT UTICA.

Davenport, Hotchkiss, and Hamlin on the Ground.

Special to The New York Times.

UTICA, N. Y., Aug. 26.—Two hundred Progressives from various parts of the State are in Utica tonight, preparing for the State Committee meeting tomorrow. Fifty came in two special cars from New York City. Among them were William H. Hotchkiss, Bainbridge Colby, and William H Childs, Chairman of the Committee of Twenty-one. Twenty came from Buffalo with Chauncey D. Hamlin, acclaiming him as their candidate for Governor, and fifty more are coming from the same city in the morning. Twenty came from Herkimer County, standing solid for ex-Senator F. M. Davenport of Utica. It is expected that 500 will be present at the meeting in the morning.

Mr. Hamlin was the only avowed candidate for Governor at the gathering tonight.

"My friends are going to work hard for me," he said, "and I will abide by the results. If the committee sees fit to select another man I will support him loyally. I had hoped that Senator Hinman and a full citizens' ticket would be chosen, but Mr. Hinman is out of it now and we will try hard for a strong ticket." Mr. Hamlin said he had not consulted Col. Roosevelt about his candidacy.

Mr. Hotchkiss and Mr. Davenport both declined to state whether they are candidates or not.

"I have stated my position privately to many friends," said Mr. Hotchkiss, "but to no one publicly. My friends know where I stand—squarely for the best interests of the party. I believe the committee tomorrow will be able to suggest a full ticket and a strong one to the voters of the State. We believe in doing that. We are Hughes men in our stand on primaries, and have heretical views in this matter. Our platform will be short, about 500 words, and will be right bang on State issues and squarely against machine government."

State Chairman Theodore Douglas Robinson declined to give his preference as to the candidate for Governor. His friends said he was working with much zeal for F. M. Davenport.

"We will stand by any man chosen," said Davenport's friend, "and if our man is not named for Governor we will try to have him selecedt for Lieutenant Governor."

Sixteen members of the Committee of Twenty-one are here, and they went into a secret session shortly after 11 o'clock. The session would probably last most of the night, they said.

The sub-committee appointed to select delegates at large to the Constitutional Convention announced that it would name three labor men and two women out of fifteen delegates. It was said the men would be John Mitchell and Homer D. Call, with one other prominent labor leader. The names of the women have not been agreed upon. The committee will report tomorrow.

The sentiment among the delegates seemed to favor Senator Davenport for Governor, with Hotchkiss a strong second.

KLINE OUT FOR GOVERNOR.

Ex-Mayor Says He Can Harmonize Republicans.

Ardolph L. Kline of Brooklyn, who was Mayor of New York from the death of Mayor Gaynor until Mayor Mitchel took office on Jan. 1 last, announced yesterday that he is a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor. His petitions are being circulated. In a statement he says:

"I find that the candidates who have been aspiring to this nomination, by their course in having a convention called at Saratoga Springs, have caused greater differences in the Republican Party than existed before. The actions of the candidates at that convention were of such a character as to arouse intense antagonism to their candidacy. I find that the methods adopted in choosing representatives of the party to sit in that convention were of a character, to state it mildly, un-Republican.

"It seems to me to be the consensus of opinion that the convention was called for the purpose of overriding the primary law of the State, and the action in tacitly indorsing candidates for the various offices of the State amounts to a nullification of that law. My friends have expressed the belief that I can harmonize the differences in the Republican Party as the candidate for the Governorship. These friends have made no demands upon me. I have not been asked to barter the patronage of the office of Governor, nor have I been asked, if elected, to show special favor to them or to others.

"I go into this race with good will to all and malice toward none, intending to do the right as God gives me to see the right."

O'Brien of Onondaga, and Gustavus A. Rogers of New York.

The committee which made the selection was made up of Sheriff D. Henry Brown of Suffolk, Milton E. Gibbs of Rochester, Judge Roscoe Irwin of Kingston, Verne M. Bovie of Westchester, Bert Hanson and Stuart G. Gibboney of New York.

BARNES SCARES HINMAN.

Candidate Hears State Chairman Seeks Re-election.

A statement issued yesterday at the Hinman headquarters said State Chairman William Barnes is making every effort to select candidates for Republican State Committeemen who will support his re-election as Chairman, despite the fact that Mr. Barnes declared he is not a candidate.

"This determination of Barnes to continue his disastrous domination of the party organization, regardless of effect," says the statement, "has aroused Republicans to the vital necessity of following Senator Hinman's lead in making a determined fight, not only against Whitman and other Barnes candidates, but against Barnes himself as a candidate for re-election as Chairman."

Osborn Won in Michigan.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 26.—Victory in the Republican gubernatorial contest which attracted most attention in Michigan's primary election yesterday, was conceded tonight to ex-Gov. Charles S. Osborn. He will have as his opponents in the Fall campaign, Gov. Woodbridge N. Ferris, Democrat, and Henry R. Pattengill, Progressive.

SEIZE ARMS ON CUBAN SHIP.

Authorities Act on Complaint of Insular Government.

In response to complaints by representatives of the Cuban Government regarding the smuggling of arms and ammunition by members of steamship crews, Inspector Albert C. Hokenson boarded the Munson liner Olinda yesterday, just as she was about to sail for Cuba, and found seven revolvers and 1,200 cartridges, which he was told had come from Samuel Feldman's place, 11 South Street.

When Hokenson arrested Feldman he found three revolvers in the house, and later arraigned him before Judge Hazel, with four members of the Olinda's crew, on the charge of conspiracy to place cartridges on a vessel insecurely packed and unlabeled.

Later Arthur Rosenbaum of 12 South Street was arrested, charged with having guns on his premises and violating the Sullivan law. The Cubans were paroled, and Feldman gave $2,500 cash bail.
